Quebec Asking Too Much—PM

A Day of Signs And Roses for PM

By CLEMENT CHAPPLE

A loud military band ensured a good turnout of parade-watchers this morning for Canada's first ministers as they motored in open cars through downtown Victoria before entering the fourth session of the constitutional conference.

Riding alone in the back seat of an aqua Cadillac, Prime Minister Trudeau waved good-naturedly at people — mostly shop-keepers and tourists — who gathered on street corners.

One elderly lady on Fort brandished her umbrella like a rifle in the prime minister's direction and Trudeau acknowledged by shrinking into the collar of his suit.

But later on Yates the insult was softened when a young lady in a blue jump suit ran out to the prime minister's car and handed him a red rose.

Trudeau already wore a customary red carnation in the lapel of his blue suit.

Other than a few quiet comments along downtown streets there was little adverse reaction to the presence of the prime minister and the premiers.

However, in front of the Legislative buildings a small group waved women's liberation posters and chanted slogans.

One of them tried to break through a RCMP cordon, waiving an envelope containing a copy of a brief, but failed to deliver it to Trudeau.

They then settled for chanting "Implement the Status of Women report."

Beside them a group of pro-confederation demonstrators of about 20 stood silently behind the police cordon.

In all, there were about 200 people gathered in front of the Buildings.

SHAKE HANDS

As the premiers left their cars they gathered briefly to shake hands and pose for photographers before heading directly into the legislative chamber to begin the session at almost exactly the scheduled 10:30 a.m.

The motorcade started at The Empress, threatened by a light shower, but wended its way on a small circuit of the downtown area under increasingly sunny skies.

Besides the lady who delivered the rose here were several men and women who ran on to the street to shake Trudeau's hand.

At one point the driver of a green Volkswagen gestured at the prime minister, complaining about the traffic holdup caused by the parade.

The p.m. returned with his famous shrug.

Amend BNA Act Now—Trudeau

By BRUCE YEMEN

Prime Minister Trudeau today warned the constitutional conference that provincial control of income security programs would hurt the poor in the poorer provinces, including Quebec.

He also warned that failure to agree on a formula to patriate the Canadian constitution could mean it would be "long before we find another occasion" for such an agreement.

The dual warning made clear federal opposition to Quebec demands for full control of social policy — including income security programs — in return for agreement on an amending formula for the constitution.

Trudeau called for a full effort by the conference to achieve an amending formula to remove "once and for all the last remnant of a condition that is not worthy of Canada as a free and independent country."

Bringing the constitution back to Canada and out from control of the British Parliament is "the way to ensure that we can progress in the years ahead," Trudeau said in his opening statement.

The prime minister said the federal government "is not taking a negative attitude" toward changes in programs such as social policy.

But he said that provincial control of income security payments such as that proposed by Quebec would "erode" federal income security programs.

This would be caused partly by the reluctance of federal taxpayers to pay taxes to Ottawa to support social policy programs controlled by other provinces than their own, he said.

"The old and the poor in the wealthier provinces might do as well in such circumstances as if the federal government were making the payments, but in other provinces, including Quebec, the tax base would not support as good income security benefits payments as Parliament could provide," Trudeau said.

Rush Constitution, Get to Jobs—WAC

Premier Bennett today called for swift approval of a constitution amending formula to enable the constitutional conference to get down to the "most urgent need confronting the nation today."

The provision of jobs, he said, is a more important priority than the constitution but B.C. agrees with the need for a formula to amend and patriate the constitution.

Bennett, in welcoming the delegates to the conference, wasted little time in renewing his attacks on Ottawa for what he called unfair treatment of the province.

B.C. is "unalterably opposed" to equalization payments by Ottawa to provincial governments, he said, adding that direct payments to individuals would be more effective.

2.4% OVER 1970 FIGURE

Cost of Living Continues Up

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The consumer price index, reflecting the cost of living in Canada, rose by half a point in May, bringing the overall index to 2.4 per cent above the figure for a year ago.

The index, based on 1961 prices equalling 100, rose to 132.7 from 132. in April. It was 129.6 in May of 1970.

This means that it cost $13.27 last month to buy what $13.22 would have bought in April, or what $12.96 would have bought in May last year.

COST $10 IN 1961

The same package of goods and services of equivalent quality cost $10 in 1961. That is the basis of the price index, which is geared to the purchasing habits of average urban families.

The bureau said all the principal components of the price index rose, with the biggest increases in food, transportation, health and personal care, and tobacco and alcohol. The latter rose to reflect higher beer prices.

Of special significance was an acceleration in the rate of price increases. In percentage terms, last month's over-all index was 2.4 per cent ahead of a year earlier. In the last several months, this year-over-year rate of increase has been less than two per cent.

Most economists regard an annual rate of price increase of two per cent or less as generally consistent with price stability. The bureau noted, however, that the May index indicated prices had already risen 2.2 per cent this year. Early in 1970, prices were climbing 4.5 to five per cent a year.

The index is based on a monthly survey of retail prices of more than 300 goods and services representative of the purchases of urban, low to medium-income families.

Because it now cost $13.27 to buy $10 worth of consumer goods and services at 1961 prices, the consumer dollar has withered away in purchasing value by 25 cents in 10 years. On the basis of the old consumer price index formerly based on 1949 prices equalling 100, it would have cost $17.14 last month to buy $10 worth of 1949 goods and services.

DBS has no exactly parallel index of family incomes, but the latest available data on average weekly wages and salaries paid in a broad cross-section of industry showed $131.59 a week was paid in February, compared with $130.82 in January and $124.14 in February a year ago.

That showed an increase of six per cent in average weekly wages and salaries in the year, while in that same period—the 12 months to February this year — the consumer price index rose 1.7 per cent. In the three months since then, consumer prices have risen a further 1.4 per cent.

CANADIAN ENVOY FAR EAST EXPERT

SEABORN
. . . warned Hanoi

J. Blair Seaborn, (left) the Canadian diplomat reported to have carried out a secret mission on behalf of the United States to Hanoi in 1964, was a member of the International Control Commission, a neutral truce team in Southeast Asia.

Seaborn later, as the head of the Eastern division of Canada's external affairs department, was involved in negotiations with Peking which led to diplomatic recognition of mainland China.

His 1964 secret mission to Hanoi apparently was to issue a warning that U.S. patience was "growing thin" with North Vietnam following the Gulf of Tonkin incident.

★

Neutral Canada Carried Threat For Pentagon

WASHINGTON (WP) — The Johnson administration planned major American military action against North Vietnam nearly five months before the 1964 Tonkin Gulf incident, according to secret government documents made public Sunday by the New York Times.

These plans were made, the documents show, at a time when the United States already was directing clandestine sabotage operations in the north.

U.S. Sends Seaborn

Two months before the attack on two American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin on Aug. 2 and 4, 1964, the administration sent a Canadian diplomat, J. Blair Seaborn, on a secret mission to Hanoi where he is quoted as telling Premier Pham Van Dong that "in the event of escalation (of the war) the greatest devastation would result for the D.R.V. (North Vietnam) itself."

It was the Tonkin incident — called totally unprovoked by the administration — which led Congress on Aug. 7 to pass a resolution declaring that the United States was "prepared, as the president directs, to take all necessary steps, including the use of armed force," to assist South Vietnam. It was on this resolution that President Johnson subsequently leaned heavily to widen the war.

The documents are part of a vast collection of records and comments assembled under the direction of then Secretary of Defence Robert S. McNamara. The bulk of the documents disclosed thus far by the Times were of military origin but included some White House and State Department papers that reached the Pentagon. Other documents were only alluded to or quoted from in the newspaper's story.

Memorandum Detailed Aims

A national security action memorandum of March 17, 1964, presumably the result of a presidential decision, set out both the administration's political aims and the basis for its military planning. A cable sent three days later by the president to Henry Cabot Lodge, then the American ambassador in Saigon, illuminates his intentions.

The memorandum said that "we seek an independent non-communist South Vietnam" but "do not require that it serve as a western base or as a member of a western alliance. South Vietnam must be free, however, to accept outside assistance as required to maintain its security."

Repeating language from a McNamara memorandum of March 16 to the president (language in part drawn in turn from a memorandum to McNamara on Jan. 22 from the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Maxwell Taylor) the NSC document reflects the prevailing belief in what former President Eisenhower had called the

COSMONAUTS CAST BALLOTS FROM SPACE

MOSCOW — Three Russian cosmonauts Sunday became the first to cast a ballot from space — voting the straight Communist Party line in the U.S.S.R.'s parliamentary elections.

Cosmonauts Georgi Dobrovolsky, Vladislav Volkov and Viktor Parsayev voted "for the candidates of the inviolable bloc of Communists and non-party members. We vote for the wise foreign and domestic policy of our Communist party, for the implementation of the grandiose plans of the new five-year economic plan."

Bourassa Wants Rights Defined

By PETER McNELLY

Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa said an amending formula by itself is not sufficient to guarantee the right kind of revised constitution Canada requires.

A better definition of federal and provincial responsibilities under a framework of "decentralized federalism" is the only way to protect the country's regional differences, he said in his opening statement.

Provinces should be assured they will have the money to match their responsibilities under a new constitution, Bourassa told the conference. In addition, he said the provinces will require increased power over cultural affairs.

Some people believe Quebec is seeking special privileges and wishes to withdraw from participating in the nation's cultural affairs, Bourassa said. But this is not ture.

FRENCH CANADA

"We are trying to enrich Canada through French culture. Quebec's position must be understood in that light. Quebec wishes to affirm a true Canadian identity.

Amendment of the British North America Act to provide a "greater freedom of action in cultural affairs," Bourassa said, is necessary.

Quebec also supports a guaranteed income as the only way to meet the needs of the poor, he said. To criticize equalization payments, as Premier Bennett has done, Bourassa said, is to be "shortsighted" on the issue of economic disparities among the provinces.

In conclusion, Bourassa told the conference constitutional reform must proceed to secure a federal system which serves all citizens.

"A constitution does not exist for governments, it must be put at the service of the citizens."

Ontario Premier William Davis said the time has come to act upon specific ways of amending the constitution.

Whatever changes are necessary, he said, should be effected. Ontario's position at this conference will be to work for ratification of the amending formula.

Davis said Ontario intends to discuss constitutional reform from the viewpoint of what will be beneficial to the entire country. Canada should build a new constitution around its diversities, both economic and cultural, Davis said.

Ontario sees federalism as a "system that permits different governments to provide the services most needed in their parts of the country," Davis said. This conference is the first phase in the process of redrawing the constitution.

After an amending formula has been agreed upon, he said, the second phase of constituional review will be the "redistribution and most effective matching of revenues and responsibilities" among the provinces and Ottawa, Davis said.

"Having held the preliminary discussions I believe we must now act."

. . . CANADIAN ROLE

"domino" effect of the loss of South Vietnam.

Unless the objective is achieved in South Vietnam, it said, "almost all of Southeast Asia will probably fall under Communist dominance" or accommodate to communism.

The Philippines, it was judged, "would become shaky" and "the threat to India on the west, Australia and New Zealand to the south, and Taiwan, Korea, and Japan to the north would be greatly increased."

The policy decision, then, was to "prepare immediately to be in a position on 72 hours' notice to 'initiate he full range of Laotian and Cambodian "border control actions" as well as "the North Vietnam and to be in a position on 30 days' notice to initiate the program of 'graduated overt military pressure against North Vietnam . . .'"

The president told Lodge that part of his job then was "knocking down the idea of neutralization" of Vietnam. an idea advanced by French President de Gaulle, "wherever it rears its ugly head and on this point I think that nothing is more important than to stop neutralist talk whatever we can by whatever means we can."

Maximum Pressure, Least Risk

The resulting contingency planning is shown in several documents. But other documents also show that as early as Dec. 21, 1963, a memorandum from McNamara to President Johnson referred to "plans for covert action into North Vietnam" that "present a wide variety of sabotage and psychological operations" that should "provide maximum pressure with minimum risk."

It was charged by then Sen. Wayne Morse (D—Ore.) that the South Vietnamese attacks on North Vietnamese forces in the Gulf of Tonkin caused the North Vietnamese to fire upon the U.S. destroyers Maddox and C. Turner Joy. The retaliatory action was the opening rounds of U.S. bombing attacks upon North Vietnam.

According to the information disclosed by the Times, the operations against the north during 1964 ranged from U-2 spy plane f lights to parachuting sabotage and psychological warfare teams into the north, kidnappings of North Vietnamese citizens, sea-launched commando raids on rail and highway bridges and bombardment of coastal installations by PT boats.

From the March 17 presidentual decisions there flowed planning of many kinds. There was a Saigon strategy meeting on April 19 and 20 that included Secretary of State Dean Rusk; assistant secretary William P. Bundy, who appears from the evidence to have been the chief non-military planner; Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, now chairman of the joint chiefs, and Lodge.

On April 30 Rusk flew to Ottawa to arrange for Seaborn, about to become Canada's new man on the International Control Commission, to carry a message to Hanoi in June. It was a carrot-and-stick message, with hints of economic aid paired with the threat of "devastation."

Deliberately Leaked

There followed large preparatory military deployments, word of which in some cases was deliberately leaked in hopes it would have a deterrent effect on Hanoi. Aid, too, was stepped up for the clandestine military operation in Laos against the Communists.

Quotations from a June query by Mr. Johnson to the CIA indicated that the president still was uncertain about enlarging military operations. He asked: "Would the rest of southeast Asia necessarily fall if Laos and South Vietnam came under North Vietnamese control?"

The CIA reply was a challenge to the domino theory, saying that except for Cambodia "it is likely that no nation in the area would quickly succumb to communism," But that the loss "would be profoundly damaging to the U.S. position in the far east" and would raise Chinese prestige at the expense of the Soviet Union.

Summer of 1964 was national convention time for the two political parties in the United states. There is nothing in any of the documents disclosed to indicate that president Johnson was swayed one way or the other by the coming election campaign.

However, the Tonkin Gulf incident changed the whole course of the war. Most of what is described by the Times about that incident already has been disclosed, in substance if not all in detail.

Once Congress passed the resolution, both planning and action quickened in pace. The United States immediately struck by air at North Vietnam in retaliation, and on Aug. 10 Seaborn was sent back to see Premier Dong. Seaborn was told to say that if the north persisted in "its present course" it "can expect to continue to suffer the consequences." This message, like many others referred to, was drafted by one of McNanara's close aids, John T. McNaughton.

Hanoi's response, according to the Times' account, was that "Pham Van Dong showed himself utterly unintimidated and calmly resolved to pursue the course upon which the D. R. V, was embarked to what he confidently expected would be its successful conclusion."

Fascists Gaining

ROME (AP) — The Christian Democrats were running strongly in the lead today in the first scattered votes for Sicily's regional legislature and the Fascist right showed skyrocketing gains.

. . . BENNETT

"Started in 1957 principally as fiscal support to the economically weak and natural resource-poor Atlantic region, British Columbia is alarmed at the massive equalization payments made today to certain provinces, particularly to the resource-rich, central province of Quebec."

Bennett said "it is reported" that equalization payments and other special payments to Quebec have increased from $440 million to $773 million in the last three years.

SHARP REPLY

This claim drew a sharp reply from Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa who said a few minutes later that Bennett's figures were "inaccurate and unjustified."

Bourassa said some provinces receive a greater share of their budget in the form of equalization payments than does Quebec.

Bennett also renewed longstanding accusations that the federal government is mistreating B.C. through a regional economic expansion policy that holds back growth of this province.

"The federal government must recognize that growth in the economically dynamic regions of Canada is essential to generate the wealth necessary to assist the people of the slower economic growth areas."

The B.C. premier repeated his opposition to "package deals" such as Quebec's demand for social policy concessions in return for agreement on an amending formula.

"Let us be realistic and recognize that every government's total constitutional demands on all subjects cannot be met at this meeting.

'PROCEED'

"Let us proceed with those matters on which we all can agree and leave for future discussion those matters on which we cannot now obtain agreement," Bennett said.

Bennett repeated B.C. opposition to high interest rates, tight money, the high level of the Canadian dollar and deficit government financing.

He characterized the Canadian federal system as being "profitable federalism" for some provinces which receive help from others through Ottawa.

B.C. expects fair treatment from Ottawa, he said.

Premier Harry Strom of Alberta called for a federal-provincial conference to deal solely with the "most serious economic crisis ever to confront Canada."

In his opening statements, Strom proposed that the conference be called within a month or six weeks to deal with the economic situation and "the need for innovative policies" to correct it.

. . . TRUDEAU

Trudeau said that if the constitution allowed provinces to "divert federal revenue through the provincial treasury to be spent as the provincial government decided (on income security) then provincial governments would have a strong inducement to have such laws.

"But Parliament in those circumstances would be less likely to impose taxes on Canadians generally to make payments to provincial governments than it would to make payments directly to the needy old people and families with children," Trudeau said.

The Prime Minister wound up his remarks on the social policy question by telling the conference that Ottawa "must consider the factors to which I have referred" as we examine the changes that may be desirable in our constitution."

Trudeau told the conference it "must not be unaware of the historic importance of what we can do—or fail to do."

He described the lack of an amending formula for the constitution as "the unfinished work" of the 1864 Charlottetown conference.

He reviewed 44 years of failure to arrive at such a formula and added:

". . . Canada remains unique — the only independent country in the world that cannot amend its own constitution.

"I think it is incumbent on us that we do not fail again. If we do the country will go on but it may be long before we find another occasion when . . . can succeed.

"The problem is not insoluble — and we are close to solution."

Trudeau recalled that the February conference in Ottawa ageed on "what might be a feasible approach for amending the constitution.

The formula would require seven of the 11 governments including the federal, Quebec and Ontario governments to agree to constitutional changes. Two of four western provinces with at least half the western population and two of four Atlantic provinces would also have to agree.

Four Dead In Kamloops Air Crash

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Four persons were killed Saturday when a Cessna 180 aircraft crashed at the 6,000-foot level of Tod Mountain, about 25 miles northeast of this interior British Columbia city.

The victims were identified as owner-pilot Harold Palmer of Kamloops, Wolfgang Ehman, 23, of Calgary, Christine Sanders, 21, of Calgary and Harry Burfield, 50, of Kamloops.

The aircraft failed to return after taking off from Kamloops late Saturday afternoon on a one-hour sightseeing flight. The wreckage was discovered Sunday in an aerial serach.

Crash Kills 8

VALANCE, France (AP) — Eight of nine occupants in two cars were killed Sunday when the vehicles collided head-on at high speed. One auto contained a French couple, their two children and the paternal grandparents, and in the other car were three French youths returning from a dance. The lone survivors, the grandfather, was in a critical condition.

Tanker Route 'Pollution Risk'

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States has been informed of Canada's opposition to a proposed oil tanker route from Alaska to Washington state, External Affairs Minister Sharp said today.

Mr. Sharp said in the Commons he told State Secretary William Rogers in Washington last week that while the route offers no economic benefit to Canada, it imposes "almost all the risks of oil pollution."

Mr. Rogers promised to tell Canada shortly about taking up joint studies of the problem.

The minister was reporting to the Commons on a series of meetings he has had recently in Washington, New York, Lisbon and Paris.

He said he had made it clear in the Washington meeting that he was not trying to promote the Mackenzie Valley pipeline route as an alternative to the tanker route.

Joint studies on coastal pollution would include the risks to the U.S. of tanker movements into Canadian Atlantic ports.

Mr. Sharp was asked by Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) whether he had told Mr. Rogers what Canada's choice was on the route to be used to move oil from Alaska to the U.S. mainland.

Mr. Sharp said he did not express any choice—his purpose had been to make the government aware of the serious dangers involved in moving oil in large tankers through the narrow waters of the Strait of Juan de Fuca and Georgia Strait.

Mr. Woolliams then asked whether Mr. Sharp would make sure Canada's position on which route it preferred became clear, since U.S. officials had said they didn't know what it was.

The minister said that wasn't through "any lack of clarity" on his part.

SECURITY TIGHT BUT IN A LOW KEY

About 60 RCMP officers, many of them brought in from detachments all over Vancouver Island, will handle a "very low key" brand of security for the three-day constitutional conference.

A spokesman at the sub-division office here said today precautions taken to protect the various political leaders will be as minimal as possible under the circumstances.

"We certainly won't be implementing any harey-scarey tactics," he said. "Most of the men are in civilian dress and the whole operation will afford increased security precautions only as they come into demand."

The men are operating in three shifts on a 24-hour basis at The Empress, where all of the leaders and their staffs are staying, and at the Legislative Buildings during conference hours.

Benson Rules Out Wage, Price Guides

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson answered "no" in the Commons Monday when asked whether he would introduce wage and price guides to stem inflation.

George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings), former trade minister, said the latest consumer price index issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics indicated a 5.5-per-cent rate of inflation this year.

He asked whether the government would "try to control this sharp and serious" price increase by wage and price guides.

Mr. Benson said the price index rose only four-tenths of one per cent last month, compared with an increase of seven-tenths of one per cent in May last year. He also said that in the last six months, the index had gone up only 1.9 per cent.

Mr. Hees asked for a "yes-or-no" answer to his question about guides, and Mr. Benson said "no."

NO DECISION YET

Mr. Hees then asked whether the government plans to continue the prices and incomes commission after the expiry of its powers at the end of the year. Mr. Benson said a decision has not yet been made.

A Measure of Hope

ALTHOUGH THEY WERE stated in generalities, Mr. Brezhnev's proposals to the United States last week for mutual cuts in naval strength as well as a reduction in European military forces were far too direct and deliberate to permit dismissal as mere propaganda. The offer has every appearance of an opportunity to achieve a breakthrough in the crushing armaments rivalry that is absorbing more and more of each country's economic potential and winning no better than parity for either one.

Mr. Kosygin, speaking earlier in the Soviet preliminaries to the weekend's national elections, had some abrupt things to say about the United States. But in view of Mr. Brezhnev's subsequent remarks, the Kosygin comments are interpreted as reassurances to China that Moscow is not getting together with Washington to design a world that excludes socialism's Asian partner. But the Brezhnev message is a significant one which should be followed up.

Russia has every reason for advancing a conciliatory proposal. The rising power of China faces Moscow with the advisability of cooling its confrontations with the West and working out some form of international security arrangements that will not only lessen Russo-American power competition but will also institute guidelines as to armaments, nuclear weapons and other factors which can also be applied to China when that country inevitably assumes greater strength.

It was interesting that Mr. Brezhnev showed willingness to discuss reduction not only of forces deployed abroad but also of the basic military strength at home. He mentioned also the extension of Russian and American naval forces "at the other end of the world, away from their native coasts" — in the Mediterranean, the Indian Ocean and the Far East, and offered reductions so long as parity was observed. Mr. Brezhnev also gave a plug for the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks and hoped for "a positive outcome" from these meetings.

"Equal security" emerged, of course, as the key factor in any possible arms reduction discussions, and it will, equally naturally, emerge as the chief stumbling block to agreement. How equalize the withdrawal of American forces across the Atlantic from Europe with a withdrawal of Soviet troops a few hundred miles eastward to their own border? Can Russia, with its Black Sea entry, claim more need for naval patrols in the Mediterranean than the United States, with its oil interests and alliances with Middle East nations? How do land-based nuclear missile sites compare with submarine launching devices which can cruise in the oceans of the world? And how can conventional forces be equated with the nuclear threat?

These are daunting problems. But Mr. Brezhnev's proposals should be given serious attention. If they prove to be no more than another move in the international power game at least they give some promise of progress. No nation today, however strong, can afford to overlook an opportunity to increase security — and world-power security these days is inescapably mutual.

Extending Troubled Waters

WHEN, ON JUNE 1, BRAZIL laid claim to waters extending 200 miles from its coast, the whole of South America, with the exception of Colombia, Venezuela and the three small Guianas, became encircled by a 200-mile jurisdictional ribbon. The Brazilian decision, like those of other Latin-American countries, invited friction with foreign fishing nations, and risks confrontations, particularly with the United States. The U.S. has declined to recognize jurisdictional claims 200 miles offshore.

Brazil apparently expects trouble and has indicated a readiness to extend naval forces to patrol the newly-claimed waters. From time to time, on the Pacific as well as Atlantic coasts, Latin-American authorities have seized vessels, frequently American, and charged them with unlicensed fishing in nationally-claimed waters. The American government, conventionally lodges a protest, usually pays a fine for the release of arrested craft, and continues to refuse recognition of the extended limits.

This policy cannot continue indefinitely. Already, seizure of American vessels in disputed waters has led to threats by the United States to withhold aid payments from countries making the arrests.

Canada, with other countries, has moved in recent years to push its jurisdiction, largely for fishing and exploitation of the seabed, further out from shore. In doing so, this nation has encountered objections from United States interests. Other countries whose fleets move farther afield in search of fish could support the United States stand.

On the other hand, Brazil's action this month tends to strengthen the position of the South Americans who have already proclaimed a wider jurisdiction, and could provide further justification for Canada's delineation of new limits in the last year or two.

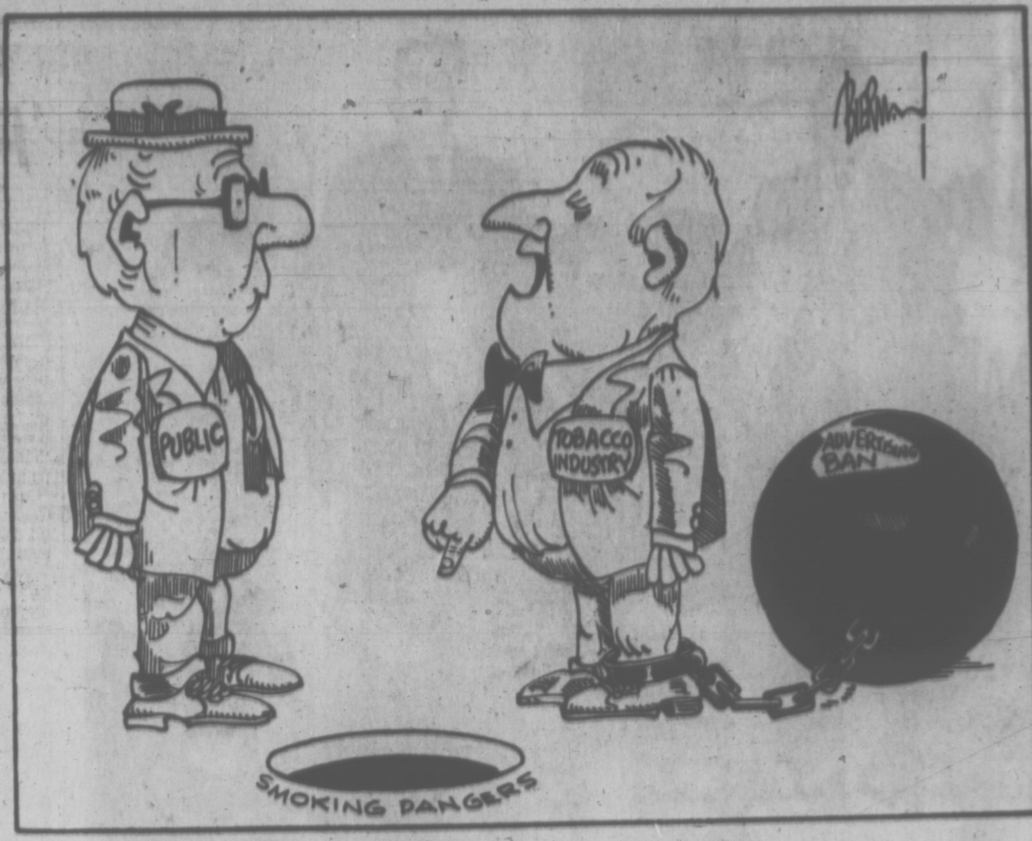
The situation increases the urgency of a new convention on the law of the seas which will tackle the problem of jurisdiction more successfully than the last international meeting. At that time there was not a sufficient majority to support a 12-mile limit. Subsequent unilateral action has raised new problems.

For Wider Application?

THE GENERAL PRINCIPLES agreed upon last week to clean up the lower Great Lakes might well be applied when required in the Georgia and Juan de Fuca Straits. Canadian and American delegations met in Washington to discuss the proposals which had been prepared by the International Joint Commission last January and by a Canada-United States working group last year. At the end of their discussions they produced a communique which will be translated into detailed measures in a formal agreement perhaps this fall.

Although specific arrangements are not spelled out it appears that the IJC will be given power to appoint a supervisory board to coordinate water quality research and control. The Commission is to have a "greater role" in surveillance and monitoring, and in making recommendations regarding water pollution. To cope with emergency situations there will be a Joint Response Team and a Joint Response Centre.

While in Washington to head the Canadian delegation, External Affairs Minister Sharp spoke to U.S. Secretary of State Rogers and expressed his concern over the proposed tanker route from Alaska to refineries in the Seattle area. It would have been a good time to bring up the matter of establishing anti-pollution standards in this part of the world through measures like a joint contingency team under the auspices of a new board along the lines of the IJC to deal with emergencies. While such a position by Canada would not diminish our opposition to the tanker route it would be a wise preparation for another unfortunate possibility.



". . . they put it on me so you won't fall in that hole . . ."

THREE MERGING VIEWS

By TOM WICKER

What Kind of Training, for What?

"HUMANITY Is Above All Nations," reads an inscription carved on a stone bench in Duke University, North Carolina. That is an idea to which the nations generally pay more lip service than homage but it received unusual tribute at the university's commencement exercises last week. It came in a prolonged standing ovation for Secretary General U Thant of the United Nations, who had been awarded the degree of doctor of humane letters by president Terry Sanford. Thant, who had not planned to speak, was so appreciative of the applause that rang through the steamy indoor stadium that he made a few remarks about what the "humane letters" degree meant to him.

Wicker

Thant in his gentle voice seemed later to be developing both themes. He supposed Duke had given him his first doctorate of "humane letters," he said, because in his work in Burma and at the United Nations, he had always believed "the human factor" was most significant in the search for "the society we want." And in "the shadow of the hydrogen bomb," he said, it was more necessary than ever "to develop in the young people of today not only intellectual ability but also the moral and spiritual aspects of life."

But it had been his observation, the Secretary General said, that in a highly technical society "the stress in education is on the development of the intellect" and the training of doctors, scientists, and engineers who could take men to the moon. In such a society, as a result, he said, "What is external to us is very clearly defined; but what is happening inside of us remains a dark, jungle trek." It was along that journey, he suggested, that something more was needed in the life of "technical societies" — a greater awareness of and reliance on "love, compassion, modesty, humility, the philosophy of live and let live, the ability to understand the other man's point of view."

'Perpetual Revolution'

A short but eloquent statement, it had been preceded, with haphazard but noticeable appropriateness by two other speeches. One was by Byron R. Trauger, who spoke for the Class of '71, and pledged it to "a life style of perpetual revolution."

Trauger, who will be off to Yale Law School next year, looked rather Trotskyite in red chin whiskers, but in fact he turned out to be defining "perpetual revoluton" as a generous receptivity to the kind of "continuous change" he said the future would bring. In meeting that future, he said, he and his classmates were dedicated to four ideas: "The right of the individual to participate in making decisions that directly affect his life . . . respect for and just treatment of all peoples . . . tradition should be supportive rather than burdensome . . . peace as an immediate national policy . . ."

'Fantasy Becomes Reality'

Then, in a graceful commencement address, Nancy Hanks — the chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts — raised the question whether Americans were not so "imbued with the necessity for change — important as change is — that we fail to ask, 'Change from what to what?' " In an age when "fantasy becomes reality every single day," she said, every individual, institution and society needed "a point of reference" from which to measure and judge events and processes.

If American society would make the arts more nearly a "point of reference" in their lives, Miss Hanks suggested, there might result "a revolution of feeling, a revolution of creativity."

So if Byron Trauger was right in seeing "continuous change" as the true revolution of the onrushing future, and if Miss Hanks was right that only a steady "point of reference" can guide individuals and societies in such an age, U Thant had something to say that justified the ovation his appearance produced — not only from the young idealists and activists of the graduating class but from their proud, perspiring elders in the balconies.

'Peace'

His message might have been taken from the inscription on the bench. "Humanity Is Above All Nations," it reads, and what the Secretary General probably would have added is that humanity is above all the things of men. That was the message implicit also in Trauger's four principles and in Miss Hanks' plea for a "revolution of creativity" and in President Sanford's final word to the seniors — a word he said he believed they understood in its fullest meaning: "Peace."

Words, of course, come easily, particularly at commencement exercises. It remains to be seen whether the Class of '71 will be able to clothe noble words in greater meaning than their parents.

FROM MONTREAL

By PAUL WHITELAW

What Will Fill the Union Nationale Void?

IN THE LAST ELEVEN YEARS, THE fabric of Quebec society has altered drastically. Schools, churches, public morality and government are hardly recognizable from the days before Jean Lesage led his Liberals to victory in a provincial general election, becoming premier and launching the "Quiet Revolution." One of the few remnants of the "old" Quebec is the Union Nationale, and that, too, appears to be edging over the brink of extinction.

Nothing points this up more than the non-campaign for the leadership of the party, which formed the government of Quebec for all but ten years between 1936 and 1970.

Token Attention Only

The dreary affair terminates with a convention in Quebec city on June 17, 18 and 19, and has yet to receive other than token attention in the Quebec press.

Newspaper editors are faced with a real problem: there is little to report.

The current state of the Union Nationale, once a pervading force in Quebec life, does little to attract leadership talent, money or publicity.

The party has been in a state of suspended animation since the April, 1970, general election in which Premier Robert Bourassa was swept to power with 72 of the 108 seats in the National Assembly.

Falling Vote

The governing Union Nationale was relegated to the opposition, with only 17 seats. It attracted only 20 per cent of the popular vote, while the separatist Parti Quebecois — in its first election bid — took 23 per cent of the vote although it won only seven seats.

The defeated leader, former Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, decided to retire. He has remained at his job until now, providing a "lame duck" opposition which hasn't hurt the Parti Quebecois, and his replacement is about to be chosen.

Five men are seeking the job, and none of them appears to have the makings of a leader who can recapture the imagination of the Quebec electorate.

The front runner appears to be Gabriel Loubier, who held the minor tourism portfolio in the Bertrand cabinet. He has an easy manner which is popular with the influential rural base of the party.

Not far behind is another former minister, Marcel Masse. He was involved in several departments which dealt with education, the public service and economic planning. Somewhat younger than Mr. Loubier, he is also more sophisticated — a factor which may be more of a hindrance than a help in the Union Nationale. He is also a staunch nationalist, prone to making controversial statements. However, he has made an effort to tone down his image during the leadership non-campaign.

Common Market Theme

Also in the running, but apparently in third place, is Mario Beaulieu, a former Union Nationale finance minister who now espouses the formation of a Common Market with the United States as a way of ensuring Quebec's cultural survival.

Far behind are Andre Leveille, a former Union Nationale deputy in the National Assembly, and Pierre Sevigny, the former Diefenbaker cabinet minister who was involved in the Munsinger scandal.

A number of candidates who could have recouped some of the party's fortunes, even if an election victory by the Union Nationale is hard to envisage, failed to appear. Nominations are now closed.

Former education minister Jean-Guy Cardinal, another hard-line nationalist who might feel more at home in the Parti Quebecois, was mentioned for months as a possible candidate. He ran second to Mr. Bertrand at a 1969 leadership convention, and could easily have captured the top post this time around.

A man in the same position is Claude Wagner, a former justice minister in the Liberal cabinet of Premier Lesage. A man with a dynamic personality and strong views on law and order, he could have presented a real challenge to the current Liberal government in Quebec. Mr. Wagner has been bitter since he lost out at a Liberal leadership convention to Mr. Bourassa, and has been inactive in the Liberal party since that time.

Incompetence

Quebec voters were reacting to four years of administrative incompetence when they returned the Liberals to office in April, 1970. The election results may also have indicated that Quebec changed too much during the Liberal administration of Mr. Lesage, from 1960 to 1966, for the rural conservatism of the Union Nationale to survive.

Although interest in the leadership campaign indicates that few people in Quebec are mourning the passing of the Union Nationale, there should be concern about what will fill the void.

How many of the nationalistic supporters of the party will join the Parti Quebecois, ignoring its left-of-centre paltform but embracing its separatist views? How many former Union Nationale voters will now support provincial Creditistes, who won 13 seats and 12 per cent of the popular vote in their first election bid last year. And, would any Union Nationale voters support Premier Bourassa in the next election, which isn't expected until perhaps 1974?

"HI, MR. WILSON! I GOT LOST, LIKE YOU TOLD ME!"

Looking Back

From the Times of June 14, 1911:

London — The Boy Scouts with the Canadian contingent will encamp at Roehampton House at Barnes and will line a portion of the coronation route from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey. The troops furnished by the overseas Dominions will march at the head of the procession. There will be a royal procession through London the day after the coronation.

Mining Costs

The headline of reporter Don Vipond's article, "Another Side Exists to Sunro Decision," Daily Times, June 4, 1971, said more than was probably intended.

Applying a little arithmetic to dollar values quoted in Vipond's text and referring to Dison's production estimates, and to copper prices available in the daily papers, it appears that Dison's Sunro mine at Jordan River would lose over $1,000,000 per year. The calculation is as follows, using Mr. Vipond's figures and others available:

Production days, 350; production rate, 1500 tons per day; ore grade, 1.2 per cent; copper price, say 50c per pound; supplies, equipment and services, $6,000,000 (Mr. Vipond's figure); employees, 120; labor cost, $1,000 per man per month:

Direct cost of labor would be $1,440,000; supplies, etc. $6,000,000, for a total of $7,440,000.

Value of copper produced per year: 350x1500x.012x2000x.50—$6,300,000.

The loss per year would therefore be $1,140,000.

Since it is doubtful that Dison's management would contemplate such a futile operation, there must be something wrong with the data. One figure that shows up like a bay full of mine tailings is, and I quote from reporter Vipond's article, "The mine in operation would have spent $6 million a year for supplies, equipment and services." Absurd!—H. Elder, R.R. 2, Victoria.

(Ed. note: Mr. Elder's comment appears justified.)

Wild Swing

Your editorial entitled, "A Wild Swing by the Birchers" seems to be itself a bit of a wild swing, if I may say so! Most people seem to have a completely false impression of the John Birch Society. While I'm not a member of this society myself, I wish to say that it was founded for the purpose of combatting and exposing Communism in all its subtle forms and disguises. The Birchers have a keen insight into the political arena, and see things which most people either do not see, or have no wish to see! For this reason they have been subjected to the smear of "right-wing extremists!" (Apparently left-wing extremists are all right, according to the liberalist-oriented!) However, as that great American patriot, Senator Barry Goldwater has stated, extremism in defence of liberty is no vice. Liberalism, on the other hand, whether spelled with a capital or a small 'l' is the first step on the road to Communist tyranny. — Richard D. Corrance, 1037 Craigdarroch.

Tired of Criticism

The endless criticism one sees and hears of the Prime Minister make me ill.

If he doesn't make a speech he is criticized; if he makes one he is pulled apart. If he makes a trip to gain friends for Canada he is criticized (although how anyone can call an official tour with all the propaganda and pomp a holiday is beyond me). If he stayed home all the time, he would be called isolationist. — Just a Housewife.

China Prospers As Enemies Rot In Her Press

By NORMAN WEBSTER

Wall posters are a unique media form.

PEKING — You won't see it on the masthead, but in a way "All the News That's Fit to Print" sums up the journalistic philosophy of the People's Daily. Mind you, its editors take a fairly severe view of just what is fit to print.

If you are a Chinese newspaper reader you will not know, for one, that United States astronauts have landed on the moon. Nor will you have read about airplane hijackings — including that of a Philippines plane to Canton in March.

You will not know that chairman Maoe Tse-tung told Edgar Snow he would welcome Richard Nixon in Peking either as president or as a tourist.

You will not have been informed that friendly France is the leading arms supplier to the white racist regime in South Africa. Nor will you know that friendly Canada had a bit of a time last autumn because of the FLQ.

You will not have seen anything about the fight of the century between Cassius Clay and Joe Frazier. You will be quite unaware that Pierre Trudeau has married Margaret Sinclair.

People's Daily Comes Every Day

What you will know is that New China is advancing vigorously on all fronts, and that its enemies rot with every passing day. That is considered sufficient.

As you may have guessed, the People's Daily — like the New China News Agency and Chinese journalism in general — considers its role in a somewhat different light than the New York Times. The press, Mao Tse-tung has written, is an instrument of class struggle. The corollary, in the words of the Communist Party theoretical journal Red Flag:

"All propaganda activities in the press . . . must represent the interests of the proletariat, the poor and lower-middle peasants and the broad masses of revolutionary people all over the country."

In practical terms, this means the state-owned media serve the party leadership.

Official policies are supported by news and comment. Contrary opinions are spelled out only to be shot down. Quite wrong is the policy said to have been advocated by the cashiered head of state, Liu Shao-chi — namely, that the media should "strive after truthful and impartial reporting."

Any examination of the Chinese media must begin with the nation's leading organ, the People's Daily. Each of the other big cities has its own paper, but the People's Daily is the one that leaders throughout the nation consult, even if copies take a few days to arrive.

Published from a building in downtown Peking, the single edition appears every day of the year, usually on six pages of newsprint. It is on sale at kiosks and there is home delivery. The Chinese do not issue such figures, but it's circulation has been estimated at well over two million.

This is a relatively meaningless figure, in fact, for far more than in Western society, each copy reaches a large number of readers. To begin with, each day's paper is tacked up on glass-fronted reading boards in public places in Peking and the provincial cities. Factories and people's communes also have copies on public view.

The paper is often read aloud to groups assembled for the purpose. This is especially common in the countryside, where the level of peasant literacy still leaves much to be desired.

Important editorials and articles are read over the radio and boom through loudspeakers on farms and in factories, at residential areas and historical sites, on planes and trains all over China. Everyone gets the message.

What does the reader see when he plunks down his 5 fen (2 cents) and unfolds his People's Daily? First, he sees a paper that essentially is dull in appearance, but whose typography and layout are neat and uncluttered.

AGNEW
. . . 'god of plague'

The articles usually run horizontally from left to right, but shorter pieces will often add variety by being set in traditional Chinese style — vertical lines of type which begin at top right. Headlines may be horizontal or vertical. Mao quotations in the body of an article are rendered in boldface.

Most striking feature of the paper at first glance is its nameplate. "Jen Min Jih Pao," it says in four freely-stroked characters from the brush of Mao.

Beside the nameplate is a box which each day contains a different quote from the Chairman. The masthead gives the date in terms of both the modern calendar and the ancient Chinese lunar calendar, which is still used in parts of rural China.

The paper consists mainly of large blocks of type relieved by few photographs, and even fewer drawings or maps. Theatre notices and announcements about the latest issue of Red Flag may be carried, but there are no advertisements.

Nor are there comics, columnists, advice to the lovelorn, crime news, a Report on Business or special sports, culture and women's sections (although articles on these subjects are published). Content consists mainly of leaders' pronouncements, reports on matters considered to be of national importance and pointed comment on the lessons to be drawn.

The issue of May 25 is at hand. Its main article reports a Communist Party Congress in Hopei Province and election of a provincial committee.

Others deal with Premier Chou En-lai's message on the second anniversary of the Sudanese revolution, proletarian literature and art, learning from the masses, winter wheat harvesting, technical innovations in a machine tools plant and Peking medical workers resettling in the countryside. It is heavy stuff — both in content and expression.

Chinese writing is usually dull due to frequent repetition of political formulas. Articles attacking unpopular figures are often lively, however, and have been known to approach Globe and Mail editorials in vituperative expression.

The Chinese press carries an especially good line in epithets. Chiang Kai-shek, for example, is always "the political mummy." Spiro Agnew is "an imperialist god of plague."

One memorable discussion of Russian motives began, "listen, you handful of filthy Soviet revisionist swine!" Catch the reader's attention — a first principle of journalism.

Some of the stronger attacks on China's propaganda target of the moment will be identified as from the pen of a "People's Daily Commentator." This is believed to mean a high party official.

The newspaper's editorials are of particular importance — especially if published jointly with Red Flag and Liberation Army Daily. These frequently treat domestic affairs, and are scanned carefully by officials across the nation for changes in the political, social or economic line.

Variety is provided by letters to the editor which may reveal obstacles to implementation of the line. When a group of young people in Honan province write to denounce the "sinister wind of early marriage" which has swept their district, you know that the campaign to marry late has not yet caught on entirely as it should in rural China.

The letters section may be used to present differing points of view on matters where there is no official policy. Readers may discuss educational reform, for example, taking opposite sides on whether physics and chemistry should continue to be taught in middle schools.

Either Dull Or Vituperative

Two of the People's Daily's pages are given over each day exclusively to international news. This is provided — as is a certain amount of the domestic material — by the New China News Agency.

The approach of the two is similar, the NCNA also voicing and supporting official policy. The directors of the two organizations are appointed by the party, and some men hold posts in both.

The NCNA puts out a large file daily on its Chinese language wire, condensing it for its English, French, Russian, Spanish and Arabic wires. The English version runs to about 15,000 words on an ordinary day. A glance at the May 25 news budget shows reports datelined London, Hanoi, Pyongyang and Algiers, as well as Peking. Many of the items take a predictably heavy view of "U.S. Imperialism."

The NCNA is simultaneously the Chinese public's only source of world news and Peking's most frequent spokesman internationally. It has been described as both the ears and mouth of the Chinese leadership.

It is the agency's selection of news items and the way in which they are written that give China's day by day view of the world. It is a view shaped by revolutionary and Communist theories. There is no attempt at objectivity.

Besides its more than 30 domestic bureaus, the agency last year had correspondents — mostly Chinese but some local nationals — in more than 50 countries. Some of the offices are in capitals with which Peking has no diplomatic relations, and they may function as unofficial Chinese government missions.

In 1965 the agency claimed representation in 60 countries, but succeeding years saw a number of its offices closed and correspondents expelled for unfriendly reporting and alleged subversive activities. NCNA correspondents abroad try to keep in close touch with local revolutionary forces.

Domestically, the Cultural Revolution was a testing time for the Chinese media. The press and its representatives were accused by Red Guards and other militants of having spread bourgeois ideas. Newspapers, periodicals, radio and television suffered disruption. Staffs were reshuffled, and many publications suppressed.

Wu Leng-hsi, NCNA director since 1952 and People's Daily chief editor since 1957, was denounced and lost his posts in 1966. In 1967, however, the Party Central Committee issued orders that the NCNA was an organization that should not be taken over by Red Guards and their allies.

Some interesting comment on the role of a Chinese journalist was offered earlier this year in Red Flag. Immodesty, byline-itis and bourgeois ideas of fame and gain had to be guarded against, the writer warned.

Only thus could journalists "write revolutionary stories, turn the pens in their hands into guns on the ideological fighting front, victoriously assume the task given the press by the party and people, and vigorously create revolutionary opinion to consolidate the dictatorship of the proletariat."

Letters Give Some Variety

Reporters should take part in physical labor and integrate themselves thoroughly with the masses. "Divorced from the practice of the masses in struggle, journalism would be like water without a source, a tree without roots."

There were technical tips too. Articles should be written in "precise, clear and vivid words" and condensed as much as possible so that the workers, peasants and soldiers would have time to read them.

Inaccuracy and sensationalism were wrong, said the writer sternly — but truth was not necessarily just the facts, ma'am. The facts of a story could be "reconstructed and raised . . . eliminating the false and retaining the true . . . reflecting the objective things in a still more profound, correct and complete way."

Praise, Prizes Go to the Few

JOHN RODGERS
The Sun

For too long this concentration on competitive sports has been one of the reasons why school is a place some students are glad to leave, whether they admit it or not.

By the nature of things, only the few can be "good" at these sports, or even like playing them, and are therefore to be praised and cosseted so that they get swollen-headed opinions of their own importance.

The others, the majority, the "no-goods," who have other ideas on how to spend their time, have to be suffered. Little has changed since my schooldays of 50 years ago.

Success is still the same status symbol. The same rewards and praise are handed to the few. Maybe it is still claimed that competitive sports, with their demands to win at all costs, to beat your rivals into the ground, train boys and girls for the competition of life.

◆

This is true enough in our arrogant society where the top dogs receive the prizes and everyone is asked to admire their dubious tactics. But is it not time we changed our opinions about this myth of what is said to be success?

Therefore, it was with much agreement that I read the recent opinions of four education researchers who condemned the "rush to build more powerful football, baseball and track teams," at the expense of the majority of students in the schools of British Columbia.

We all know the grotesque extent to which this glorification of competitive sports has grown in the United States where universities compete to allure students who are merely good at playing games until the idea has been accepted that the best universities are those whose teams win at football and similar nebulous activities.

In my days this fetish was carried out to an extraordinary degree at the school I attended because it had been decided that games were good for us. They were as compulsory as lessons and truancy was met with the same penalty.

In my small way, I enjoyed playing these trifles, but never with the zest expected and always with the certainty that victory or defeat were not important. I knew I would better have spent my time at fishing.

My brother was more cunning. He would deliberately play at rugby, football or cricket with so obvious a distaste that he knew he would be banished from the field in disgrace. In such manner he became free to do the things he wanted to do.

Another compulsory and boring chore was to watch the school rugby team players in action because they were expected to be regarded as our heroes. Lately I have read the biography of Peter Scott, who has achived some renown as a naturalist, painter and broadcaster, though he was a similar rebel at the English school he attended.

"In vain did they try to appeal to my community spirit," he writes. ". . . Did I not mind how each of them (the school teams) fared on the football field? The sad thing was that I did not. Of course there was a price to be paid for this kind of delinquency and finally it came down to corporal punishment." But, as usual, corporal punishment had no effect.

◆

In our adult society, these competitive sports, particularly those in which brutuality supplies much of the attraction, have become an intercity war in which no quarter is given. Professional participants, our modern gladiators, are not only paid large sums which make even an MP jealous, but they are the ones on which the reputation of a city apparently depends.

I once heard a scoffing voice from Hamilton, Ont., say: "Vancouver may be pleasant to live in, but it can't play football." This is Vancouver judged on the activities of our gladiators at Empire Stadium.

And, what is more, there is an odd trifle called the Hall of Fame, a sort of Valhalla, for those who are adjudged to be the worthiest.

◆

Is not it time, however, that this compulsive acceptance of the importance of competitive sports, this demand to make heroes, should not take so large a role in our public schools at least, and that students should be allowed to accept that other activities are as important? Let us throw away this foolish status symbol.

Politics Complicate Disaster

By ANTHONY LEWIS

LONDON — Imagine the entire population of New Jersey, seven million people, fleeing the state and taking refuge in New York City and the counties nearby. That thought gives some idea of the dimensions of what is happening now in East Pakistan — except that the refugees are much poorer and the area of India into which they are fleeing infinitely more desperate than New York.

British sources estimate that between four and five million East Pakistanis have crossed into India, and that 100,000 more are leaving every day. Before long the total could be seven or eight million.

* * *

The refugees are in a country that already has difficulty feeding itself, one afflicted by overpopulation and unemployment. There are no jobs for the refugees, and no farm land. They are starting to filter into Calcutta, a city where one million people regularly sleep on the pavement and millions more have no running water or sewage systems.

All this can be seen in the headlines and on the television screens, but do European and American audiences really absorb it? Or are the numbers so large that we tend to see fatalistically, as a catastrophe of nature, what is really something made by man?

Public opinion in the West has certainly been slow to react; only now is one beginning to feel a sense of urgency in the calls for action from relief agencies and charities. Yet the root elements in the tragedy, the death and destruction in East Pakistan, have been known for many weeks.

Civil and communal war has killed many thousands of civilians. No one will ever know exactly how many, but some observers have put the figure has high as several hundred thousand.

People have killed each other because of animosities of race, politics and religion; no community is entirely free of guilt. But the principal agent of death and hatred has been the Pakistan Army. And its killing has been selective: According to reliable reports from inside East Pakistan, the Army's particular targets have been intellectuals and leaders of opinion — doctors, professors, students, writers.

The economy of East Pakistan has been hard hit. The planting cycle for food grains is disturbed. The transportation system, already badly hurt by the flood disaster last fall, has been crippled. Many boats are sunk. The main railway line will take six months to repair, assuming uninterrupted peace.

The human and economic dislocation now threatens to lead to a terrible famine. The Financial Times of London, which is not given to exaggeration, has published an estimate that up to four million people in East Pakistan may die in the coming months unless emergency relief and reconstruction measures are undertaken.

* * *

What can Western countries do to help East Pakistan out of this disaster? As has so often been the case, notoriously in the Nigerian civil war, humanitiarian instincts are complicated by politics.

Western governments must naturally want to give assistance in a politically helpful way — one that will hopefully calm the hatreds in East Pakistan, restore the society, open the way for refugees to return. But that surely means an external presence in the area, the handling of relief by someone other than the Pakistan Army — a program not likely to please President Yahya Khan.

The United States and other concerned countries have not put pressure on Yahya Khan publicly. But there are indications that they have been privately using their leverage as his main sources of central economic aid. Reports suggest that Yahya Khan will accept some kind of United Nations presence in East Pakistan.

But the West may find that its greater task, its greater responsibility, lies, in the long run, in India. For in a sense this may become more an Indian than a Pakistani crisis.

* * *

The immediate challenge to India is to feed the refugees, protect them from the coming monsoon and prevent epidemics such as the cholera now spreading in the refugee camps. The huge economic cost of these needs can be met in part from outside, but the social and political costs will be borne by India.

Even without the refugees, Calcutta and that whole area of India has been politically troubled, riven by left-wing factions and violence. The refugees must add appalling strains to an impoverished and tense society.

Mrs. Indira Gandhi, who at best faced a profound task in giving India any hope of progress in the next few years, must now divert much of her energy and her government's to the refugee problem. She must worry also about an extremist-led guerrilla movement developing across the border in East Pakistan if the military occupation continues.

In these circumstances, not only conscience but political wisdom commends western help and support for Mrs. Gandhi. The Indians may often be trying to the West, but Mrs. Gandhi's government is the best hope for stability in southern Asia.

Hydro Strikes Spread

Electrical workers stepped up their action against B.C. Hydro today, with strikes at a number of locations throughout the province.

Tom Forkin, president of Local 258 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, estimated that close to 300 of the 2,000 members were on strike this morning.

The union decided to increase its action at a meeting Saturday.

Previously, in the rotating one-day strikes, between 50 and 70 employees were involved at any one time.

Walkouts today were at Nanaimo, Qualicum, Port Alberni, Burrard thermal plant in Vancouver, Prince Rupert, Vanderhoof, Keenleyside dam, Fernie and Fort St. James. They involved linemen, maintenance men and others.

A B.C. Hydro spokesman said the Burrard thermal plant walkout will delay maintenance work, but the plant itself was a standby one and hadn't been generating power.

The spokesman also said there have been some delays in restoring service in some locations.

Forkin said the new union tactics will involve more workers and more areas than the previous rotating one-day strikes. Some of the areas will be out for more than one day, he said, without identifying them.

He also said the union has written B.C. Hydro asking for clarification of comments by chairman Gordon Shrum to see "if they were ready to approve third-party mediation." There has been no reply yet from B.C. Hydro.

Issues in dispute between the two sides include wages, job security and other matters.

The union wants a wage increase of 18½ per cent over two years, while B.C. Hydro has offered 14 per cent over this period. The union is also seeking job protection for employees when work is contracted out to private companies.

Gangland Drug War Claims 7

DETROIT (AP) — Four women and three men were shot to death today at a De-described as a gangland-type slaying apparently related to an underworld war for control of narcotics.

Police District Inspector James Bannon said all seven victims were shot in the head at close range, some so close they showed powder burns.

An eighth person identified as Robert Gardner, 28, was reported in critical condition in hospital.

The dead were not immediately identified.

Police said the slayings apparently were the latest result of a narcotics war which has claimed about 25 lives in Detroit.

A search of the house, Bannon said, turned up a dozen handguns, a quantity of suspected narcotics and narcotics paraphernalia.

All the victims were found in the first-floor living room of the house. The four women had been tied up. Their purses were found in the room, untouched.

Witnesses Seek Place To Stay

A house-to-house search began Sunday for accommodation for the 3,500 delegates expected to attend the Divine Name District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses, to be held at the Memorial Arena July 21 to 25.

Accommodations manager Leif Rosvold of Nanaimo is using the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, 1095 Joan, as his headquarters and says he is "confident that the people of Victoria will extend the same hospitality they did in 1968 when the last large convention was held."

He says that if people with accommodation phone him representatives will be sent out!

Convention manager John Didue said that requests for accommodation have already been received from four provinces, seven states — and one from New Zealand.

New Hearing Aid

SUPPRESSES BACKGROUND NOISES

A pioneer manufacturer of hearing aids has developed a unique microphone design which permits "selective hearing" — enabling the hearing aid wearer to hear what he wants to hear more clearly, without interference from background noises.

A spokesman for Maico Hearing Instruments of Minneapolis said that a new hearing aid, the "DirectionEar Mark 100," will be the first to use the new microphone. He described the operation of the microphone as a "dephasing action." It incorporates a matchhead-sized block of more than 300 microscopic glass tubes, which have the effect of slowing sound impulses received from the rear, throwing them "out of phase" with the same impulses from the front. The result is a considerable cancellation of these impulses. At the same time, front-entering sound (from the direction the wearer is facing), creates the strongest impulses for amplification. These sounds are clearer and more understandable because of the lessened amplification of background noises.

Extensive test marketing of aids using the new microphone has revealed remarkable improvement for wearers, particularly in the area of speech reception. The difficulties of a new wearer in adapting to an aid are also said to be considerably lessened.

Most noticeable improvement for present hearing aid wearers is the suppression of most background noises, better speech understanding, and ability to "focus" on a speaker or other sound source.

A special 10-minute comparison demonstration has been developed for the new aid, to enable dealers to show present hearing aid wearers the improvement made possible by the new microphone design. The aid may be seen locally at

Economic Policies Attacked by Premiers

Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba delivered a long and detailed lecture on the failings of the federal government's economic policies and demanded a return to a national policy of full employment.

Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick also spoke on economic problems, but said the first priority of the conference was to build a "framework" for action which will alleviate economic ills in some regions of the country.

Schreyer criticized past sessions of the conference for playing "constitutional chess" instead of concentrating on issues important to the people.

The tax structure changes expected soon from the federal government are crucial to the future of Canada, Schreyer said.

The present structure he termed "inequitable, regressive and inefficient."

1945 WHITE PAPER

He said Ottawa should revitalize the federal white paper on economic policy of 1945 which promised no more bouts of depression.

"Any policy that causes mass unemployment has to be rejected, he said.

He said the government's attempts to beat inflation had been "not really a victory — not very effective." Full employment according to standards laid down by the Economic Council of Canada should be the "only" economic policy of Ottawa.

Any wage controls initiated by the federal government should be accompanied by controls on profits, prices, dividends, interest and rents, Schreyer added.

NO CHOICE

Premier Regan of Nova Scotia steered clear of the economic issues, saying the constitutional conference should not become a matter of choosing between changing the constitution and trying to solve economic ills.

He said it would be a "simplistic error" to pretend that there is a "choice."

While telling the other premiers that Nova Scotia fears that the amending formula as earlier agreed upon might give Central Canada too much power, he said his province was willing to accept it.

Who's Good Citizen?

Native Sons of B.C. are looking for good citizens again.

The annual Good Citizen's award will be presented to the citizen having contributed the most to the community over the past year. The presentation will be July 4 at a band concert in Beacon hill Park.

"It's a form of public recognition for service to the community," said John Sullivan, secretary of Victoria Post No. 1. There are a lot of people doing good in the community going unrecognized."

Detailed written nominations should be mailed soon to Sullivan at 3104 Richmond.

Bank of Montreal
The First Canadian Bank

You may feel shy about asking your Bank of Montreal manager for a loan. You needn't be. If a loan will help you out, your branch manager is sure to understand perfectly.

At the Bank of Montreal, we're flexible about granting loans. Each application is judged on its merits. And, when you get your loan, it amounts to more than just dollars and cents. You get your money's worth in financial advice, follow-up services, and straight information about how to handle your banking affairs.

Rich people are always getting advice from their bank manager. We see no reason why you shouldn't have that advice, too. You may not become wealthy — although you might — but you certainly would know how to get the most for your money. And that means you'd more than likely do better than you're doing now. We want you to get your money's worth.

Three loan applicants: Who got their money's worth?

He owed too much money:
Robert M. is a carpet salesman. Last year, when his wife became ill, Robert found his medical coverage was insufficient. He felt he needed to borrow $2,500. His Bank of Montreal manager loaned him $3,500 to pay all his bills. Consolidating these debts reduced his rate of interest. Robert feels he got his money's worth.

He wanted to "hit the road":
Joe G., a T.V. repairman, loves the country. A mobile camper was his dream. His Bank of Montreal manager lent him $4,000 to buy a camper and showed him how to dovetail the loan with a savings plan. Joe now takes his family on weekend campouts, has a good time, and his savings are growing steadily. He got his money's worth.

She got more elbow room:
Ann B. is a suburban physiotherapist. Recently, she decided her treatment room wasn't large enough. She asked her Bank of Montreal manager for $2,000 to enlarge it. He lent her $3,000. The extra would allow her to enlarge her waiting room, too. Her patients are now more comfortable and her business has increased.

$50 MILLION worth of construction and housing equipment sits idle at eight work camps waiting to put in the proposed Prudhoe Bay to Valdez pipeline. These machines at Galbraith Lake are looked after by seven men until the U.S. interior department gives the go-ahead for construction. This is not expected before the fall. (AP Wirephoto)

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trading was light and prices were steady in all commodities except rapeseed at the close of the grain exchange today.

Rapeseed was sharply easier on heavy hedge offers and some local and commission house interest.

Oats and barley showed some domestic shipper interest and rye was firm on some exporter interest, inter-month spreading.

Volume of trade Friday was 725,000 bushels of flax, 3,697,000 of rapeseed, 1,594,000 of rye.

Jobs Eliminated

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has ordered the elimination of some 8,000 city jobs, including the firing of 25 executives whose salaries total more then $500,000 a year. Lindsay disclosed the layoffs to his cabinet Sunday as he slashed about $300 million from his original $9.1 billion budget proposal to reflect the reduced city tax package authorized by the state legislature. The job cuts will be in addition to the 10,000 city employee jobs eliminated since last October.

BUSINESS AND FINANCE

Dylex

Dylex Diversified Ltd. reports double earnings per share for the quarter ended May 1 compared with a year ago. A total $277,000 (10 cents a share) was produced by sales of $21 million, up 18 per cent from last year, when earnings were $157,000 (five cents).

Operating income was $1 million vs. $847,000, or 27 per cent improvement, largely through higher sales in new and exisiting stores, improved inventory turnover and cost control.

Stampede-Canarctic

Stampede Canarctic Golden Dome No. 2, their second Montana well, will be deepened by Canarctic Resources Ltd. and Stampede International Resources Ltd. A start has been made by the operator, Molen Drilling, of Billings.

Three horizons are to be tested, at 1,500, 3,000 and 5,300 feet, representing possible oil sand at the first and gas at the other two levels.

Testing is planned for Canarctic Golden Dome No. 1 prior to it being placed on stream with Montana Dakota Utilities Co. at a wellhead price of 17.5 cents a thousand cubic feet.

Rose Pass

Negotiations have been commenced to finance ore refining facilities at its Group claims in Nevada, reports Vancouver-based Rose Pass Mines Ltd.

Engineering of an open pit mining operation for the copper deposit has proceeded based on diamond drill holes, a shaft and adit, which have assayed good values. Design of a crushing plant indicates construction will be within estimate, and a preliminary plan of leaching facilities has been done.

Farmout of its Digmore property is being negotiated in light of striking sulphides at depth.

Granges

A world-wide dip in steel and other metal prices may affect Granges Co. profit by 10 to 20 per cent by fall, predicts chairman Erland Waldenstrom, of Stockholm.

Granges main poducts are steel, copper, aluminum and iron ore, which are expected to improve next year and on which Granges hopes to capitalize by an expanded marketing organization, streamlined administration and better output capacity.

In 1970 the company had sales of $611 million vs. $549 million in 1969, producing net earnings of $21 million ($20 million) a record high.

Doman

Half-year results for Doman Industries Ltd. show record levels for earnings and sales — nearly doubled profits on a share basis from 17 to 30 cents, or from $226,000 to $398,000 as of April 30.

Sales went from $6.8 million to $8.68 million, and in the most recent quarter from $3.8 million to $4.5 million, which also was an improvement over first quarter sales of just over $4 million.

Net in the second quarter was $228,000 (17 cents) vs. $142 (11 cents) a year ago.

President H. S. Doman said the lumber manufacturing division has been able to sell everything it produced and he looked forward to a good market the rest of the year. Pending federal tax proposals, financing commitments have been received for expansion of mill capacity.

Clearwater

Evaluation of a winter geophysical progam is being carried out on the Northumberland County properties of Clearwater Mines Ltd., of Bathurst, N.B.

In agreement with Atlantic Coast Copper Corp., Ltd., at least $350,000 is to be spent, with Atlantic having the right to earn up to 55 per cent of the holdings of Clearwater or 55 per cent of a new company to be formed. The latter course was taken, and Micmac Mines Ltd., was incorporated, with Atlantic's initial holding 45 per cent.

Values in copper, nickel, cobalt, silver and bismuth have been assayed and in addition, platinum is pesent. In the recovery process, iron and sulphur are expected to be added to the payout.

'Considerable Interest' In Pipeline

VANCOUVER (CP) — Commercial Transport Minister Frank Richter says the provincial government's invitation for bids to build a natural gas pipeline from the mainland to Vancouver Island has attracted "considerable interest not only in B.C., but across Canada."

No formal submissions have yet been received, he said Sunday, but there have been several "inquiries and proposals, mostly asking for additional information."

Richter estimates the investment required for such a pipeline will range from $60 million to $100 million, depending on the engineering and routing proposals made.

"It will depend on whether there is a branch line into Powell River or a main line into Powell River," he said.

"A long, underwater crossing could be very costly, island-hopping at Seymour Narrows could be less expensive. There are any number of engineering proposals under study."

Under terms set by the provincial government in announcing the scheme, B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, as distributor for Vancouver Island, would be permitted to acquire equity in the pipeline up to 25 per cent.

So far, said Richter, Hydro is not involved in any of the informal proposals he has received.

He said any bids received are scheduled for opening in Premier Bennett's office July 30.

Kaiser Negotiates Coal Price Increase

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Kaiser Resources Ltd. has negotiated a price increase for the coal it sells to Mitshbishi Corp. of Tokyo from its Sparwood mines, Kaiser President C. Lee Emerson announced Sunday.

Emerson said his firm reached agreement with Mitsubishi for changes in price, specifications and delivery rates on its 15-year, 75 million-ton coal sales contract for the period April 1, 1971 through June 30, 1972.

Kaiser Resources, Canadian subsidiary of Kaiser Steel Corp., lost $64 million in the first quarter of 1971 on its contract, Emerson said.

"Even with the additional revenue from interim price adjustment and the special cost assistance, operating losses for Kaiser Resources are anticipated to continue for at least the next several quarters," Emerson said in a letter to the shareholders.

Kaiser Steel owns 75 per cent of the subsidiary.

Emerson listed these changes in the contract: During the 15-month period, there will be an increase of $2.50 Canadian a long ton and "a special cost assistance in the form of a special price increase of $1.85 U.S. a long ton."

This was in addition "to the previously agreed price adjustment reflecting variations in the U.S.-Canadian dollar exchange rate."

Specifications for the amount of ash permitted in the coal will be set at 11 per cent maximum for the period July, 1971 through March, 1972, and 9½ per cent beginning April, 1972.

Shipments of metallurgical coal are expected to reach an annual date of 4.4 million long tons during the period, he said.

Emerson said Kaiser expects to complete plant modifications and other mining changes during this period at its Sparwood facilities and mine.

Let's Talk Real Estate by Jack Mears

I am sure there is not one reader of this column, who, sitting watching a T.V. show, has not had a member of his or her family decide to discuss a feature of the show or do something else at a time which caused the next crucial point in the theme to be missed by interrupting a train of thought.

This very same thing is what often happens with owners trying to sell their own homes. They are bound to talk, and they may talk and usually do, just at the wrong time or about the wrong thing. No one is going to stop anyone buying a home priced to suit them, if it meets all their wants. No one is going to make anyone buy a home they dislike intensely. Between these two factors is a large area where desire can be created or destroyed and it is in this area that the professional realtor is trained to know when to talk and when to listen; when to lead or to be led. It is useless discussing a view at the moment the prospect is thinking about placing a large buffet, or kitchen cabinets when she is thinking of where the family will eat. The way to a favourable decision lies in showing the prospects what they want to see and in giving answers which show them how, what are to them undesirable features, can be overcome. If we can help, call 598-3321.

NATIONAL ENERGY BOARD
NOTICE OF JOINT HEARING

TAKE NOTICE that pursuant to the National Energy Board Act and Regulations made thereunder, the Board has ordered that a joint hearing be held in the Court Room of the National Energy Board, Room 940, Trebla Building, 473 Albert Street, in the City of Ottawa, in the Province of Ontario, commencing on Tuesday, the 13th day of July, 1971, at the hour of 9:30 a.m. local time to hear together the applications described herein. The Board will first hear evidence respecting Canadian gas requirements, reserves and surplus at the conclusion of which evidence the hearing will be adjourned sine die pending a determination by the Board as to what quantity of gas, if any, may be available for export. If the Board is able to satisfy itself that all or part of the quantities of gas to be exported under the said applications do not exceed the surplus remaining after due allowance has been made for the reasonably foreseeable requirements for use in Canada having regard to the trends in the discovery of gas in Canada, the said hearing will then be resumed for the purpose of hearing the remainder of the evidence to be given in support of the said applications.

1. ALBERTA AND SOUTHERN GAS CO. LTD. for a licence under Part VI of the Act for the exportation of gas at a place on the international boundary between Canada and the United States near Kingsgate, British Columbia for a period of fifteen years or such longer period as the Board on consideration of the evidence may deem just and the law allow, commencing on the date of first exportation of gas under authority of and in accordance with the licence; the quantity of gas to be exported not to exceed 218,000,000 cubic feet in any one day nor an average of 73,000,000,000 cubic feet per annum nor 1,095,000,000,000 cubic feet during the term of the licence except that, if the term of any licence issued by the Board exceeds fifteen years, the quantity authorized to be exported during the term of the licence would be increased by 73,000,000,000 cubic feet per year for each year beyond fifteen years.

2. ALBERTA NATURAL GAS COMPANY for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to Part III of the Act in respect of approximately 41.5 miles of loops of pipe in five separate sections, additional metering facilities at the Kingsgate Meter Station, and inlet gas scrubber at Compressor Station No. 1 near Crowsnest and a pressure relief valve station at Compressor Station No. 2A near Elko, all proposed to be constructed and installed in the Province of British Columbia.

3. CANADIAN-MONTANA PIPE LINE COMPANY for a licence under Part VI of the Act for the exportation of gas at a place on the international boundary between Canada and the United States in Section 4, Township 1, Range 25, West of the 4th Meridian, in the Province of Alberta during a period of fifteen years or such longer period as the Board on consideration of the evidence may deem just and the law allow, commencing on the date of first exportation of gas under authority of and in accordance with the licence; the quantity of gas to be exported not to exceed 24,000,000 cubic feet in any one day, nor an average of 7,300,000,000 cubic feet per annum nor 109,500,000,000 cubic feet during the term of the licence except that if the term of any licence issued by the Board exceeds fifteen years, the quantity authorized to be exported during the term of the licence would be increased by 7,300,000,000 cubic feet per year for each year beyond fifteen years.

4. CONSOLIDATED NATURAL GAS LIMITED for:
   (a) a licence under Part VI of the Act for the exportation of gas at a point on the international boundary between Canada and the United States near Emerson, in the Province of Manitoba for a period of twenty years commencing on the date of initial delivery; the quantity of gas that may be exported under the authority of and in accordance with the licence shall not exceed 240,000,000 cubic feet in any one day, nor an average of 77,500,000,000 cubic feet per annum, nor 1,460,000,000,000 cubic feet during the term of the licence;
   (b) a licence under Part VI of the Act for the importation of gas at a point on the international boundary between Canada and the United States near Willow Creek in the Province of Saskatchewan and for the exportation of such gas at a point on the international boundary between Canada and the United States near Emerson in the Province of Manitoba for a period of twenty years commencing on the date of initial delivery; the quantity of gas that may be imported and exported under authority of and in accordance with the licence shall be the same and shall not exceed 150,000,000 cubic feet in any one day, nor an average of 45,000,000,000 cubic feet per annum, nor 669,000,000,000 cubic feet during the term of the licence.

5. CONSOLIDATED PIPE LINES COMPANY for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity pursuant to Part III of the Act in respect of the following facilities proposed to be constructed and installed:
   (a) approximately 131 miles of 16-inch pipe commencing at the interconnection with the pipe line system of Northern Natural Gas Company at the international boundary between Canada and the United States near Willow Creek, in the Province of Saskatchewan, and terminating at the junction with the pipe line system of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited at the latter's Station No. 9, in the Province of Saskatchewan;
   (b) approximately 200 feet of 30-inch pipe connecting the pipe line system of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited with the pipe line system of Northern Natural Gas Company at the international boundary between Canada and the United States near Emerson, in the Province of Manitoba;
   (c) one 3,500 horsepower turbine driven centrifugal compressor located near Shaunavon, in the Province of Saskatchewan, all as more particularly described in the applications.

6. An application to be filed with the National Energy Board by TRANS-CANADA PIPE LINES LIMITED for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity pursuant to Part III of the Act in respect of those facilities proposed to be constructed and installed by it pursuant to its contractual obligation to Consolidated Natural Gas Limited to apply for such a Certificate to construct the facilities required to transmit gas for Consolidated Natural Gas Limited, such application to be filed not less than fourteen days prior to the day of commencement of any resumed hearing which the Board may order and direct and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited shall file, serve and publish notice of its said application in accordance with such directions as the Board may issue.

AND THE BOARD HAS FURTHER ORDERED THAT:

1. Any respondent or intervenor intending to oppose or intervene in the applications shall file on or before the 6th day of July, 1971, with the Secretary of the Board twenty (20) copies of a written statement containing his reply or submission, together with any supporting information, particulars or documents, which shall contain a concise statement of the facts from which the nature of the respondent's or intervenor's interest in the proceeding may be determined which may admit or deny any or all of the facts alleged in the applications and which shall be endorsed with the name and address of the respondent or intervenor or his solicitor to whom communications may be sent. Any respondent or intervenor shall, in addition, serve three (3) copies of his reply or submission, and supporting information, particulars or documents upon each of the Applicants and upon the Attorneys General of the Provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec, the British Columbia Energy Board, the Energy Resources Conservation Board of Alberta, the Oil and Gas Conservation Board of Saskatchewan, the Oil and Natural Gas Conservation Board of Manitoba, the Ontario Energy Board, the Electricity and Gas Board of Quebec and the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, 111 Sparks Street, Ottawa.

2. Subject to subsection (3) of section 5 of the Board's Rules of Practice and Procedure, compliance by the Applicants with subsection (1)(b) of section 5 of the said Rules and with clause 2(ii) of Part I of the Schedule to the said Rules be dispensed with except for that evidence and information filed with the application and to be adduced at the hearing thereof, and such other evidence as the Board deems relevant.

3. Leave be granted for such evidence and information adduced at hearings before the Board or before any Board, Commission or other competent tribunal of a Province for authority to take or remove gas from that Province and for any report, finding or Order made in respect thereof, as the Applicants may deem necessary and the Board permit, to be received in evidence at the hearing of these applications.

4. Any interested party may examine all of the applications and the submissions filed therewith at the office of the National Energy Board, Room 1138, Trebla Building, 473 Albert Street, Ottawa, and the individual applications of the respective Applicants at the following addresses:

Reagan Puts Money In Tax Shelter Cows

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, who paid no 1970 state income taxes, is a client of a firm which helps the wealthy gain a tax shelter based on tax laws preferential to cattle breeders, the Sacramento Bee and New York Times report.

The governor has steadfastly refused to discuss publicly his private business affairs, and the Sunday reports of the two newspapers were the fist detailed accounts of any segment of Reagan's private investments.

In The Bee's copyright story, reporter James Wrightson said Reagan invested an unknown amount of money in Oppenheime Industries, Inc., of Kansas City, Mo., which manages 120,000 head of cattle in 18 states—including stock of the Reagan Cattle Co.

MUST HAVE $500,000

Oppenheimer Industries' application to operate in California says its clients must have a net worth of at least $500,000.

The Bee story quoted an Oppenheimer booklet that outlined the legal tax shelter advantages to investing in cattle:

"Federal tax laws favor cattle if you pick the right kind and stick to the rules. Herds of beef cows top the list.

"When you buy them, you become a farmer and can keep your books on a cash basis. You put in doors that depreciate or are deductible. You take out capital gains."

Capital gains are taxed at 50 per cent the rate of normal earned income.

Albuquerque Under Curfew Following Looting, Killing

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (CP) — A state of civil emergency was imposed early today after a night of wild disorder in which one person was killed and 11 were wounded by gunfire, businesses burned and looted and police headquarters stoned by a crowd of 500 young people.

The trouble flared after police apparently tried to make arrests at a park for public drinking.

The dead man was shot, possibly by a security guard, while looting a liquor store, police said. The store was later set on fire.

Police said at least 24 persons were injured, two critically, including several reporters injured by flying objects.

Under the emergency order, a curfew was in effect from 1 a.m. until 6 a.m., with all persons on the streets subject to arrest or questioning.

VIOLENCE GOES ON

But the violence continued into the early morning hours.

The trouble started Sunday afternoon at a crowded city park when police attempted to arrest a young man, or a group of youths, for public drinking.

After the attempted arrests at Roosevelt Park, an area popular with young people and about two miles from the downtown area, a crowd gathered and pelted the officers and police reinforcements with rocks and bottles.

Two police cars were overturned and set afire. Three others were damaged. Officers responded with tear gas. An Albuquerque Journal reporter at the scene said police then drew their pistols and fired at persons in the crowd.

When police pulled back, the crowd moved toward the centre of Albuquerque.

Witnesses said at least three marchers carried rifles.

At police headquarters, the crowd threw rocks at the building, set fire to another police vehicle, overturned a private car and broke windows in many nearby buildings.

4 of 9 Babies Survive Record Birth

By TERRY STAYTE

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuter) — Only four of the nine babies born sunday to a Canberra housewife who took a fertility drug were still alive today, and doctors refused to speculate on the chances of survival for three of them.

Seven of the nine babies were born alive to 29-year-old Geraldine Brodrick, but three died Sunday night after developing breathing difficulties.

In a bulletin announcing the deaths of two boys and a girl, the Royal Hospital for Women this morning said the condition of two of the three surviving girls and the only remaining boy was "causing concern."

The condition of the fourth surviving baby, a girl, was described as unchanged from birth. At that time, the hospital described the babies' chances as the same as in any multiple birth.

Of the four survivors, the first-born girl weighed the most, two pounds two ounces. The two other girls weighed one pound two ounces and one pound, while the boy weighed only 12 ounces.

LARGEST RECORDED

The birth of the nonuplets was the largest multiple birth on record. Amid the proliferation in mass births since the use of fertility drugs became widespread in the last decade, eight babies were born to a Mexican woman March 10, 1967, but all died within 14 hours.

The hospital spokesman said Mrs. Brodrick had made an excellent recovery and was in no need of any special postnatal treatment.

Geraldine Brodrick gets kiss from husband, Len.

Congratulations poured in from around the world.

Social Services Minister William Wentworth said in a message to Mrs. Brodrick he would seek special government financial aid for the family.

Doctors treating Mrs. Brodrick said that she had been treated with a fertility drug—although not for infertility. She has two other children: Belinda, 5, and Jacqueline, 4.

Mrs. Brodrick's husband, Leonard, is a 32-year-old meat salesman and she is a former nurse. They live in Canberra, Australia's capital.

The woman entered hospital three weeks ago after tests showed she was likely to have sextuplets. Doctors advised her five days ago that further tests indicated nine babies would be born.

The five boys and four girls were delivered naturally in 32 minutes by a medical team. Mrs. Brodrick's two other children were born by Caesarean section.

The Brodricks sold their story to a Sydney newspaper and broadcasting group for an undisclosed sum.

'BATTLING' FROGS MAKE LOVE NOT WAR

By JEANNETTE SMYTH

WASHINGTON (WP) — You may remember reports that thousands of Malaysian frogs were battling from late October to mid-December last year, while Malaysians said the war was an omen of national disaster. Frog wars, they said, preceded the Japanese invasion in the '40s, outbreaks of Communist terrorism in 1948, and 1969 race riots in the capital of Kuala Lumpur.

Now, it seems — as Mother Nature gets the last laugh on us — the frogs weren't fighting after all. They were breeding.

The centre for short-lived phenomena — an arm of the Smithsonian Institution in Cambridge, Mass. — has released this finding in its annual report, issued recently.

Press reports last fall said that in one location, two "armies" of frogs — one side various shades of green, and the other a motley troop of black, yellow and brown frogs — fought for five days "over the scant few breeding grounds left by unusually high rains." The frog-warriors, they reported, princely even in defeat, carried their dead out of the 15-to-18-foot mud puddle in which they supposedly foulght to the death.

By the time scientists had heard of the battle and reached the mud puddle, nary a frog was in sight. What was in sight were fertilized eggs and tadpoles.

The zoologists concluded that the frog "war" had attracted some 10 species of frog, and had been another one of the "breeding aggregations" frogs have after they've escaped droughts by hibernating underground — called "estivation." Heavy rains bring them out, a few frog couples appear at the breeding grounds and their cries of joy are heard by thousands of other frogs, who join the spree.

And that story about their carrying their dead away?

Well, when passionate frogs embrace — called "amplexus" in which the male frog presses the eggs out of the female's body and fertilizes them outside — it looks as though one is giving the other a piggy-back ride. What might have happened was that friendly frog couples were sneaking away together for some peace and quiet.

Pollution Bounty

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "It was never a question of whether I should do it, but one of how," the tall, 30-year-old political scientist from Colorado said. "The 72-year-old law had to be it."

David Nixon thumbed through his six-inch-thick water pullution report that tells of a 65-mile canoe trip on the Ohio and the Monongahela rivers.

And of detective work under the 1899 Rivers and Harbors Act that could mean the beginning of a new breed of environmentalist — the water pollution bounty hunter.

Nixon and his partner, zooologist John Zavodni, 27, followed the act to the letter, prompting the U.S. justice department to file criminal charges against four corporations on a total of 73 counts of water pollution.

The corporations and the number of charges against each: U.S. Steel Corp. 35, Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. 21, Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. 13 and Pennsylvania Industrial Chemical Corp. four.

The U.S. attorney for western Pennsylvania, Richard Thornburgh, said the corporations will be arraigned shortly and that if convicted, could be fined a maximum $2,500 on each count.

And that's where a little-known fact of the old act comes into play. It says that the government will split fines 50-50 with whoever supplies the evidence.

Three Levels of Government Chasing the Same Tax Dollar

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson's budget next Friday is expected to point up the fact that as many as three kinds of governments look to the same people for tax revenues.

At present, federal and provincial income taxes are to a large extent integrated. But under the tax plan originally proposed in November, 1969, that would change.

And there has been no move by the federal government towards giving taxpayers any offset for municipal taxes on land or houses.

Under current federal tax law, after computing his ordinary federal income taxes, a taxpayer deducts 28 per cent which is set aside for the province in which he lives. Ottawa collects the money, but pays that amount to the province.

Taxpayers in Nova Scotia, Ontario and British Columbia—and for the present, at least, in Prince Edward Island—pay no more in provincial income taxes. But the other provinces, and P.E.I. starting July 1, levy additional taxes.

RATE VARIES

The current rate is 33 per cent of federal taxes in Newfoundland and Alberta, 34 per cent in Saskatchewan, 38 per cent in New Brunswick, and 39 per cent in Manitoba. Starting July 1, P.E.I.'s rate goes up to 30.5 per cent from the present nominal 28 per cent.

Many Ottawa politicians have been unhappy for many years about the fact that Ottawa taxes and collects money that is spent by the provinces. Ottawa gets all the odium of taxing, while the provinces get whatever kudos there are for spending.

Under the tax plan proposed by Mr. Benson and not likely to be changed when he brings down Friday's budget, Ottawa will simply tax for its own purposes. It will leave it to the provinces to carry the political load of setting their own tax rates.

However, Mr. Benson says Ottawa is still willing to act as a collection agent for the provinces. The provinces would have to write their provincial tax laws in terms of straight percentage of the federal tax.

Quebec has gone farther. It has set up its own tax system and collection machinery. Because it also operates independently in some of the fields of shared federal-provincial programs, Ottawa now abates federal income tax by 50 per cent in Quebec.

Under the white paper plan, Ottawa would abate its taxes in Quebec by 22 per cent, thus preserving the balance after the current 28-per-cent offset is ended.

Bill Backlog Pushes MPs Into Overtime

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons goes into its second week of overtime today in an 11th hour drive to push through legislation and rise for summer recess.

Scheduled for debate beginning at 11 a.m.—three hours earlier than usual—are bills to amend the Judges Act, create five pilotage districts for Canadian shipping, and establish standards to fight air pollution across the country.

The bill to amend the Judges Act, the only one of 11 bills remaining on the Commons order paper which has yet to receive second reading, was slated for first consideration.

It would increase the number of federally-appointed judges by 12 to 441 and raise the salaries of such judges by as much as $9,000.

The other two bills are at report stage, the step immediately following committee consideration and preceding third and final reading.

HOPES FOR APPROVAL

The government also hoped that Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey's unemployment insurance bill would be given third reading tonight.

Debate has been completed on amendments proposed at report stage, and votes on those amendments that require formal counts are scheduled for 8 p.m. EDT.

If debate on third reading is short, the bill could have Commons approval by the end of the sitting.

It would expand the unemployment insurance program by bringing in 1.2 million people who haven't been covered, would increase benefits and reduce qualifying work periods.

Debate on legislation will end at 5 p.m. Friday, when Finance Minister E. J. Benson brings down his budget.

Did You Ever See a Baldheaded Sheep?

While the fact that there are no baldheaded sheep may have no bearing on growth of human hair, it is from the wool of the sheep that the natural lanolin used in NIL-O-NAL is extracted.

Your Scalp Is Not An Oilwell

Your hair needs natural scalp oils to keep it growing strong and thick. When you dry-out or wash-out those protective oils, you're inviting hair trouble—dandruff, itchy scalp, even falling hair! So why take chances? Replace those vital oils daily by using NIL-O-NAL (Lanolin spelled backwards).

CURLS, CURLS, CURLS!

Even when it rains!

If you want deep, flattering curls that last and last—even in rainy weather—just use NIL-O-NAL before you set your hair. Results are amazing. Your curls are bouncy, springy, long-lasting. Your hair is softer, easy to manage. And because it medicates as well as beautifies, NIL-O-NAL helps stop hair ends from splitting off.

SEE RESULTS IN 30 DAYS

If you want the hair benefits we know NIL-O-NAL can give you, get a jar today. It's the most successful lanolin formula in Canada and we guarantee you'll be completely astonished in 30 days . . . or your money back! Special prices now apply. Only 89¢ for a 1 oz. jar; only $1.49 for a 2 oz. jar; only $2.49 for the money-saving 4 oz. jar. Get NIL-O-NAL today at any drug or cosmetic counter. Remember, this guarantee applies only if you insist on NIL-O-NAL. That's lanolin spelled backwards!

Central Nips Lansdowne In Claiming Island Title

Central added another leaf to its wreath of laurels Saturday by capturing the Vancouver Island junior high school track and field championship for the first time.

The Greater Victoria champions from Central nipped Lansdowne 115-112 for the title while defeding-champion Woodlands of Nanaimo came third with 107 points. Elizabeth Fisser placed fourth with 104, only 11 points behind the winners in a close race at Centennial Stadium.

Junior girls and midget boys, who each won their aggregate titles with 45 and 37 points, respectively, powered Central to victory.

John Barsby of Nanaimo captured the midget girls title with 31 points and Lansdowne won junior boys' honors with 53 points.

ALL RECORDS

Because of the switch to metric distances this year, all track performances will count as records in the books but Ronni Hind of Lansdowne led a strong standard-setting display by girls on the field.

The distaff competitors snapped seven records in 10 events while boys managed to break six marks in the 14 field events.

Miss Hind came within two inches of jumping her height with a record-breaking 54'' high jump in the junior girls competition.

Other junior girls' records were 17'3¾'' long jump by Donna Hammond of Central and a 108'7'' javelin toss by John Barsby's Cathy Wylie.

Laurie Budd of John Barsby erased old marks in the midget girls' section with a 5'1'' high jump and a 16'5⅝'' long jump while clubmate Jean Calverly raised the discus standard to 106'8'' and the shot put record to 39'0''.

Midget boys' records were set by Lance Shannon of Campbell River with a discus toss of 121'7¼''; Peter Olson of Woodlands with a 141'1'' javelin hurl; John Young of E. J. Dunn in Port Alberni with a 17'4½'' long jump and Gordon Sutherland of Woodlands with a 9'7½'' pole vault.

Nanaimo Jumper Surprises Brill

PORTLAND, Ore. (CP) — Brenda Steffanson, 16, of Nanaimo proved one of the major surprises of the track and field season here Saturday afternoon at the Rose Festival meet when she tied North American record-holder Debbie Brill of Haney in the women's high jump event.

SAME HEIGHT

Miss Steffanson and Miss Brill both jumped five feet, 9½ inches but Miss Brill was given the victory on a countback, having made fewer misses at lower heights. Debbie's sister, Connie, finished fourth at 5'4''.

Two other British Columbians also scored victories.

West Vancouver's Stephanie Berto won both the women's 100 and 220-yard dashes. She won the 100 in 10.8 seconds and the 220 in 23.5, equalling her best time. In both the 100 and 220 she was followed to the tape by Vancouver runners Patti Loverock and Irene Piotrowski.

Joyce Sadowick, 17, of Burnaby won the women's 440 in 55.0, defeating American champion Jarvis Scott of California, who finished second in 56.1.

Other B.C. performances included Penny May of Victoria and Wendy Taylor of Abbotsford, finishing second and third, respectively, in the 100-metre hurdles event in 13.7 and 14.3 and Vancouver's Bill Smart finishing second in the mile in 4:05.3.

Joan Pavelich of Vancouver finished third in the shot put at 46'10¼''.

Noreen Liepins, Vancouver, placed second in the 880 in 2:09.8.

Victoria's Stephanie Corby, 18, was a surprising third, crossing the finish line in the same time as Mrs. Leipins.

U.S. RECORD

A United States competitor, Doris Brown of Seattle, established a U.S. record for the women's mile at 4:39.61, wiping out her own pending mark of 4:41.3.

Mrs. Brown, a slim blonde, was about 50 yards ahead at the finish. Vicki Foltz, also of Seattle, was second in 4:51.46.

The world record for the women's mile is 4:36.8, set by Marie Gommers of Holland in 1969.

MINOR BASEBALL

Carl's Stretch Run Shakes Title Rivals

By DOUG PEDEN

Carl Schwantje broke out of a pressure-packed traffic jam with a sub-par performance on the final nine holes Sunday at the Glen Meadows course to edge Dave Mick by two strokes and add the Victoria City amateur golf championship to the provincial amateur crown he won last year.

Starting the closing round of the 36-hole tournament with a one-stroke lead over Hal Jacobsen, Dave Mick and Ray Seymour after a par-matching 72 at Gorge Vale the previous weekend, the tall, lean belter from Victoria Golf Coub appeared a doubtful conqueror after Sunday's first nine holes.

The blond, 19-year-old Schwantje needed 39 strokes — three over par — to negotiate the outgoing nine of the trouble-studded North Saanich layout.

That left Carl at 111 for 27 holes and locked in four-way tie with Mick, Seymour and determined Reg Clarkson, who went out in 37.

Jacobsen, having more trouble than expected on his home course, also fired a 39 and remained one shot off the pace as other pursuers moved into shooting distance of the lead.

Among them were former-champion Al MacLeod and Cedar Hill junior Wayne O'Malley, each with a 36 to climb within three blows of the front-runners, and Lawrie Kerr, the Royal Colwood veteran who was four shots back at that point in his bid for a third straight title and his ninth city crown.

There was no room for errors for Carl's contenders on the closing nine. Schwantje finished with eight pars and one birdie (on the par-5 13th) for a one-under-par 35, which gave him a two-over 74 for the day and an 18-hole tally of 146.

DECEPTIVE GREENS

Mick, the former city junior champion from Gorge Vale, was the only man to seriously challenge the new champion down to the final green as the Glen Meadows rough and the rolling, deceptively-slow greens took their toll of contenders.

CLARKSON

Jacobsen slipped back with bogies on the 10th and 11th holes, Clarkson's hopes vanished when he followed successive bogies with a triple-bogey eight on the 13th, and Seymour faded with bogies at 10 and 12, and a double-bogey at 14.

Jacobsen and Seymour each wound up at 78 to tie for third at 151. MacLeod (74) and Ken Floyd (76) were next in line at 152, two shots ahead of the trio of Kerr (77), Mike Kolb (78) and Bob Hunt (74).

Mick had dropped two shots off Schwantje's pace when he went one over par on each of the 11th and 12th holes. But Dave matched Carl's bird on the 13th, also matched his pars on the next three holes and then stroked in a nine-foot putt for a birdie deuce on the 17th green to start the final hole only one shot back.

BOOMER ON 18TH

Mick, hitting his second shot on the 18th off a downhill lie, came up short and wound up with a five on the par-four, 405-yarder.

Schwantje, who blasted only a few of his usual booming drives during the day, uncorked a big one off the 18th tee. He still had reason for worry when his second shot — a high iron shot with a slight fade around an oak tree — bounced off the back of the green. Fretting ended quickly when Carl chipped within three feet and dropped the putt for his par and the title.

Schwantje, who stroked some superb iron shots and had a fine touch for approach putts that enabled him to escape with only one three-putt green, believed that putting was the factor that got him home in front.

"I only had about four or five good drives," he said, "but I made lot of good lag putts that saved pars for me."

Seymour, a Gorge Vale junior who played Sunday as a five-handicapper after starting the tourney as a six, wound up as the winner of the event's second major prize — the Matson Trophy, emblematic of the handicap championship.

With his total handicap of 11 and rounds of 73 and 78, Seymour finished with a net tally of 140, three shots ahead of Jeff Jones, another Gorge youngster.

Dunc Conrad was third at 144, one stroke in front of Larry Ware and Chuck McBey.

Kathy Wears Crown

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Veteran Kathy Whitworth regained the Ladies' Professional Golf Association championship which eluded her in playofs in 1968 and 1970 by winning the rich $55,000 Eve tournament Sunday with a 72-hole total of 288 at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

The 31-year-old Texan, the top money winner of all time on the LPGA tour, fired a final-round 74, one over par, in captuing the title she first won in 1967.

Miss Whitworth fashioned her 59th LPGA tournament victory, second only to Mickey Wight's record 81, which picking up first prize of $7,950 and boosting her official earnings to $326,054 since she turned pro in 1959.

She put together rounds of 71-73-70-74 in winning her third consecutive tournament.

NURSES LEAD

Miss Whitworth cautiously nursed a three-stroke lead over Kathy Ahearn entering the final round. Miss Ahearn, a non-winner since joining the tour three years ago, went two over par for a 76 but collected runner-up money of $5,800.

Sandra Haynie, a three-time winner on the pro tour this year, made a drive to overtake Miss Whitworth in the final nine holes, then faded, finishing in a three-way tie for third with Sandra Post Elliott of Oakville, Ont., the 1968 LPGA champion, and former New England titlist Jane Blalock.

Miss Ahearn wound up with an even-par 292 after her 75. Miss Blalock and Mrs. Elliott each had final rounds of 72 or their 293s.

Miss Haynie, who trailed by only two strokes after the 70th hole, settled for a closing round of 74.

Mrs. Elliott won $3,278.

Bermuda Surprises; Greco Sharp in 1-1 Tie

TORONTO (CP) — Canada and Bermuda played to a 1-1 tie in an Olympic Games qualifying round soccer match before 3,000 fans here Sunday.

John Schepers scored for Canada after 21 minutes but Bermuda tied the game after four minutes of the second half when George Brangman scored on a breakaway.

Canada and Bermuda are grouped with Mexico in their zone. Mexico is leading with two wins in two games. Canada has recorded a win, a loss and a tie while Bermuda has two losses and one tie.

Goalkeeper Peter Greco of Burnaby was instrumental in keeping the Canadians in the game, playing behind a faltering defence that never did get into stride.

The Bermudans meet Mexico at Mexico City Friday night.

John McMahon, Canadian team manager, said his team is looking for Bermuda to upset the Mexicans but "it doesn't look too bright."

PLAY AT VANCOUVER

The Canadians, who dropped an earlier 2-0 game in Mexico, play the return engagement at Vancouver Aug. 24.

It was one of the Canadians' many defensive lapses that allowed the Bermuda club to score. Brangman, the outstanding player on the field, picked up a loose ball just outside the Canadain half of the field, moved around fullback Peter Duerdin, and went unmolested in on Greco before drilling his shot from 20 yards out.

The Canadian attack appeared somewhat sluggish until the final five minutes when they swarmed the Bermuda goal.

"I don't know," said McMahon after admitting it was Canada's worst game. "At times they played as though tsey didn't even know each other."

OPEN FAST

Canada opened fast in the early minutes and fans expected them to at least double the 3-0 score they chalked up against the Bermudans in their first meeting.

Schepers' score came off a lobbed corner kick by Bill Young that was headed into the goal well out of reach of goalkeeper Grenvill Nasum.

Light rain that made play slippery fell throughout the game. But Canada's biggest mistake was in not mounting a determined attalk. Time and time again, Canadian players had possession of the ball but instead of passing elected to try and dribble around the opposition.

Gorge Wins Pair; No-Hitter Spiked

Gorge Hotel scored two victories in weekend action in the Senior Amateur Baseball League to move into a second-place tie with Greaves Movers.

But it wasn't easy, especially on Sunday against Farmer Construction.

Pete Jolly of Farmers had a no-hit game in his grasp until the seventh inning and was nursing a 1-0 lead in his pitching duel with George Brice of Gorge.

Then it happened.

Dave Morgan opened the seventh with a single. Dave Rovers sacrificed Morgan to second. Then Gary Andrews came through with a single to score Morgan. That tied the score.

Bob Lumley followed with a base on balls. Brice bunted for a single to load the bases, and Doug Hill followed with an infield hit to score Andrews.

After Tom Craig struck out, Mike Embury walked to force in the third run of the inning. Brice later scored on a wild pitch.

That ended the fateful seventh, and gave Gorge a 4-1 victory. On Satuday the hotelmen had defeated Al's Home Service, 8-4.

In another Saturday game Farmers defeated Greaves, 3-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Bob Mabee. It was Mabee's fifth straight victory.

In Sunday's game, Brice struck out nine, and walked three for his third win of the season.

Al's Home Service meets Greaves tonight at 6:30.

Bellies on Time When It Counted

Miss Ferry; Irish Rally Falls Short

By STEWART LANG

New Westminster Salmonbellies may have missed the boat Sunday but the defending Mann Cup champions had enough steam left to drop Victoria Shamrocks 14-12 in a Western Lacrosse Association game at Memorial Arena.

Salmonbellies, who experienced bus trouble on the Mainland and missed their ferry, finally turned up to start the game almost an hour late before 2,127 fans, biggest crowd of the season.

But the visitors were not tardy in the scoring department. Salmonbellies enjoyed a 6-0 lead by 11:46 of the first period and ended the frame with a 7-2 advantage.

From then on, however, Victoria held the edge in play — outscoring New Westminster 5-3 in the second period and 5-4 in the third.

After letting in two quick tallies at the beginning of the second session, Victoria scored five straight goals to close the gap to 9-7 by 12:35 under the impetus of a strong offence led by Ranjit Dillon and Don McNeill.

McNEILL RETURNS

Twice during the third period, the Irish closed to within one goal but couldn't collect the equalizer.

McNeill, who has only been to "two or three" practices after playing senior "B" lacrosse last season, paced Shamrocks with two goals and three assists in his first appearance.

Ranjit Dillon led Victoria goalgetters with three while brother Nirmal had three assists and one goal.

KOWALYK GETS PAIR

Ed Kowalyk added two goals to the Shamrock total while single tallies were recorded by Muzz Bryant, Charn Dhillon, Ray Beech and Brent Atkins.

Al Lewthwaite paced Salmonbellies to their four-point league lead over Victoria with four goals and three assists while Wayne Goss also enjoyed a seven-point evening with two goals and five assists.

Playing-coach Paul Parnell, Larry Henry and Ray Bennie each scored two goals for New Westminster while singletons were chipped in by Jim Giles and Ken Winzoski.

GROVER SHARP

George Grover, who replaced Dave Wirtanen 30 seconds into the second period, made 16 stops out of the Victoria total of 27. Joe Comeau parried 31 shots on the New Westminster net.

Victoria held the edge in draws 26-19 and in penalties, 26 minutes to 10.

Kowalyk boosted the Victoria penalty total with a 10-minute misconduct during the first period after protesting a call against Dennis Sommer for roughing at 9:23.

It was reported to be the first such call against Kowalyk in his career.

ADANACS WIN

Meanwhile, in a game Saturday at Coquitlam, Adanacs ended a four-game losing streak with a 17-16 nod over Vancouver Burrards.

A capacity crowd of 2,400 watched as Adanacs pulled through despite the absence of Mike Gates, who remained on the bench, Dick Crompton and Kerry Gallagher.

Les Schumacher and John Allen paced Coquitlam with four goals each while Kevin Parsons added a trio.

Don Boyd, playing his first senior "A" contest since 1968, and Gord Frederickson starred for Burrards.

Boyd fired four goals and had as many assists while Frederickson tallied four goals and had five assists.

Judges Needed Sharp Vision In Bike Races

Judges at the finishing line needed sharp vision Sunday to select winners in the annual Gary Lund Memorial Trophy bicycle competition.

Stop-watches couldn't do the job as blistering sprints to the tape at Portage Inlet resulted in blanket finishes in three events of the meet sponsored by Victoria Wheelers.

Only in the novice contest — a 33-mile run from Duncan — was there space between the front-runners. In that one Tom Tait breezed home in 1:34.44 with Wheeler clubmate Ken Ferris second at 1:37.16 and Vancouver's Ron Cooper well back in third place.

Raiders from the Vancouver area grabbed the top prizes in three other events, giving judges their troubles as the leaders in each race were all credited with the same times.

George Streadwick was the big winner, taking the Lund Trophy in the 100-mile grind from Qualicum for "A" class riders as he outsprinted national road-racing champion by inches. Bas Lycett was another whisker back in third place, one minute ahead of another Vancouverite — Joe Hailey.

With riders in the 100-miler apparently content to gamble on success in a closing sprint, and perhaps being cautious on the rain-slickened Island Highway, the time in the main event was a slow 4:35.35, well off the race record of 4:08.00.

Contestants in the 64-mile 'B' class jaunt showed more action on the trip from Nanaimo, but it was still a victory by centimetres for Marc Akerstream over runner-up Ron Hayman and Brian Keast in a time of 2:57.54. Victoria's Karl Fawthorpre finished fourth.

Riders in the "C" class event also started from Duncan and David Thomas got the nod from judges over Jonathan Barss with a time of 1:34.40 as third-place Carl Whale trailed by two seconds.

Victoria Draws With Vancouver

Victoria and Vancouver representative cricket sides settled for a draw Sunday in their firsst inter-city meeting of the season.

Batting first, Vancouver scored 166 runs for four wickets declared. Victoria had reached 117 for six before time ran out in the matchat Beacon Hill Park.

Wallace Tate's string bid paced Vancouver's batsmen. Tate was followed by Bob Crawford, 29 not out, and Roger Cloy, with 21.

Alex Porter of Victoria took two Vancouver wickets for 32. Mike Morgan captured one for 12 and Allan Carter one for 34.

Batting for Victoria, Chris Rowe scored 45 runs, Carter was 20 not out, Tim Bale 16 and Morgan 15, not out.

Pacing Vancouver bowlers were Bill Cullen, three for 11, and George Nugent, two for 20.

In Saturday's Victoria and District Association matches, Cowichan took sole possession of second place by scoring a 61-run victory over Oak Bay at Windsor Park while Albion and Castaways played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park.

Brian Gorman, 59, and Tim Lord, 52, started Cowichan to its declared total of 147 for five. Oak Bay scored 86.

Albion scored 143 for seven and Castaways were 88 for seven at the close.

Langford in Rebound To Split With Cents

There were innings when they didn't resemble leaders Sunday, but Langford Drywall managed to retain possession of first place in the Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League by splitting a doubleheader with Century Inn.

Century grabbed a share of the top spot by lacing Langford 12-3 during a game in which the leaders committed seven errors.

But Langford regained its pace-setting form in the second game, shading Century 4-3 in a nine-inning thriller at Heywood Avenue Park. Pitcher Mel Nelson won his own game by leading off the ninth with a single and completing the tour home on Tom Baxter's double.

In another game, Sooke Merchants jumped into fifth place by blanking Labatts 3-0 on Wayne Stolth's five-hitter and a two-run homer by Alden Govenlock.

Knights in Final Against Hornets

League-champion Saanich Hornets and Knights of Columbus will clash at Royal Athletic Park next Sunday night for the playoff crown in the Junior Bantam Canadian Football League after taking different routes through semi-final battles Sunday.

Hornets waltzed through their contest, downing Saanich Chargers 58-7 as Glen Davies contributed 28 points on four touchdowns and four conversions.

Knights struggled all the way to nip Oak Bay Marauders 14-7, needing a TD by Glen McCallum late in the final quarter to insure the victory.

SPARTANS TRIPPED 3-0 . . . . . . BY SOLID VICTORIA TEAM EFFORT

About Royals, Only Shame Is in the Waiting

By ERNIE FEDORUK

A shrinkage has developed, so it may be a long time between Western Canada Soccer League games.

Pity.

Victoria Royals are back. So are Vancouver Spartans. But Seattle Seatacs and Vancouver Cougars, once ticketed for West Coast service, have withdrawn so the 1971 schedule will mix the returnees with Edmonton Eagles and Winnipeg Blues of the Prairie Division.

There will be lengthy pauses between matches. That is unfortunate, especially if the projected image is meant to stick closely to that which was provided Saturday night at Royal Athletic Park.

In that one, Royals opened defence of the league championship they won last year by blanking Spartans 3-0. It was entertaining and pleasing . . . the sort us poor people would like to watch more regularly than on a now-and-then basis.

Football was definitely the intent, and the fact had to be appreciated by a slender audience of 538 (paid). For the partisans, the added pleasure came with the fact the home side played the better football.

There was artistry in Victoria's passing, and solid cohesion that prevented the talented Spartans from rarely threatening Royals' control of the game.

Newcomer Joe Poulton, the un-retired Peter Wilson and young Jan Bentley scored Victoria's goals.

The goal-scorers are always the first to draw dues. Poulton and Wilson deserved theirs, but it was far from a two-man performance.

Playing-coach Brian Hughes was a rock on the back line, along with dependable Howard Anderson.

Rookie George Hyne was a useful attacker, and halfback Brian Robinson was as good as any man on the field. Goalkeeper Barry Sadler was rarely pressed, but still had to make the few good thrusts required to seal his first shutout.

All in all, a solid team effort. And that is how Hughes saw it:

"We palyed as a team. Spartans played as individuals, and nine times out of 10, a team will beat individuals."

While the Royals were enjoying their first outing, Edmonton and Winnipeg fought to a 1-1 draw in Edmonton. The result left Edmonton in first place in the Prairie Division with a 3-1-1, won-lost-tied record while the Blues are 1-1-2.

Royals make their next start June 20 against the Spartans in Vancouver, then will wait for July 3 to play Edmonton at Royal Athletic Park.

Closing Birdie Blast Pays Off For Weiskopf

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — "It's like shooting craps," Tom Weiskopf said of his playoff victory over Dale Douglass, Lee Trevino and South African Gary Player in the $150,000 Kemper open golf tournament.

Weiskopf, who broke a three-year victory drought with his come-from-behind triumph Sunday, was talking about the use of sudden-death to settle ties after 72 holes.

"If you've got more than one player, then sudden-death isn't really a major test. A lot of luck enters into it.

"If you're playing head-to-head with just one man, it may be a little more fair. I don't really like it. I'd only played in two before, and lost in both of those."

All four had finished the regulation 72 holes at 77, 11 under par. Weiskopf was six strokes off the pace, being set by Douglass, when he started the drive that brought him the victory.

PUTTER HOT

He reeled off birdies on the final four holes, sinking putts of 10, 10, eight and 18 feet.

Weiskopf, Trevino and Player —who had a four-putt on one green—all had final round 69s on the 7,278-yard, par-72 layout and Douglass had a 70.

Thty went to the 599-yard, par-five 15th hole to begin the playoff. All were on in three, with Weiskopf about eight feet away. The other three missed birdie attempts in the 12- to 20-foot range before Weiskopf lined it up, stepped away once, then stroked it home for his fifth birdie in a row.

The $30,000 first prize pushed his earnings for the year to $60,367.

Trevino, Player and Douglass each picked up $11,600.

Two strokes back of them were Bob Lunn, the second and third-round leader who slipped to a final 73, George Johnson and Rod Funseth, tied at 279. Ken Fulton of Montreal was the lone Canadian to survive Friday's championship cut and his 290 total was worth only $176.

Arnold Palmer never really got it going, had a final 72 and finished in a tie for 12th at 281.

x—Won sudden-death playoff.

BIG PAYOFF of $4,200 was pocketed by Vancouver professional Wayne Vollmer (above) for second-place finish in $35,000 Kemper-Ashville golf tournament Sunday. Vollmer fired final-round, four-under-par 67 for 280 total to finish two strokes behind winner Charles Owens of Winter Haven, Fla., who won $5,000.

Seaboards Share Tourney Laurels

Favored Victoria Bates suffered closing-kick blues and that enabled Vancouver Eldorados and Victoria Seaboard to share top honors Sunday in a five-team, round-robin invitational men's softball tournament at Central Park.

Seaboard and Eldorado finished with identical 3-1, won-lost records but the Vancouver team picked up the tournament trophy on a flip of a coin.

Bates, who opened with a pair of victories Saturday, finished with a 2-2 mark while Nanaimo Tally-Ho and Strathcona Hotel won but one of their four games.

Vancouver's Ron Ormsby, who hurled two of Vancouver's three triumphs, was voted the tournament's top hurler while Seaboard players swept other individual awards.

Seaboards' Scott Sinclair won tournament batting honors with a .466 average and catcher Paul Morrison was singled out as the most valuable player. Morrison drove in six runs in three games, including the telling ones in two of Seaboard's three victories.

Morrison's two-run single in the 11th inning provided Seaboard with a 2-1 victory that ended Bates' winning ways.

Nanaimo handed Bates their second loss of the day, 4-0, in the tournament finale.

Bakers Win, Boxers Lose Junior Games

Greater Victoria squads split a pair of B.C. Junior "B" Lacrosse League games played Sunday on the Mainland.

Victoria McDonald's Bread tumbled host Abbotsford 21-5, while Port Coquitlam Saints handed visiting Saanich London Boxing Club a 13-12 loss.

Daryl Hooker and Jerry Kuslaski led McDonald's with four goals each while Rick Baker chipped in three. Glen Neuman, Norm Baker, Mike Walsh and George Sprinkling each fired two goals.

Pat Clancy and Al Gillespie fired two goals each to lead the Saints.

Kevin Alexander scored six goals and assisted on four others in a losing cause for Saanich. Pete Gibson (2), Ash Sundher, Pete Rushton, Bruce Lubinich and Bill Utterson added the other Saanich goals.

SWITZERLAND CALLS

CASTLEGAR (CP) — Harry Smith, a defenceman on the 1961 world champion Trail Smoke Eaters' hockey team, leaves Canada Aug. 20 to organize a minor hockey system in Switzerland. He also will play on the "A" division Cierre team in the Swiss league.

MUNCEY TAKES KENTUCKY UNLIMITED

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP)—Defending champion Bill Muncey of Seattle won the Kentucky Governor's Cup Unlimited hydroplane race Sunday after challenger Billy Sterett's Miss Notre Dame stalled out in the final heat.

Muncey was clocked at at 99.020 miles per hour finishing second in the final heat on the 15-mile course. However, a victory in an earlier heat Sunday and a second-place standing in another gave him 1,000 points, enough for the championship.

Sterrett had set two meet records and had a 100-point lead going into the final heat.

Kings Get Hillman

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Flyers have dealt 34-year-old defenceman Larry Hillman to Los Angeles Kings, also of the National Hockey League's West Division, for right winger Larry Mickey.

Sluggett Scores Ace

Glen Meadows golfer Gord Sluggett joined golf's hole-in-one club at the weekend. Playing his home course with his wife, Dorothy, Sluggett aced the 229-yard fouth hole.

Rookie Has Party In Clete's Old Spot

By Associated Press

Earl Williams couldn't crack the lineup when Clete Boyer was at third base for Atlanta Braves. Now he's making the most of his opportunity.

Atlanta's rookie infielder knocked in six runs with two homers Sunday, leading the Braves to a 9-0 shelling of Houston Astros.

"You have days like that," said Williams, who always seemed to play his best as a fill-in for Boyer, the slick third baseman released recently after a squabble with management.

When Boyer was sick earlier this year, Williams played third during a three-game National League series with Philadelphia Phillies and had a party at the plate with three homers among his seven hits.

PIRATES RIP CARDS

Pittsburgh Pirates ripped the slumping St. Louis Cardinals 8-4, Los Angeles Dodgers clouted Montreal Expos 7-1, San Diego Padres nipped Philadelphia 9-8, Cincinnati Reds stopped Chicago Cubs 4-3, in 11 innings and New York Mets edged San Francisco Giants 5-4 in 10 in other Sunday action.

Williams crashed his first circuit blast in the second inning off Don Wilson and capped Atlanta's scoring with a three-run drive off Buddy Harris in the seventh.

In between the Williams' power display, Hank Aaron lashed homer No. 19 and the 611th of his career. Pat Jarvis fired a five-hitter for his second victory in a row after seven losses.

Richie Hebner's three-run homer completed a five-run uprising in the ninth to help Pittsburgh hammer St. Louis and maintain first place in the East Division by 2½ games over New York. St. Louis, which dropped 3½ games behind in third, has lost six straight and 10 of 13.

Bobby Valentine hit his first major league home run, a three-run job in the second inning, and added three more singles as Los Angeles took its 12th victory in 16 games and climbed within six games of first-place San Francisco in the West Division.

In the American League, the red-hot Kansas City Royals made it six straight over Boston Sunday with a 4-3 victory that dumped the Red Sox into third place in the American League East Division, five games behind Baltimore Orioles and one-half game back of Detroit Tigers.

The Royals have won five in a row and 11 of their last 12 and pulled within five games of Oakland in the West as the Athletics bowed to New York Yankees 5-1.

Elsewhere, Baltimore edged Chicago White Sox 2-1 as Mike Cuellar posted his eighth consecutive triumph, Cleveland Indians blasted Milwaukee Brewers 11-0 behind Sam McDowell's two-hit pitching, Washington Senators beat California Angels 5-2 and Tigers tripped Minnesota Twins 9-5.

Royals, who started Boston's slide with a three-game sweep in Fenway Park two weeks ago, kept it going with three weekend victories, giving the Red Sox four straight defeats and 11 in their last 14 games.

Royals stole four bases Sunday, giving them 44 in 56 attempts.

Green, Hawes Zone Champs

John Green of Oak Bay and Burnside's Percy Hawes Saturday advanced to the provincial men's singles finals in lawn bowling.

Green nipped Jim McGregor of Victoria 21-20 in a 29-ender while Hawes defeated Bob Baird of Vic West 21-9 in zone finals at the Lake Hill greens.

Winners of the B.C. finals, to be held June 24-27 at West Vancouver, will represent the province in the national championships.

At Vic West greens, Mike Belton, Dick Chandler and Fred Hall of Burnside teamed up to win the Corby-Wiser men's triples competition by defeating the Vic West combination of McGregor, John Wright and Paul Jenkins, 21-12.

Advance Guard Swings For Composer-Owner

(Times News Services)

Jockey Bill Shoemaker got Advance Guard to the front in the final few yards and beat the odds-on favorite, Manta, by a head in the $78,800 Inglewood Handicap at Inglewood, Calif., Saurday.

Advance Guard received a kiss in the winner's circle from his owner, composer Burt Bacharach, after winning his fourth race of the season.

The time was 1:48.

Longshot, Far to Reach finished third.

The victory was worth $44,850 for the owner and his wife, actress Angie Dickinson.

COMES FROM BEHIND

At New York, James B. Mosley's five-year-old mare, Drumtop, came from last with a quarter of a mile left to win the $56,800 Bowling Green Handicap at Belmont Park in track-record time.

In scoring her third consecutive turf stakes victory, Drumtop was timed in 2:25 2-5 for the 1⅛ miles on the grass for a 1¾-length victory over Paul Mellon's Fort Marcy, the 1970 horse-of-the-year and Saturday's 3-to-2 favorite.

At Philadelphia, I Found Gold and Well Mannered captured the $20,000-added divisions of the Keystone Handicap at Liberty Bell Park.

I Found Gold blazed over the one mile in a track record time of 1:34.4 to finish four lengths ahead of favored Saxony Warrior while Bun 'n' Ree was third. Well Mannered beat Jontilla by three-quarters of a length while favored Tatoi was another two lengths behind in third.

ALANDIAN SCORES

At Vancouver, Acme Enterprises' Alandaian, the favorite, came from last place in a five-horse field to win the featured McLennan Plate at Exhibition Park in a mediocre time of 1:45 2-5.

Next Dancer finished second while Wild Surf was third.

Jockey Brian Swatuk increased his lead atop the jockey standings with three victories Saturday — aboard Beaudain, Make It Magic and Mr. Jay Note.

At Albany, Calif., Class A scored an upset victory to win the $22,100 Pacific Stakes on the concluding program of an 85-day meeting at Golden Gate Fields. Class A returned $52.60, $19.20 and $9.80.

GREAT CHARGE

At Toronto, Lauries Dancer, owned by Mrs. Arthur Strollery, came from well off the pace to win the $47,800 Canadian Oaks Stakes at Woodbine.

Jockey Sandy Hawley took Lauries Dancer outside when she was about 10 lengths behind the leader going down the backstretch. She won by a length and three quarters over Painted Pony.

Conn Smythe's Connie Pat, the leader until the head of the stretch, was third and Miss Lucky C was fourth.

Mrs. Strollery now will go after a victory in the Queen's Plate next Saturday with Kennedy Road, the early favorite. And Hawley will be aboard Kennedy Road looking for his second straight victory in the Plate. He won last year with Almoner.

CANONERO II'S SALE NOT FINALIZED

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Pedro Baptista, owner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner, Canonero II, said Sunday the horse "has not yet been sold" but that there is an agreement between himself and Robert Glover of the King Ranch for the sale of the three-year-old.

"I have not received any money for the horse yet," Baptista said, "but the offer is a million and a half dollars."

According to his arrangements with Glover, Baptista said "a decision must be taken before the end of this month. After the sale is effected, I will remain with about three shares in the horse."

Baptista commented that the only thing that could stop the sale of Canonero at this point "is if medical exams prove to be negative." The horse is undergoing a series of tests at Belmont Park.

Albertans No Match For B.C. Rugby Side

VANCOUVER (CP) — Led by a powerful forward wall, British Columbia reps rolled up an easy 35-6 victory over Alberta Saturday night to advance to the finals of the Canadian rugby championship.

The tremendous strength displayed by the B.C. forwards, who controlled the loose scrums throughout the game, B.C. ran up a 22-0 lead in the first half and added a converted try just after the start of the second to hold a 27-0 margin before Ken Seymour put Alberta on the scoreboard with a penalty kick, good for three points, four minutes into the second half.

Barrie Burnham was the individual star of the game, amassing 17 points on three penalty goals and four converts for the winners. He handled all the kicking chores for B.C., missing on only two of six two-point converts following tries by the west coast team.

Ken Wilke, Paul Johnsonte and Gillie Greig each scored a try in the opening half for B.C. and Greig, Spence McTavish and Dave Slater added three more in the second half.

Roy Smith Breaks Ice In Spill-Marred Race

Roy Smith capped off a thrilling evening by becoming the first Canadian to win the Billy Foster "Championship 100" for supermodifieds Saturday at Western Speedway.

Smith, at the wheel of a wedge-shaped yellow machine, flashed across the finish line ahead of two American drivers to complete a sweep of the night's events before 3,440 car-racing fans.

Originally scheduled for 100 laps, the fifth annual feature race had to be shortened to 60 after numerous spinouts had spilled large quantities of oil on the four-tenths of a mile Langford oval.

The first came in the first lap when Alvin Heggith of Nanaimo lost control. Two more laps went by before the red flag went out again after Ross Fontes of Seattle looped out and scattered cars all over the track.

Another spin-out occured on the 18th lap and Al Smith of Victoria caused a little bit of suspense in the crowd during the 31st lap when his car broke an oil line and caught fire in front of the stands going into the number-one turn. The fire, fortunately snuffed itself out before Smith's speedy exit from the car.

Dennis Wooden and Jack Cross left the track after a wheel-locking crash going into a turn on the 35th lap but both emerged uninjured.

At this point, 10 of the 22 cars starting the race were out of action. This fact, coupled with the slick conditions of the track prompted officials to shorten the race.

THORP SECOND

Roy Smith, who had been chasing leader Gerry McLees of Seattle for several laps, finally passed the American on the 35th circuit but had to resume the runner-up position during the re-start following the crash. Cars are re-started in the position they crossed the finish line during the last lap before the red flag goes out and Smith had passed McLees on the lap of the crash.

Roy, however, recaptured the lead on the 43rd lap when McLees spun out and was left half a lap beind to eventually finish third. John Tharp of Seattle placed second.

Smith began his sweep by winning the trophy dash and the fast heat.

The four previous winners of the race were all Washington state drivers from the Canadian-American Modified Racing Association.

Main Event (60 laps) — 1. Roy Smith (Victoria), 2. John Tharp (Seattle), 3. Gerry McLees (Seattle), Aaron Capps (Bremerton, Wash.), 5. Len Barcello (Vancouver), 6. Cal Arnold (Vancouver), 7. Don McLeod (Seattle), 8. Earl Fritz (Seattle), 9. Ken Luckman (Seattle), 10. Charles Harris (Everett, Wash.).

A Trophy Dash — 1. Roy Smith, 2. Don McLeod, 3. Al Smith, 4. Aaron Capps.

B Trophy Dash — 1. Ken Luckman, 2. Cal Arnold, 3. Mike Blackstock (Seattle).

First Heat — 1. Ron Lamont (Vancouver), 2. Charles Harris, 3. Wendell Beckel Heymer (Seattle), 4. Doug Bowell (Nanaimo).

Second Heat — 1. Cal Arnold, 2. Ross Fontes (Seattle), 3. Mike Blackstock, 4. Ken Luckman.

Fast Heat — 1. Roy Smith, 2. Gerry McLees, 3. Jack Cross (Vancouver), 4. John Tharp.

Porsche Group Wins Le Mans

Times News Services

West German Porsches brought their third straight world sports car championship to a triumphant end Sunday in France with a convincing one-two victory in the Le Mans 24-hour auto endurance race.

They have no current project to come back and defend ttheir title next year in the new three-litre Formula, says racing director Rico Steinemann. He would not give a categoric "no" to a Porsche presence in the field next year, however.

Austrian lawyer Helmut Marko with Dutch shipping executive Gijs Van Lennep took victory in a Porsche 917 Sunday with Richard Attwood of Britian and Herbert Muller of Switzerland second in another 917.

But the day of the howling 600 BHP five-litre engines in European sports car racing is rapidly ending, and the Le Mans organizers — apparently hundreds of thousands of fans — are delighted.

The new three-litre limit promises a return to top sports car racing with a number of firms providing battles which will end the one-make domination seen here in recent years.

FERRARI RETURNING

Enzo Ferrari has said he will end his cold shouldering of Le Mans next year. Other names of likely contenders include Italian Alfa Romeo, Matra-Simca from France, and the British Lola, Chevron and BRM teams. There is even talk of Japan's Toyota making a major entrance in the world competition next year.

The Porsche 917s were out of the lead for less than one hour of the 24 in the weekend's race. Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez, with Derek Bell of Britain, led from the start until the car broke down just after the midway point. A Ferrari took a brief lead, broke down, and then it was the Porsche of Marko and Van Lennep which led to the finish.

The early pace of the Porsches led to a distance record for the event of 3,315 miles at a record average speed of 138 miles an hour.

At Cambridge Junction, Mich., pole-sitter Bobby Allison played a high-speed version of hopscotch with three other cars and came out the winner by a fraction of a second in the $70,000 Motor State 400 NASCAR race at Michigan International Raceway.

The 33-year-old winner, driving a Mercury to a track record NASCAR speed of 149.56 miles an hour, pocketed $15,000 after nipping Bobby Isaac by a bumper at the finish. Pete Hamilton was third.

Allison, of Hueytown, Ala., his younger brother, Donnie, Hamilton and Isaac were the top four qualifiers and, with the exception of three laps, alternated in the lead, which changed hands 28 times in the 197-lap, two-hour, 41-minute race before 37,600 fans.

Previous NASCAR record at the track was 147.57 set last year by Charlie Glotzbach in the Yankee 400.

McLAREN MATES ONE-TWO . . . . . . IN CAN-AM OPENER

Hulme, Revson Continue Trend

By JACK TRACY

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — The bright orange sports cars of Team McLaren made it one-two in the opener of the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series Sunday, threatening to dominate motorsport's richest series for a fifth year.

New Zealander Denis Hulme took the chequered flag after completing the 200 miles in elapsed time of one hour, 48 minutes, 15.2 seconds at an average speed of 109.333 miles an hour. Only nine-tenths of a second behind him was team-mate Peter Revson of Harbor City, Calif., driving an identical McLaren.

Sunday's event was the first in a 10-race series for big-bore sports cars in which more than $1,000,000 in purses and manufacturers' prizes is at stake.

Since the series began in 1966, there have been 41 races and Team McLaren drivers have won 30 of them. The team has won 20 of the last 21 races.

EXCITEMENT LACKING

There was little excitement in the race after Scotsman Jackie Stewart dropped out. As top qualifier in trial last week he was the one man in the field of 26 given a chance to beat the McLaren team.

He took the lead away from Hulme after nine laps but in the first 14 minutes oil began to pour from the rear of his Lola. He packed it in on the 18th lap with a seized transmission.

Then Hulme took the lead, followed closely by Revson and they held their positions for the rest of the race with no threats from any other driver.

His victory enriched him with $13,000 in prize money and the Labatt's Blue Trophy.

An estimated 45,750 spectators watched the race in humid weather under hazy skies.

The race was rough on the cars and at the finish only 16 machines were running. Track marshals reported 44 incidents on the course, ranging from dragging hoses to spin-outs.

Two Californians, Lothar Motschenbacher of Newport Beach and Bob Bondurant of Tustin, had a little race of their own far back from the leaders. They finished third and fourth respectively in McLarens.

John Cordts of Port Sydney, Ont., made the best showing of a Canadian in any race since the series started when he brought his McLaren home in fifth place.

Roger McCaig, a westerner who now races out of Scarborough, Ont., finished 10th, also in a McLaren.

Value-Booster

SEA ISLAND — Residents at this Vancouver municipality have decided to build an expensive house on a lot the federal Department of Transport refused to buy for the asking price of $10,000.

The house, residents say, will triple the value of the lot which is needed for airport runway extensions.

Dragger Rescued

PRINCE RUPERT — The 700-foot dragger Miss Cory was pulled from the rocks at Metlakatkla Bay near the entrance to Prince Rupert harbor Sunday night.

The privately-owned dragger from Prince Rupert went on the rocks early Sunday.

Three tugs owned by Rivtow Straits Ltd., of Vancouver were needed to get the vessel of the rocks.

Students To Perform

Eighty-five student musicians, dancers and singers will perform at McPherson Theatre Tuesday and Butchart Gardens Wednesday.

Both performances will be at 8 p.m.

The Kamehameha ensemble will be greeted by an Oak Bay Senior Secondary band and will be billeted with high school students. The group, directed by David Lorch, is touring the west coast. Los Angeles was the starting point.

Pharmacists Meet

VANCOUVER — The annual convention of British Columbia pharmacists got underway at the Hotel Vancouver Sunday night. B.C. Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi is scheduled to address the 200 delegates Tuesday.

Trucker Tops

EDMONTON — John A. Knowles, a Calgary truck driver, was named all-around champion at the 25th annual Alberta truck rodeo Saturday. Knowles, who drives for a large department store also placed first in the single truck competition.

Industry Sought

HOBBEMA, Alta. — Leaders on the Hobbema reserve, 50 miles south of Edmontaon, Sunday asked industries to locate on their land. Chief Norman Yellowbird said the band had considered the move or a long time but decided to seek industries when a new townsite was begun on the reserve.

Two Killed

BRANDON — Fred Crawford, 63, and Ed Bingham, 52, both of Mohall, N.D., were killed Sunday in a light plane crash at Prove Lake in Riding Mountain National Park, about 60 miles north of Brandon. Mr. Bingham's son, Lynn, 15, was in fairly good condition at Brandon General Hospital with a broken hip and leg.

Businessman Shot

EDMONTON — Robert Neville, 36, a city businessman and school trustee, was shot to death Sunday in his downtown office. Police said there was no apparent motive.

A woman pedestrian noticed Neville's body through a window of the ground-floor office of a travel agency he operated, face down between two rows of desks.

Police said he had been shot three times in the neck at close range with a .32-calibre pistol.

THE WEATHER

Scattered showers occurred over the province through the night except for the north coast where a building ridge of high pressure in the northern Gulf of Alaska had a drying effect. This ridge will gradually build down the coast over the next few days giving an increase in sunshine but temperatures will remain on the cool side.

Frank's Farewell Emotion-Charged

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He stood with feet apart, head tilted, his throat quivering as he sang in a hand-held mike.

Frank Sinatra had performed in his unique style thousands of times in the last 30 years. But this time it was different. He said it was his last performance.

Sinatra, 55, was the last performer at an all-star Music Centre gala that raised $800,000 for the Motion Picture and Television Relief Fund. He followed such stars as Bob Hope, Mitzi Gaynor, Jack Benny, Jimmy Durante, Cary Grant, James Stewart, Princess Grace of Monaco, the Fifth Dimension and Pearl Bailey with a Hello, Dolly! chorus that includes Rock Hudson, Sammy Davis Jr., David Niven, Jack Lemmon and Don Rickles.

Immediately before Sinatra, Barbara Streisand electrified the audience with her songs. But it was Frank Sinatra's night.

Sinatra announced last April that he was retiring from show business.

STANDING OVATIONS

He was introduced Sunday night by actress Rosalind Russell. In a voice heavy with emotion she termed him: "This greatest entertainer of the 20th century." He came on stage for the first of three standing ovations during his half hour performance.

"This was the beginning," he remarked and launched into All Or Nothing At All, his first hit record after leaving the Tommy Dorsey band to go on his own.

Next, Nelson Riddle's thumping arrangement of I've Got You Under My Skin, then he launched into I'll Never Smile Again which catapulted him to fame with the Dorsey band . . .

Old Man River . . . That's Life . . . Try a Little Tenderness . . . Fly Me to the Moon . . . Nancy With a Laughing Face, which he sang when daughter Nancy was a small girl.

The ovation was thundering when the lights went up. "Goodbye — I love you," he said, and then strolled off stage for the last time.

Outfall Okay To Be Sought

Provincial approval will be sought by the Capital Regional District to use the new Macaulay Point sewerage outfall without the missing 200 feet of diffuser pipe, a district spokesman said Saturday.

The new system is expected to be ready for operation next month.

Last December, it was found that the final 200 feet of diffuser pipe had disappeared, leaving behind it 300 feet of diffuser pipe and 5,600 feet of outfall pipe.

Because the district has premission to run the system to certain specifications, Pollution Control Branch approval is necessary to operate without the last 200 feet.

No action is expected to be taken to replace the missing pipe until after two lawsuits are settled later this year.

Cholera Raging

FORT LAMY, Chad (Reuter) — About 1,500 persons have died fom a cholera outbreak in Chad, the Chad press agency reported Monday. An agency reporter said, however, that deaths from the disease were becoming less numerous and the number of recoveries rising.

A Man With Pull Turns The Nose of Our Man's Girl

By IAN HAMILTON

Having your girlfriend's nose pinched — friendly like — by Justice Minister John Turner leaves a jealous man wondering about the justice of it all.

Especially if that man is a reporter under the same roof with almost all of Canada's major political figures and all they'll do is pull his leg.

Frivolous behavior, but it did capture the relaxed outward spirit of most national leaders Sunday night at the Empress as they settled in for three days of pressure at the constitutional conference.

"I'm always relaxed when I'm doing something," said Justice Minister Turner, sporting a sly grin in the hotel lobby minutes after the innocent nose job.

The incident occurred just as he stepped out of his hotel room. Stopped by the couple sleuthing out dignitaries on the hotel's upper levels, he flashed a wide grin and exchanged pleasantries.

Then the charmer who once danced with Princess Margaret pulled the nose and, no pun intended, walked on to more serious affairs.

If he felt concerned about the importance of this meeting to Canada's future, this man who did most of the federal backgrounding work for Prime Minister Trudeau's conference position wasn't reflecting it.

★

Neither were most of the other leaders as they wandered around the hotel in holiday spirits.

B.C. Premier Bennett paused long enough in an elevator trip to a buffet lunch with his visiting peers to say the weather is cool and "it's going to be a very cool conference."

Prime Minister Trudeau checked into the Empress at 3:30 p.m. Sunday without his wife and took up residence in the vice-regal suite where the private luncheon was held four hours later.

His wife will join him from a private retreat some time today, according to hotel officials.

All of the other leaders arrived at the hotel by Sunday afternoon, except Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba who was delayed because of plane connections. He joined the other prime ministers shortly before 10 p.m.

The buffet dinner was private, and although photographers were allowed in for quick group shots, reporters were given no idea what conversations occurred.

If some agreement was reached on the all-important subject of constitutional amendment, the public will have to await formal announcement.

With all attending prime ministsers in residence with their staffs, hotel officials say they are not taking any special security measures.

★

But they are quick to point out that "almost every second man" in the lobbies and corridors is an RCMP officer.

There were reports that ministers went into conference immediately upon arrival Sunday but Justice Minister Turner denied the reports.

"We've just been poking around the city seeing the sights thus far," he said.

All nose pinching aside, the real work begins today.

Trudeau Materializes In Brentwood Church

You may have seen a familiar figure around Victoria over the weekend but the informal garb fooled you.

It could have been Prime Minister Trudeau.

Few people knew where he stayed Friday and Saturday but the moment he came out of hiding it was hard to miss the sporty dresser.

Clad in kerchief, striped shirt, white slacks and sneakers, he surprised 50 Brentwood residents when he walked into Our Lady of Assumption Church unannounced for the noon mass Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The night before he led a party of five, excluding his wife, from his retreat which may or may not have been a friend's home in the Brentwood area, and dined at Deep Cove Chalet.

He strolled into the church and sat down beside a couple of church-goers who apparently didn't recognize him until he was introduced later.

★ ★ ★

After mass he signed autographs for children and chatted with those around him, including Sister Terry Lewis, who played guitar during the service.

Saturday's dinner party was, again, an informal affair. Chalet owner Bill Cole said the prime minister and a small group of aides and security men relaxed for a couple of hours over a buffet.

Shortly after the church service he checked into The Empress vice-regal suite where he will reside until termination of the conference.

A MISERABLE DAY Sunday was not enough to discourage this pair, and a few other spectators, from enjoying a concert put on by the Reynolds Senior Secondary band. In fact, these music fans must have been braver than most because they were outnumbered by the 100-member band. It was a day when perhaps the most valuable instrument was an umbrella. Uvic Panel Man Being Replaced

By BRIAN BUTTERS

A member of the advisory board looking into the cases of three dismissed University of Victoria professors is being replaced amid charges he has a partial attitude in the circumstances surrounding the cases.

The action comes after Dr. Vladimir Okulich resigned his membership in the Canadian Association of University Teachers.

Okulich, dean of science at the University of British Columbia, resigned from CAUT in a letter sent to CAUT president Dr. Gordin Kaplan May 17.

He said in his letter:

"The reason for this decision is my complete disagreement with the actions of CAUT in the recent censures of several universities. I strongly believe that universities have the right to dismiss or not renew appointments of individuals who for one reason or another are no longer desirable members of the institution.

LOOKS AT CAUT

One of the terms of reference of the advisory board appointed by the Uvic board of governors is that it investigate the CAUT's handling of the cases of the three professors.

Okulich said in the letter, "CAUT actions are harmful to the universities, the academic standards and the students and seem to reflect a left-wing radical mentality. In many ways CAUT is beginning to act like a trade union instead of a professional association.

"Since I am completely out of sympathy with such trends I do not wish any longer to be connected with the association."

REPLACEMENT FOUND

Solicitor for the advisory board, lawyer David Williams, said today a tentative replacement has been found for Okulich and that Chief Justice J. O. Wilson, who had recommended the original three members — Okulich, former Alberta Supreme Court Chief Justice Colin McLaurin, and Vancouver lawyer A. B. Carrothers — had recommended the replacement.

The board of governors, which appointed the advisory board according to section 53 of the Universities Act, is meeting this afternoon to act on the recommendation.

If approved, the replacement will sit on the board for its first hearings Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Uvic.

Uvic Faculty Association president Dr. Charles Doyle made this statement in connection with Okulich's letter to CAUT:

"Since imposing of censures, only three members have resigned from CAUT. Two of these are from the University of Victoria, the other is Dean Okulich. Since the members of the advisory board were, in the event, chosen by the University of Victoria administration, and since Okulich was the last member of the advisory board to be appointed . . . there must be very serious doubt that the appointment was made in good faith."

'MISGIVINGS'

"At any rate, with regard to the way in which the panel (advisory board) was set up, this development proves that our misgivings are entirely justified."

Doyle said today, "Any conservative is open to calling anyone less conservative than himself a 'left-wing radical.' By the same token, a progressive is open to call anyone less progressive than himself a right-wing reactionary."

The cases of the three professors — Dr. Tikam Jain, Dr. William Goede and Toby Graff — have been in dispute for a year. Students and faculty have voted overwhelmingly in favor of CAUT proposals.

The idea of an advisory board was recommended by a group of the full professors at Uvic after Partridge had asked them to meet to try to find a solution to the dispute.

The faculty association and the three professors have refused to appear before the advisory board because they say it was appointed without them being consulted. Student president Ian J. McKinnon has also endorsed the boycott of the board's hearings.

Pierre's Grins Don't Appease Women's Lib

By HELEN MELNYK

It's pretty intimidating to stand in front of a crowd, talking about women's rights through a bull-horn while a man is hanging on to your arm threatening to punch you out.

That was my initiation this morning into participation in grass roots Canadian democracy.

The Victoria Women's Caucus decided that women should have some say in the constitutional conference. So about 20 of us, joined by the Voice of Women and The Vancouver Women's Alliance, paced the lawns of the Legislative Buildings, waving placards, handing out leaflets and making speeches to the crowd.

Meanwhile, the entourage of Prime Minister Trudeau and the provincial premiers drove up to the strains of the Scottish pipers and marched inside.

The doors of the legislative were closed and the RCMP would not let anyone enter.

We managed to break through the cordon of RCMP to hand a copy of our brief to Premier Bennett. A second attempt to dodge the RCMP officers to reach Trudeau was unsuccessful — they catch on fast.

Trudeau flashed a charming smile while we chanted "Implement the Royal Commission on the Status of Women." However, it wasn't his smile that we wanted; but to give him the brief.

Finally after repeated requests Trudeau sent an aide over.

"Go home" someone yelled.

I wondered why the hell a peaceful citizen like me was demonstrating on my day off when I could be sleeping in.

●

The brief handed out requested the following recommendations of the Royal Commission on the Status of Women be implemented: abortion on demand, paid maternity leave, establishment of 24-hour day care centres, equal pay for equal work, the setting up of a Protection of Women's Rights Commission to be set up to enforce anti-discriminatory legislation for women.

In the brief the pledge Trudeau made in a speech in March in Toronto is cited . . . "I pledge that the Liberal government will work towards the removal of discrimination and the provision of opportunity to women in all fields of Canadian life."

"We are taking you up on your words, Mr. Prime Minister," states the brief. "We also request that federal, provincial and municipal governments unite to actualize this pledge."

The brief was drawn up in the hopes the premiers and prime minister would be made aware that existing laws have to be changed and new ones made so that women get the opportunity and encouragement to actively participate in politics.

Pat Blakeman of the Caucus said: "As long as there is only one woman in Parliament Canada is no true democracy."

It was rather discouraging to stand outside protesting, watching the men go in to make the decisions.

Ask The Times

Q: What were the launch dates and names of the crews of the Russian space ships Soyuz 6, Soyuz 7, and Soyuz 8.

A: Soyuz 6, 7 and 8 were launched on Oct. 11, 1969, Oct. 12, 1969, and Oct. 13, 1969 respectively in a program of joint experiments and docking manoeuvres. Soyuz 6 carried Georgy Shonin and Valery Kubashov. On Soyuz 7 were Anatoly Tilipchenko, Vladislav Volkov, and Victor Gorbatko. On Soyuz 8 were Alexei Yeliseyev, and Vladimir Shatalov.

Police Using Public As Lever—Commission

Victoria police union is attempting to use public opinion as a lever in negotiations with the police commission, commission lawyer Ed Pearlman said today.

Pearlman at first declined to comment on contents of a 20-point statement released by the union Saturday.

"I don't believe in conducting negotiations through the news media," he said. "I think the public is entitled to a certain amount of information, but when it comes to propaganda I think we should draw the line."

Asked if he thought the police union, by issuing the statement, was negotiating through the news media, he replied:

"No question about it."

PARITY GOAL

The five-page statement said parity with police in the Vancouver area has been the goal of the Victoria police union since its formation in 1946.

In 1966 they were only $8 a month apart, but since then the gap has widened, and as of April this year a first-class constable in Vancouver received $67 a month more than one in Victoria.

If the union accepted a 7½ per cent pay increase by July 1 a constable first-class in Victoria would be getting $104 a month less than his colleague in Vancouver where bigger wage increases were won last month, the statement said.

Police in Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Vancouver get paid time-and-a-half for overtime, the statement says, but in Victoria they have to take time off for overtime.

A first-class RCMP constable gets $883 a month across Canada, but the comparable rate on the Victoria police department is $728.

Officers in Greater Victoria face just as many physical dangers as officers in major Canadian metropolitan centres, the statement says, citing incidents in recent years in which three Victoria officers have been shot and wounded, and the killing of one Saanich officer.

The statement also mentions the "soaring increase" in crime as a "cross-Canada cancer," and cites the increase in value of stolen property, traffic accidents and juvenile arrests.

It also says policemen have to live at a higher standard than other citizens because as policemen they have a responsibility to serve as models to the community.

Maritime Museum To Trim Budget

The trustees of the B.C. Maritime Museum will meet Tuesday to pare the museum's budget in order to meet the $3,250 loss in revenue from municipal grants.

Curator Bill Symons said recommendations from today's meeting of the executive committee would probably include a cutback in display materials and display area.

"But we're not going to die or close the place, don't ever worry."

The museum had asked for $7,000 from the Greater Victoria municipalities — $2,750 from Victoria, $1,000 from Oak Bay, $2,500 from Saanich and $750 from Esquimalt.

Grants have been received from Oak Bay and the city but Esquimalt rejected the museum's request.

Symons said the museum has not had an official reply from Saanich but he had learned "unofficially" that the municipality had decided it had no money available for the museum.

"It's really quite a shame that the Greater Victoria municipalities can't raise $7,000 to support a maritime museum that's the best on this coast and one of the finest in North America."

$1,000 FIRE STARTED BY CHILD

A child playing with matches started a fire this morning at 2518 Quadra that did about $1,000 damage to an upstairs room, a fire department spokesman said.

A spokesman said firemen were called about 8:15 a.m. to fight the blaze that started in a cupboard. He said walls, the ceiling and toys in the room were damaged.

The house is owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mowbray.

Market Clerks Okay Pay Offer

Supermarket clerks in the Victoria and Vancouver areas have agreed to a new contract which will raise pay by 19.75 per cent over two years, it was announced Sunday.

The vote was 93 per cent in favor among the 3,500 members of the Retail Food and Drug Clerks Union employed at major supermarket companies, including Canada Safeway, Super-Valu and Shop Easy.

Another 2,500 union members at independent supermarkets around the province are expected to get the same settlement later, said union secretary-treasurer Rudy Krickan of Vancouver.

The new contract will raise the pay of a one-year clerk from $4.05 to $4.85 in two 40-cent increases, the first backdated to last April and the second next April.

Contracts between the supermarkets and the Amalgamated Meatcutters, representing 800 butchers, and the Bakery and Confectionary Workers, representing 600 workers, have not yet been ratified.

Meanwhile, the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union is still negotiating with Macdonald Consolidated, which supplies Safeway. Strike and lockout notices have been served but legal action is not possible until mediator Clive McKee's term expires Saturday.

Horse's Behooving Tale

The local Conquer Cancer Campaign has received a certified cheque for $74 signed with the name—Jubileevit.

Jubileevit is a horse. She earned the money herself.

And thereby hangs a tale.

About two years ago when she was just a frisky filly at the Terobe Farm of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McGillivray, 3955 Holland Rd. in Saanich, a friend of the family spotted her and liked her lines.

He gave the McGillivrays $5 to bet on Jubileevit's nose in her first race. But he died of cancer before the horse went to the post.

Jubileevit ran her first race last month with the $5 on her to win. She did.

The Conquer Cancer Campaign seemed the appropriate place to send the money but the McGillivrays wanted the cheque signed with the horse's name. The bank was a bit sticky about it but finally went along. After all, the cheque was certified.

Frank Nicholson, secretary-treasurer of Greater Victoria's Conquer Cancer Campaign, is delighted.

It gives him a chance to note the campaign is still under way and short of its $60,000 objective.

Donations total $51,739.17, about $900 short of where they stood at this time last year. Contributions can be sent to P.O. Box 202 in Victoria and should be made payable to the Conquer Cancer Campaign.

DUNE BUGGIES, TRIPS TO VEGAS

Old Folks No Longer at Home

Fewer and fewer grandparents are available for baby-sitting chores these days. The old folks just aren't home much any more.

They are just as likely to be out fossil hunting at Sooke, helping to build dune buggies, taking French lessons or winning expenses-plus on a trip to Reno.

Example Number 1 is Mrs. Gladys Beale who, on her 80th birthday, thought it was time to do something. She went into business importing and selling jewellery.

That was seven years ago.

Mrs. Beale is no longer in the jewellery business, but she's just returned from Reno where she won all her expenses and came back $20 to the good.

Now that she has moved into a smaller home, she can no longer do her own printing and developing because there is no place for a dark room.

Nor is there room for the extensive cellar of home-made wines she had when she was 80. She has now switched to making liqueurs.

"Oh yes, I'm still alive and jumping," she said. "I still have my piano, and next week I'm off to Jasper with my sister."

Then there is 70-year-old Philip Scurrah, a retired blacksmith, who makes frames for dune buggies, amongst other hobbies.

When Scurrah retired as an instructor at the navy base then known as Naden, he started travelling too, and in between trips to Europe stops long enough to take art courses, catch up in the garden and work on the frames.

The fossil-hunting grandmothers are an unusually disorganized group sometimes known as the Tuesday Hiking, Exploring and Fossil-Hunting Club.

Katie White, speaking on behalf of the galloping grandmothers, explained that the only solemn thing about the group is the vow that nothing would interfere with the Tuesday outings.

"There's always something we should be doing at home, but on Tuesday it just gets left undone."

The outings are casually organized when someone reads about an interesting spot to visit.

Mrs. White's suggestions are usually most ambitious, and include mountain climbing.

As a less energetic member of the group said, "You never know — Finlayson this week, Everest next."

Equally athletic are some of the swimmers at the Colwood Centennial pool who come regularly at noon hour, four or five days a week. They range from middle age to the seventies.

The strongest swimmers are Jean and Les Coke, who swim 50 lengths or more (that's nearly a mile). Les easily swims the length of the 25-metre pool under water.

Other members of the Noon Hour Social and Swim Club are Marjorie and Charlie Tolson. They are good swimmers too, but spend more time talking, mostly about one of Charlie's other hobbies, wine-making.

Silver Threads director Catherine Horne has a long list of members who are more than usually active in their older years.

One is 71-year-old Elsie Bullough. She is putting her years of experience as a professional music hall entertainer in England to good use as director of the Silver Threads Kitchen Band.

The 20 members range in age from 65 to 86, and Mrs. Bullough makes them practice every Monday morning for their many engagements.

"They look forward to it, you know. Otherwise they'd be sitting home. It's amazing how they've come out of their shells," Mrs. Bullough said.

Along with an assortment of odd instruments like frying pan banjos to accompany old-time songs, the group has specialty acts.

Millie Steele, 85, dances an Irish jig, and a chorus of men perform the can-can.

The youngest can-can dancer is 81.

Not all activities enjoyed by the older generation are as strenuous.

J. O. Boyd, co-ordinator of adult programs for the Greater Victoria School Board, says the number of senior citizens attending classes is large.

"In fact, some have taken so many courses they've run out of subjects and ask us what we've got that's new."

The most popular courses are languages, woodcarving (which is so popular there is a waiting list), ballroom dancing and art.

As well as students, the adult education division has teachers who have successfully ignored so-called "retirement year."

Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, who admits she has been receiving her old-age pension "for a few years," is a specialist teacher. She has taught remedial reading and is now one of several highly qualified instructors teaching English to immigrants.

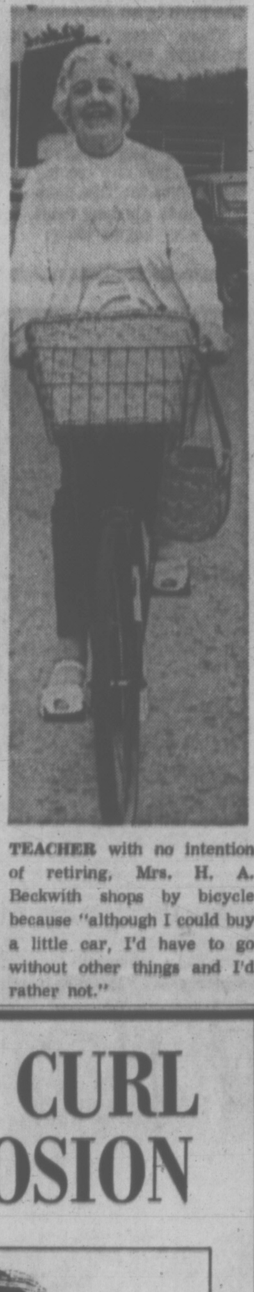
Last year Mrs. Beckwith went to Toronto for a course in new methods of teaching English to New Canadians.

"I'd hate to give it up. I'm always sorry when classes end for the summer. I enjoy the groups so much."

She enjoys them so much she takes them to baseball games and other events to help them learn English outside the classroom.

Mrs. Beckwith travels quite a bit, too. Last summer she went to Oberammergau and Rhodesia.

KEEPING BUSY Philip Scurrah, 2490 Trent Street, spends part of his spare time building frames for dune buggies. He trained as a blacksmith in a Yorkshire village like his father and grandfather before him. (Bill Halkett photo.)



TEACHER with no intention of retiring, Mrs. H. A. Beckwith shops by bicycle because "although I could buy a little car, I'd have to go without other things and I'd rather not."

SEW SIMPLE

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I am a "knitter," not a "sewer," but think you can help me with my problem. I knit many sweaters and sweater dresses. When I have the buttonholes machine made, they are always stretched out of shape. Am I too fussy, or is there a solution? — Mrs. V.M.

Dear Mrs. V.M.:

Some sewing machines make much better buttonholes than others. One machine in particular has a presser foot with a groove in the bottom to allow a cording to automatically feed in place while the buttonhole is being stitched. When the buttonhole is complete, you pull the ends of the cording slightly until the shape is perfect, thread the two ends of the cording to the wrong side and tie permanently. The shape of the buttonhole can never change.

If you are not as fortunate in your sewing machine, I would suggest boasting a piece of organdy or other lightweight firm fabric in between the two layers of your knit. This will stabilize the knit and give you a much firmer foundation for the buttonholes. If you find the buttonholes have caused the front to draw up slightly, it may be necessary to cut the organdy away from around the buttonholes, but they will still keep the buttonholes from stretching.

For a copy of Eunice Farmers' free leaflet "Bound Buttonholes" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper.

FAMILY SECTION

DEAR ABBY...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: One thing I've always wished (and still do) is that when someone dies, a friend or member of the family would go through that dead person's address book and notify everyone listed there that that person has died.

It is so embarrassing to find out in February that someone to whom you sent a Christmas card died in October.

When there is a death, so many friends ask, "What can I do to help?" Well, I think this would be a good job for them. What do you think? — St. Augustine, Fla.

DEAR SAINT: I think that in 99 out of 100 instances it would be a lovely idea. But the names and addresses in one's address book are the private business of the owner, living or dead. And I would not presume to "notify" all those listed there of the person's death. (I can think of more serious embarrassments than learning that someone to whom you sent a Christmas card had died before Christmas.)

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from the bachelor who said he wouldn't mind marrying a woman with children, and the more the merrier, I accused my husband of writing it.

When he read your reply, the damned fool went to the phone and called his friend, the Chief of Police, and asked for "police protection."

You were right. A man like that is one in a million. He tells all our friends that our five kids have spoiled him rotten, and they have. They fight over who is going to shine his shoes. My Bud has brought so much love into this house, it overflows. He is firm, but fair and the kids adore him. He is one terrific man! Please don't publish the name of this small Florida town as I am not fixin' to lose this jewel. — Bud's Wife.

DEAR WIFE: Don't worry. Your secret is safe with me!

DEAR ABBY: Recently you published a letter from an eligible bachelor who thought a woman with a ready-made family was most desirable, but his friends told him to steer clear of them.

You gave him a pat on the back, saying he was one in a million, and if the word ever got out about his attitude he'd need police protection. You were right, but I happen to agree with his friends.

As a 35year-old bachelor I fell in love with a divorcee who had two teen-aged children. I, too welcomed the thought of a ready-made family. I soon realized that love was not enough. There were more built-in disadvantages than I can list here.

Women with children are looking for a husband who is a great provider, a psychiatrist in residence, a long-lost father, a superb lover and a big truck into which to dump all their problems. These women had best pray to God. Only He can fill that bill. — Burned in the Midwest.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Most nurses confide they realize there is an accelerated amount of activity in maternity wards when the moon is full. Psychiatric workers also know they are in for a busy time during that phase of the moon.

Aries (March 21 - April 19): Discard the superficial. Throw off secret fears. Change routine — attend theatre and dine out with congenial person. It is time to live. Come out of self-imposed shell.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Accent on hopes, wishes, friends. Emphasis on change, travel, variety. Gemini individual leads the way. Member of opposite sex pays meaningful compliment.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Cooperate with Taurus individual. Goal is in sight. There is room for you at the top. Purchase of luxury items is favored. Accent beauty, diplomacy.

Cancer (June 21 - July 22): Much of what occurs appears nebulous. Seek the solid. Pisces individual is doing a lot of dreaming. Enjoy yourself, but keep tight rein on budget. Catch up on correspondence.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Practice issues dominate. Don't play games with money — or emotions. Stakes are apt to be for keeps. Some dependents, including pets, require special attention.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): A relationship is put to special test. This is either the beginning or the end. Know it and prepare accordingly. One close to you will make a key move. Be ready.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Stress independence of thought and action. Take the lead. Emphasize original concepts. Improve services. Get rid of outmoded methods. Sentimentality blocks progress.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): One who taught you in the part makes reappearance. Emotions fly high; remember, you do have to face yourself in the morning. Conscience may twinge.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Flurry of activity indicated at home base. Check safety measures. Loose wiring now could be a definite hazard. Older person complains.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan 19): Obtain hint from Sagittarius message. Be aware of apparent minor matters. Check details — read between the lines. Important to study fine print.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Avoid loss of valuables while in transit. Pay and collect debts. Write letters — but not in anger. Communicate thoughs, ideas. Be ready to keep promises.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): What you want is handed you as if on silver platter. Don't look proverbial gift horse in mouth. Toss aside false pride. Surroundings are due to brighten.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have innate ability to judge quality, beauty. Your speaking or singing voice is considered unusual. You possess heightened sense of drama. Where you are concerned, self-expression is a necessity. Recent social activity may have depleted your natural energies. Remember recent resolutions concerning diet. Have fun without being foolish. You are very attractive to the opposite sex.

'I SEE NO REASON NOT TO'

Porno Star 'Likes Work'

By LEROY F. AARONS

SAN FRANCISCO (WP) — Lucinda Housman is the type of girl who puts her full self into her work. Literally.

A tall, cheerful young lady of 20 years — Lucinda makes a living by performing numerous roles in pornographic films. She is just one of an army of hundreds of young people who have found a quick way to earn money in the booming porno market — the world's centre of which is California.

The word is out that the porno film industry is on the decline. Still, thousands of easy-to-make, relatively inexpensive dirty movies, ranging from the 16-mm one-reeler to the lavish technicolor productions for national distribution, are being churned out on the west coast.

One porno movie "Model" (they are not dignified in the trade with the term "actors") runs a free school in an isolated town in northern California, and travels every few weeks to Los Angeles to make a film, which helps support his informal lifestyle.

Like this model, Lucinda also finds that an occasional porno job — at $50 to $100 a day — enables her to live in San Francisco — still the city most compatible with the hippy lifestyle.

* * *

As a result, those jaded burlesque veterans who used to star in the porno film circuit are now being replaced by young enthusiasts who seem to thrive on what they're doing.

"It's a groovy way to make money temporarily," said Lucinda, who lives in San Francisco's Haight Ashbury district. "I don't have to go to work in the morning, wait for my pay check and stuff like that. I can just go and do it when I need the money and when I don't need the money I don't have to do it."

In a different era, Lucinda Houseman would be the last person you would expect to meet in a stag film. She was born and raised on New York's Lower East Side, the daughter of a now-retired New York police captain. Her mother is a retired private detective. Her older brother is an air force officer.

Lucinda went to public school in Manhattan and then to the Bronx High School of Science — New York's elite institution for academically gifted youngsters. When she was 14, she took the test to become a member of Mensa — the super-elitist society of individuals with genius intelligence — and passed it. She estimates her IQ in the 150s.

* * *

She went to the City University of New York to study to be a veterinarian (still her ultimate ambition) but dropped out and left town because, she says, she couldn't tolerate her parents' oppressive conservatism.

Like millions before her, she found her way to San Francisco and liked what she saw. Her first job was as a housecleaner in a kennel. But then she answered an ad which said: "MSI needs secretary-receptionist."

"When I first went down there, I thought it was an insurance company," she said, stuffing chocolate-marshmallow cookies into her mouth. "I went down in my straight little secretary dress — and it was the Modern Sex Institute. After I had been working there about six months as secretary they let me do some counselling and encounter groups and it worked out very well."

MSI turned out to be a legitimate enterprise, as she saw it, dedicated to the study of human sexuality and its problems. But for Lucinda, MSI opened new vistas. "I came to realize that there's nothing that I really can't do if I wanted to. I stopped trying to put labels on things. I stopped trying to classify people as far as their sexuality. If it feels good, it's good, so long as it's not hurting anybody.

You know, there are certain things I like and certain things I don't like, for my own personal life. I've tried a lot of things that I don't particularly like, but at the same time I don't say because I don't like it that means it's bad."

It was through a friend at the Sexual Freedom League — a cousin of the now defunct MSI — that Lucinda got her first opportunity in the movies. That first film has been followed by four more, including Lucinda's latest, and the one she likes the best — a technicolor feature called The Confiscated, by a young filmmaker named Terry Sullivan.

* * *

Sullivan, who lives on a houseboat in Sausalito, just over the bay from San Francisco, is in his mid-20s. His ambition is to make good "straight" films, but he has discovered that his route to commercial success is through the pornographic medium. Sullivan got a major publicity push in that direction recently when it became known that he filmed an entire porno film on a bus he had rented for the day from the San Francisco Municipal Transit Company.

Lucinda likes her work and can become quite philosophical about it. "It's another mode of expression for people," she said. "One of the most important things about sexuality in general is imagination and fantasy. If you havn't got that, it's going to be a dull trip, it's just gonna be a heavy grunt and groan scene every time.

"I don't agree that porno movies drive people to criminal acts. I think basically nobody's ever been corrupted by a movie or book. I was reading Playboy when I was 9 years old and it didn't corrupt me. The whole thing that sexuality would be something corrupt I think is a corrupt idea in itself."

In economic terms, porno films make Sound Of Music look like a flop as a profit maker.

* * *

For example, a film called Man And Wife, which made the national circuit a year ago (showing two couples in 49 coital positions) cost $30,000 and has grossed $5 million. That was a major production by the acknowledged king of the porno filmmakers, Matt Cinber.

But the do-it-yourselfer can stay well above the poverty line. Newsweek magazine reported that a black-and-white, soundless stag flick can be made for $15 to $25, then parlayed into thousands at roughly $50 per print. One local distributor testified to a federal panel he had done $10 million worth of business in a single year.

Lucinda insists on using her own name in her films (and in this story) even at the risk of her ex-policeman father stumbling onto one of her movies.

COMMISSION POINTS NEED 'WHITTLING'

MONTREAL (CP) — The 167 recommendations of the federal royal commission on the status of women must be whittled down if any are to be implemented, says Ester Greenglass, a member of the Liberal party group studying the report.

"The report is just too big," she told a news conference. "We can't go to the government and ask them to discuss the status of women for the next 10 years. We have to find out what recommendations have constituent support."

Miss Greenglass, Jan Steele and Marie Guilbault have formed the group to visit cities across Canada and determine which recommendations are considered viable.

One topic receiving wide-spread attention is government-run day care centres.

Although women generally agree the centres are essential, Miss Greenglass said, "it's a question of 'why should I pay for your child while you golf?'"

THAT'S SHOW BIZ

DETROIT (UPI) — The bartender leaned on his favorite elbow and declared, "The lunchtime crowd isn't here to look at breasts. They're here to talk business."

He was surrounded by empty tables.

The ban on topless go-go dancing was more or less in full sway this weekend in the wake of a court ruling that topless dancing violated indecent exposure laws.

Business slumped, go-go girls had their wages slashed and one proprietor reported "sheer panic" among his competitors along Michigan Avenue.

Topless establishments in the suburbs reported business thriving.

So did two East Side bars which defied the ban and had packed houses.

Ron Clark, one of the tavern owners who complied with the ruling, said he went out to Dearborn one night to see now the competition was doing.

"Packed," he said. "Every one of those places. Lines back to the street. And I had to let my doorman go, too.

"After five years they decide it's indecent," huffed Denice Turner, a dancer who had her salary trimmed from $7 to $4 an hour. "Some girls on the beach wear less than we do in here."

AIR INDIA HOSTESSES model new uniforms for use on the airline's Boeing 747 jets. Besides are traditional Indian sari (left), they also wear the churidarkameez (centre) and the Rafasthani traditional costume, the last in the Maharajah lounge on the plane's upper deck.

Hot Pants Replace Saris For Indian Stewardesses

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (CP) — The ethnic or peasant look has been the important one this season. A new look for stewardesses features chiffons, silks, organzas and hand-woven cottons with Indian motifs.

A fashion show of cocktail and evening gowns by two Indian sisters was held high in the sky in Air-India's first Boeing 747 circling New York.

Even hot pants were included — rather a shock to anyone thinking in terms of graceful Indian saris.

Naturally the hot pants were elegant, in hand-painted silk chiffon with gold scroll banding that practically was the entire pant leg. They were worn under a shirtwaist-style top and an ankle-length skirt in a swirling 24-carat gold design. The skirt was split and banded up the sides to the waist.

Another elegant ensemble featured a long coat in gold brocade that simulated a hand carving of the Taj Mahal. The dress, in midnight blue chiffon, was a mid-calf length. A separate narrow stole was edged in gold seahorse motif.

The two designer-sisters, Surjit and Adarsh Gill, each alternate three months in New York and three in India. Adarsh was on the Air-India flight.

"I used to design my own clothes in India," she said. "I came to New York three years ago and attended a fashion and designing school."

They also create their own individual jewelry, massive bibs and pendants, as well as huge intricate gold rings.

Canada will have a chance to see some of the modernized traditional Indian clothes at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto in August. There is to be a fashion show every day from various fashion houses and boutiques in India, including costumes from the Gill sisters.

All the Gill clothes are hand-done in India and range in price from $140 to $1,000. For the fall they are projecting red, blue, green and purple as their top colors.

Flounces have been popular this season, too, and one floor-length organza was double flounced, in three skirt tiers and three handkerchief-pointed tiers for the sleeves. The waistband and hemline were heavily embroidered and inlaid with pearls. A nude organza-over-silk was just below the knees. Gold embroidery, sequins and pearls provided a rich oriental feeling. A deep front plunge and a slit back added a sexy look.

One floor-length gown combined a crinkle cerise skirt overlaid with gold sequins with a mauve Empire top that ran down into short tight sleeves with a cerise sleeve falling full to the wrist below.

The Air-India stewardesses continue to wear the traditional six-yard sari, in vibrant pink and deep purple or in turquoise and royal blue — color combinations that should be added to your summer wardrobe.

BUTTON, BUTTON WHO'S GOT COCAINE?

MIAMI (AP) — U.S. Customs agents played button button at Miami International Airport and came up with a kilo of cocaine.

Agent Jim Dingfelder said customs officials became suspicious when a woman arrived on a flight from Bogota, Colombia, carrying three chenille bedspreads covered with an abundance of large round buttons.

After they found cocaine in some 218 of the buttons, Dingfelder said Maria Debotreo was taken into custody.

Since my column last week on abused and battered children I've several times had the question asked — what protection do I have if I report what I strongly suspect or believe to be abuse of a child?

Until four years ago it was difficult for anyone to accuse without material evidence to corroborate the accusation.

In her maiden speech in the 1967 provincial legislature, minister without portfolio Grace McCarthy pin-pointed this fact and asked for changes in the law.

Later in the session an amendment to the Protection of Children's Act was passed, making it possible for any person having knowledge of a battered or an abused child to give the facts to the proper authorities.

A clause in that act now reads that every person having information of the abandonment, desertion, physical ill-treatment, or need for protection of a child shall report the information to a children's aid society or to the superintendent of child welfare or his duly appointed representative.

A second clause notes that this applies notwithstanding that the information is confidential or privileged.

In other words, through the Act as it reads today, the way is clear for a doctor, teacher, neighbor or any person to give information without fear of reprisal.

If more people realized this I'm sure they would accept the responsibility of coming forward and telling what they strongly suspect or know. Then the protection and treatment of children who have had injuries inflicted upon them by parents or others who have them in care, and the punishment of such offenders, would be much easier.

There is no doubt that child abuse does exist, not only in Victoria but in other parts of our province. Reports and reviews on file in the department of sicial welfare tell of these abuses.

As might be expected (but hard to believe) the children involved are often babies under two years of age.

There are records that show children have died of batterings in this beautiful British Columbia and that, in the majority of all abuse cases on record, a parent made the attack.

Few of these abuses ever seem to reach the punishment stage. Or if they do, they never reach the headlines.

Yet these are instances that should be told and retold and the punishment highlighted through every possible medium in order that others who are doing the same thing, or worse, will know and perhaps be deterred.

In today's child-conscious society, more cases of this shocking type of abuse are coming to light. Fractures, various and many, point the finger of suspicion, along with improbable, impossible, or vague reasons given by the parents for these injuries. Yet for every case that is discovered, there are hundreds that are not.

This is not pleasant reading for a summer day in June, but abuse of children knows no season. And it is only through aroused public conscience that the law will be able to really reach out and control such abuses.

Tonight's Top Television Shows

CABLEVISION TEN PROGRAMS, 7 p.m., Ladies First; 7:30 p.m., Project Travel; 8 p.m., Music Victoria — Conservatory of Music; 8:30 p.m., Victoria Outdoorsmen — sailing edition; 9 pm., Canadian Forces Pacific; 9:30 p.m., Connections — Greater Victoria Council of Churches.

FROM A BIRD'S EYE VIEW, 7:30 p.m., Channel 5, "Millie the Matchmaker," and as the title implies, Millie tries to arrange a marriage. She introduces Uncle Bart to the cousin of her boss, hoping it will serve a dual purpose: get Uncle Bart out of her hair, and put her in good standing with the boss. Naturally, it doesn't work out just that way.

GUNSMOKE, 7:30 p.m., Channel 7 (Rerun). "Lobo." A rancher has dispatched hunters to track down a wolf, but a kindly, leathery old mountain man pleads with Dillon to head them off. The marshal goes after them proving that no greater love hath man than for his wolf. Guest appearances by David Brian and Morgan Woodward.

COMEDY THEATRE, 8 p.m., Channel 5, (Rerun). "And Baby Makes Three," Starring Cliff Robertson, and Angie Dickinson. They play an author and his model-wife who forsake their careers and quit the big city to live in a small town. He becomes a crusading editor of the local newspaper and finds his crusades for the people aren't especially well received by the people.

REALITIES, 9 p.m., Channel 9, ". . . and the Meek Shall Inherit the Earth." The struggle of the Menominees, an Indian tribe which maintains the only Indian-governed country in the nation (Menominee Country, Wisc), is an absorbing subject. Narrated by E. G. Marshall, it tells how the Indians were self-sufficient and happy, as a mandate of the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Then they won a claims settlement from the government of $10,500,000 and they were forced into independence, and subject to taxes, proving their undoing.

THE BOLD ONES, 9 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. The Lawyers. Walt takes on an impossible case . . . his client, a young woman, signed a full confession after she was found beside her husband's body with the murder weapon in her hand. Tisha Sterling is guest star, as the wife.

MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE, 9 p.m., Channel 4. "Marilyn." (Rerun). The legend of Marilyn Monroe, the sex symbol, unhappy actress and tragic figure, is brought together in this documentary film, narrated by Rock Hudson. It is done in black and white and features sequences from 15 of her films.

WORLD PREMIER MOVIE, 9 p.m., Channel 5. (Rerun). "San Francisco International Airport." An action-drama which led to the short-lived series of Four-in-One. The drama surrounds an attempt to rob $3 million from a cargo plane, holding as hostage the wife of the pilot of an airliner about to take off with a passenger load of legislators. David Hartman, Van Johnson, Pernell Roberts, Clu Gulager and Tab Hunter are featured.

SUSPENSE PLAYHOUSE, 10 p.m., Channel 7, (Rerun). "Higher and Higher," a comedy adventure co-starring Dustin Hoffman and Sally Kellerman as a husband-wife attorney team not always on the same side. Hoffman is district attorney, prosecuting a young man accused of murdering a wealthy woman. His wife and her partner (John McMartin) agree to defend the accused (Robert Forster). While digging up facts for their case, the defence attorneys uncover evidence of a 100-year-old killing in the same mansion where the woman was murdered.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

There are many persons who suffer from indigestion most of their days without ever finding a disease to account for it, and without coming to any bad end because of it.

Many of these are nervous, worrisome, overly - sensitive persons; some are allergic to foods; many of them are constitutionally frail, meaning that they were born to be sickly and uncomfortable physically all their days; others are stout, healthy-looking persons who "burp" often and have heartburn, and still others are thin and perhaps sour-looking finicky persons who are always fussing about their food and always afraid that something will give them indigestion.

A man will say that he cannot touch anything raw, anything acid, anything fried, anything that contains roughage, anything rich, anything warmed over, or any dessert. And yet, with all his self-restraint, he goes on suffering just the same.

Much chronic indigestion is due simply to the fact that the person is eating too much, thereby overwhelming even a good bowel's capacity for the handling, digesting, and absorbing of food. The cure for this trouble is simple; the person has to learn to eat only half of the usual amount of food, and then he will be more comfortable. Learning to cut down on the amount of food eaten can have other good effects. As the insurance people know, overweight can shorten the person's life, and strengthen a tendency to get high blood pressure or artery disease or even a diabetes.

168 CAMPERS AND TRAILERS

$100 Centennial Bonus $100

Our Stock of top quality used trailers and campers must be reduced. For that reason, we're offering a reduction of $100 as a centennial bonus on all used units.

EXAMPLE:
'67 VANGUARD 16' has stove, oven, fridge and toilet. Priced at $2,300. Less Centennial Bonus, $100, NOW $2,200.

You're invited to inspect our lineup of used trailers, note the prices shown and DEDUCT $100. That's what you save as a Centennial Bonus.

Are you considering the purchase of a new trailer? . . . Our SCAMPER and SOUTH PARK '71 models are fully CSA certified. That is, they comply with all vehicular, plumbing, gas, oil, electrical requirements of CSA standards, a must on all trailers and campers manufactured after July 1.

WHAT IS AN EXECUTIVE HOME?
It must of course be quality built with a versatile plan to accommodate guests as well as the family. Its styling should reflect the character of the owner. Such a home should include a flare for the unusual and be in harmony with its setting so that visitors are left with a lasting impression of the hosts. All these things help to make a good executive home. Here is one of Victoria's BETTER executive homes. Full asking price $55,900. Details from either JIM TYLER or

CHARMING WATERFRONT HIDEAWAY

On 10 mile point, on the shores of Cadboro Bay, amongst the trees and plantings is a most charming vine covered hidden cottage, not even visible from the road. From either the dining room or the bright 18½x21½ living room with brick fireplace, large windows afford the most fantastic of views. And, of course there's the patio, set amid the rock gardens and perched above the beach. It's absolutely beautiful! A lovely bay windowed bedroom is on the main floor (DR could be a 2nd bedroom, the spacious modern kitchen has eating space) and another very nice view bedroom is in the part basement. Wall to wall carpeting is throughout. Furnace, roof, plumbing and wiring have all been replaced and there is a new vanity bathroom. This just has to be one of Victoria's most fantastic locations. Asking $39,900.

New Threat To Refugees

CALCUTTA (Reuter) — Giant Soviet and American transport planes will join in a massive race against the clock to move refugees from congested border areas to avert an outbreak of killer pneumonia.

Already, special trains have carried to a desolate area in central India about 20,000 of the 6.5 million refugees who have fled East Pakistan into the Indian states of West Bengal state and Assam and the centrally administered territories of Tripura and Meghalaya.

The pneumonia threat provides a new headache for harried officials just as they appear to have contained the cholera epidemic which already esstimated to have killed more than 5,000 of the refugees.

Doctors at a refugee camp on the outskirts of Calcutta reported this weekend that they were treating up to 40 cases of pneumonia a day and a number of people were dying.

Hopes of moving out enough refugees from this and other camps before the situation gets worse is pinned on the special trains running daily and the American and Soviet planes.

AIRCRAFT DUE

Three big Soviet Antonov transport aircraft are due at Calcutta's Dum Dum airport tonight to start ferrying refugees 550 miles to the southwest to the remote Mana area of Madhya Pradesh.

Wednesday four American C-130 transport aircraft will start ferrying refugees from Tripura territory to Gauhati in Assam.

At least 18 trains, each carrying over 1,000 refugees, have left for Mana in the last week.

Three trains carrying between them close to 4,000 refugees have set out from Hasnabad on the border with East Pakistan and about 15 trains with about 1,000 East Pakistanis each have left Barasat, 15 miles from Calcutta, since June 7.

Many of the refugees do not want to go to Mana, a reclaimed forest land area originally cleared to resettle the hordes of refugees who came into India at the time of the sub-continent's partition in 1947.

"There is no other way," said a Hasnabad refugee camp official. "We are dispatching them to Mana because there is no question of shelter here."

To Teach For CUSO

A former University of Victoria student leaves this week for two years of volunteer teaching duty in the Territory of Papua and New Guinea under the Canadian University Service Overseas program.

Bruce McKean, 25, of 2745 Beach Drive, who is a research assistant in the Canadian military history department at Uvic, will take an orientation course at Huntsville, Ont., and will eventually go to Port Moresby.

CUSO volunteers serve in countries only when requested, and at a salary considerably below Canadian standards. McKean will teach history, geography, sociology, and international relations at the high school level. His salary will be $1,500 per year.

BEST-MADE VIOLIN in the annual competition of the Violinmakers' Association of B.C. went to Ragnar Helin, left, of Burnaby, who was also awarded the Centennial Grand Trophy for best instrument in the contest here Saturday. Archie Shold, right, of 2740 Dewdney, took second place in the violin category. Violas and cellos were also entered in the contest which was held at the Provincial Museum. Instruments were judged for quality and power of tone, and for playability and workmanship. (Ian McKain photo.)

They'll Meet Gaglardi

Four women representing the Housecleaning Rehabilitation Association this afternoon were to meet Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi to discuss possible assistance for their project.

The group, which now numbers 35, was formed at the beginning of the year under the auspices of the Victoria Low Income Group to provide part-time housework for welfare mothers.

Following a break from the Low Income Group in April they applied for a $15,500 grant under the Canada Assistance Act to be shared equally by the provincial and federal governments.

Gaglardi, replying to the women's request, invited their representatives to meet him.

The grant, if it is approved, would cover office and transportation expenses and pay the salary of a social worker-consultant.

Debris Spotted

HONOLULU (UPI) — A military rescue plane spotted debris today in an area of the Pacific Ocean where a U.S. Air Force C135 vanished Sunday with 24 persons aboard while on a seemingly mysterious mission.

Sidney Clarke Ells Funeral Wednesday

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. in Oak Bay United Chuch for one of Canada's foremost mining engineers, Sidney Clarke Ells, who died Friday at Royal Jubilee Hospital at 92.

A man of many talents, Ells wrote 14 publications; one of the best-known being Northland Trails in which he described life in the north through his poetry, prose and illustrations.

It was his interest in the Athabaska tar sands that led to the development of the huge trace that spreads across north Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba into the Northwest Territories.

A descendant of a Massachusetts family that settled in Nova Scotia's Cornwallis Valley in the 1780s, Ells was born Sept. 29, 1878 at Amherst, N.S.

Like his father, he was a graduate of McGill University, receiving his BA in 1900 and his BSc in 1908.

His interest in geology was stimulated by his father, who was chief geologist for the federal department of mines for many years.

Ells himself earned his mining certificate in Nova Scotia, was a mine surveyor and engineer for railroads in Ontario before joining the department of mines in 1900.

He worked as a mining engineer in Ontario, British Columbia and Quebec, supervising the building of many mine roads and trails in B.C.

Still standing in Edmonton is a street he constructed of material from the Athabasca tar sands.

He served in many countries, on loan from the federal department.

During the First World War he served overseas with the Royal Engineers and during the Second World War was responsible for the inspection of 70 Canadian airports, made necessary by the British Commonwealth Training Program for air crews.

Ells constructed the Watson Lake airport in the Yukon Territories.

He is survived by three cousins, Miss Janet Christie, Dr. Hugh E. Christie and Charles B. Christie, all of Amherst. His wife, Irene, died here on April 29 of this year.

After Wednesday's service, which will be conducted by Rev. Alex Calder, Ells' ashes will be flown to Ottawa, to be buried at the family plot in Beechwood Cemetery.

HOME GARDEN

Shrubs—Plants in a Hurry

By HILDA BEASTALL

Shrubs that will grow reasonably quickly to a decorative size have a place in two types of gardens. First, on rented property where a tenant desires to have beautiful plants in a hurry, knowing the tenancy is likely to be only five years or so.

Hilda

Second, on a piece of ground where the soil has been so badly treated by machinery, or other means, that it will take several years to work it up with humus to a general state of fertility. Here these shrubs should be considered a temporary measure, to be removed after better things are established.

In either case, the suggested shrubs are in the lower price range flowering in small sizes, and will grow in heavy soil if the planting holes are reasonably well prepared.

In earliest spring before leaves are unfolding, the golden forsythia will be a gay note. Each year new growths four and five feet long will be made. If flowering portions are cut off when they fade, new branches grow to flowering size in two years.

In May and June the snowball-tree, viburnum opulus sterile, flowers when quite young and contributes fine bronze leaf coloring for two months in the fall. It needs no pruning.

Something pink and prolific is added to the garden when weigele "fairy" is planted. It flowers in late May on branches made the previous summer, so the way to get a mass of bloom is to cut off the flowered poriton just as the blossoms fade.

In this way you triple the size of a shrub in one year.

To follow this pink weigela another quite different shrub is now beginning to flower. Escallonia "Donard Seedling" quickly grows broad and high, clothed to the ground with arching sprays of tiny scented pink and white blossoms.

With this, too, if you cut the flowering end of a branch or two for a vase, there will be a dozen more shoots to ripen up for flowering the next year.

An evergreen with broader, shiny green leaves and dark rose colored flowers in escallonia rubra, also fast growing and blooming intermittently from June to late September.

Buddleia variabilis will send up flowering stems five to eight feet high if pruned severely down to a foot or so in early spring. This blooms with white, purple, red or pinkish honey scented blossoms in late summer and early fall.

None of these shrubs is fussy, though giving them the best start you can devise will help them fulfil their purpose in your hurry-up garden.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

For those bridge players who, every once in a while, incur a set of 800, 1100, 1400, etc., I am presenting today's deal to demonstrate that you are in good company.

This deal came up in the Vanderbilt Cup Championships of 1942. The players were four of the nation's best. The North player has since passed away, but South is still actively with us. I am not mentioning their names, for if South happened to read this column, and saw his name appended to the hand, the shock might be more than he could stand. North - South vulnerable. North deals

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: King of ♡.

North's opening bid of one spade and his rebid of two spades were beyond reproach, as was South's initial response of one notrump. But when the bidding came back to South, he had the feeling that his original response had not done full justice to his hand. Hence his rebid of two notrump to denote (presumably) a "super - maximum" one notrump response.

North, taking an optimistic position, rationalized that his spade suit might well produce six tricks (and he was right, in theory). And six tricks were exactly two-thirds of the tricks required to produce a game at three notrump. So he bid three notrump.

East, having a hunch that North-South were skating on thin ice, made a penalty double. How right he was!

On West's opening lead of the heart king, East played the three. At trick two, West shifted to his singleton club. East now proceeded to cash six club tricks, West discarding two spades and three diamonds. East then led his remaining heart, entrapping South's queen and enabled West to make five more heart tricks.

When West got through, he played his thirteenth card, the diamond jack, which South captured for North-South's only trick. When the score was recorded, it showed that South had gone down eight tricks, doubled and vulnerable, for a loss of 2300 points!

I subsequently discussed the catastrophe with South. He felt that North had bid too much. As he put it: "After all, he had opened the bidding, and he had then carried on to game — and his hand didn't produce even one trick! My hand won the only trick for our side!"

Fun with Figures

By J A H HUNTER

"I've only met one of them," said Sally. "The man with the beard. Which was that?"

"Figure it out yourself," Peter told her. "Two of them are married, two have blue eyes, and two are clean shaven. The bearded one has brown eyes. Doug's wife is Ken's sister, and the bachelor has the same colored eyes as Joe. They're three great guys."

What do you say?

Quebec Asking Too Much—PM

ARRIVING FOR START of constitutional conference at the legislature this morning are Prime Minister Trudeau, Premier Bennett and hundreds of other provincial and federal officials as crowd of spectators and assorted protesters watch. (Bill Halkett photo.)

A Day of Signs And Roses for PM

By CLEMENT CHAPPLE

A loud military band ensured a good turnout of parade-watchers this morning for Canada's first ministers as they motored in open cars through downtown Victoria before entering the fourth session of the constitutional conference.

Riding alone in the back seat of an aqua Cadillac, Prime Minister Trudeau waved good-naturedly at people — mostly shop-keepers and tourists — who gathered on street corners.

One elderly lady on Fort brandished her umbrella like a rifle in the prime minister's direction and Trudeau acknowledged by shrinking into the collar of his suit.

But later on Yates the insult was softened when a young lady in a blue jump suit ran out to the prime minister's car and handed him a red rose.

Trudeau already wore a customary red carnation in the lapel of his blue suit.

Other than a few quiet comments along downtown streets there was little adverse reaction to the presence of the prime minister and the premiers.

However, in front of the Legislative buildings a small group waved women's liberation posters and chanted slogans.

One of them tried to break through a RCMP cordon, waiving an envelope containing a copy of a brief, but failed to deliver it to Trudeau.

They then settled for chanting "Implement the Staus of Women report."

Beside them a group of pro-confederation demonstrators of about 20 stood silently behind the police cordon.

In all, there were about 200 people gathered in front of the Buildings.

SHAKE HANDS

As the premiers left their cars they gathered briefly to shake hands and pose for photographers before heading directly into the legislative chamber to begin the session at almost exactly the scheduled 10:30 a.m.

The motorcade started at The Empress, threatened by a light shower, but wended its way on a small circuit of the downtown area under increasingly sunny skies.

Besides the lady who delivered the rose here were several men and women who ran on to the street to shake Trudeau's hand.

At one point the driver of a green Volkswagen gestured at the prime minister, complaining about the traffic holdup caused by the parade.

The p.m. returned with his famous shrug.

Amend BNA Act Now—Trudeau

Prime Minister Trudeau today warned the constitutional conference that provincial control of income security programs would hurt the poor in the poorer provinces, including Quebec.

He also warned that failure to agree on a formula to patriate the Canadian constitution could mean it would be "long before we find another occasion" for such an agreement.

The dual warning made clear federal opposition to Quebec demands for full control of social policy — including income security programs — in return for agreement on an amending formula for the constitution.

Trudeau called for a full effort by the conference to achieve an amending formula to remove "once and for all the last remnant of a condition that is not worthy of Canada as a free and independent country."

Bringing the constitution back to Canada and out from control of the British Parliament is "the way to ensure that we can progress in the years ahead," Trudeau said in his opening statement.

The prime minister said the federal government "is not taking a negative attitude" toward changes in programs such as social policy.

But he said that provincial control of income security payments such as that proposed by Quebec would "erode" federal income security programs.

This would be caused partly by the reluctance of federal taxpayers to pay taxes to Ottawa to support social policy programs controlled by other provinces than their own, he said.

"The old and the poor in the wealthier provinces might do as well in such circumstances as if the federal government were making the payments, but in other provinces including Quebec, the tax base would not support as good income security benefits payments as Parliament could provide," Trudeau said.

Rush Constitution, Get to Jobs—WAC

Premier Bennett today called for swift approval of a constitution amending formula to enable the Constitutional Conference to get down to the "most urgent need confronting the nation today."

The provision of jobs, he said, is a more important priority than the constitution but B.C. agrees with the need for a formula to amend and patriate the constitution.

Bennett, in welcoming the delegates to the conference, wasted little time in renewing his attacks on Ottawa for what he called unfair treatment of the province.

B.C. is "unalterably opposed" to equalization payments by Ottawa to provincial governments, he said, adding that direct payments to individuals would be more effective.

CANADIAN ENVOY FAR EAST EXPERT

SEABORN
. . . warned Hanoi

J. Blair Seaborn, (left) the Canadian diplomat reported to have carried out a secret mission on behalf of the United States to Hanoi in 1964, was a member of the International Control Commission, a neutral trade team in Southeast Asia.

Seaborn later, as the head of the Eastern division of Canada's external affairs department, was corned in negotiations with Peking which led to diplomatic recognition of mainland China.

His 1964 secret mission to Hanoi apparently was to issue a warning that U.S. patience was "growing thin" with North Vietnam following the Gulf of Tonkin incident.

★

Neutral Canada Carried Threat For Pentagon

WASHINGTON (WP) — The Johnson administration planned major American military action against North Vietnam nearly five months before the 1964 Tonkin Gulf incident, according to secret government documents made public Sunday by the New York Times.

These plans were made, the documents show, at a time when the United States already was directing clandestine sabotage operations in the north.

U.S. Sends Seaborn

Two months before the attack on two American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin on Aug. 2 and 4, 1964, the administration sent a Canadian diplomat, J. Blair Seaborn, on a secret mission to Hanoi where he is quoted as telling Premier Pham Van Dong that "in the event of escalation (of the war) the greatest devastation would result for the D.R.V. (North Vietnam) itself."

It was the Tonkin incident — called totally unprovoked by the administration — which led Congress on Aug. 7 to pass a resolution declaring that the United States was "prepared, as the president directs, to take all necessary steps, including the use of armed force," to assist South Vietnam. It was on this resolution that President Johnson subsequently leaned heavily to widen the war.

The documents are part of a vast collection of records and comments assembled under the direction of then Secretary of Defence Robert S. McNamara. The bulk of the documents disclosed thus far by the Times were of military origin but included some White House and State Department papers that reached the Pentagon. Other documents were only alluded to or quoted from in the newspaper's story.

Memorandum Detailed Aims

A national security action memorandum of March 17, 1964, presumably the result of a presidential decision, set out both the administration's political aims and the basis for its military planning. A cable sent three days later by the president to Henry Cabot Lodge, then the American ambassador in Saigon, illuminates his intentions.

The memorandum said that "we seek an independent non-communist South Vietnam" but "do not require that it serve as a western base or as a member of a western alliance. South Vietnam must be free, however, to accept outside assistance as required to maintain its security."

Repeating language from a McNamara memorandum of March 16 to the president (language in part drawn in turn from a memorandum to McNamaara on Jan. 22 from the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor) the NSC document reflects the prevailing belief in what former President Eisenhower had called the

B.C. TEL TO TALK

B.C. Telephone will disclose its financial dealings with affiliated companies after a request was made to the telephone rate hearings in Vancouver by the attorney-general's lawyer.

The company has promised, by Tuesday to reveal the extent of funds draining from its sister company, Automatic Electric (Canada) Ltd., to their parent company, General Telephone and Electronics Corp. of New York. For details of Saturday's hearing see Page 36.

COSMONAUTS CAST BALLOTS IN SPACE

TIMES NEWS SERVICES

MOSCOW — Three Russian cosmonauts Sunday became the first to cast a ballot from space — voting the straight Communist Party line in the U.S.S.R.'s parliamentary elections.

Cosmonauts Georgi Dobrovolsky, Vladislav Volkov and Viktor Parsayev voted "for the candidates of the inviolable bloc of Communists and non-party members. We vote for the wise foreign and domestic policy of our Communist party, for the implementation of the grandiose plans of the new five-year economic plan."

Cost of Living Continues Up

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The consumer price index, reflecting the cost of living in Canada, rose by half a point in May, bringing the overall index to 2.4 per cent above the figure for a year ago.

The index, based on 1961 prices equalling 100, rose to 132.7 from 132. in April. It was 129.6 in May of 1970.

This means that it cost $13.27 last month to buy what $13.22 would have bought in April, or what $12.96 would have bought in May last year.

COST $10 IN 1961

The same package of goods and services of equivalent quality cost $10 in 1961. That is the basis of the price index, which is geared to the purchasing habits of average urban families.

The bureau said all the principal components of the price index rose, with the biggest increases in food, transportation, health and personal care, and tobacco and alcohol. The latter rose to reflect higher beer prices.

Of special significance was an acceleration in the rate of price increases. In percentage terms, last month's over-all index was 2.4 per cent ahead of a year earlier. In the last several months, this year-over-year rate of increase has been less than two per cent.

Most economists regard an annual rate of price increase of two per cent or less as generally consistent with price stability. The bureau noted, however, that the May index indicated prices had already risen 2.2 per cent this year. Early in 1970, prices were climbing 4.5 to five per cent a year.

The index is based on a monthly survey of retail prices of more than 300 goods and services representative of the purchases of urban, low to medium-income families.

Because it now cost $13.27 to buy $10 worth of consumer goods and services at 1961 prices, the consumer dollar has withered away in purchasing value by 25 cents in 10 years. On the basis of the old consumer price index formerly based on 1949 prices equalling 100, it would have cost $17.14 last month to buy $10 worth of 1949 goods and services.

DBS has no exactly parallel index of family incomes, but the latest available data on average weekly wages and salaries paid in a broad cross-section of industry showed $131.59 a week was paid in February, compared with $130.82 in January and $124.14 in February a year ago.

That showed an increase of six per cent in average weekly wages and salaries in the year, while in that same period—the 12 months to February this year — the consumer price index rose 1.7 per cent. In the three months since then, consumer prices have risen a further 1.4 per cent.

$50 MILLION worth of construction and housing equipment sits idle at eight work camps waiting to put in the proposed Prudhoe Bay to Valdez pipeline. These machines at Galbraith Lake are looked after by seven men until the U.S. interior department gives the go-ahead for construction. This is not expected before the fall. (AP Wirephoto)

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trading was light and prices were steady in all commodities except rapeseed at the close of the grain exchange today.

Rapeseed was sharply easier on heavy hedge offers and some local and commission house interest.

Flax was on a steady price pattern with exporter buying in a light volume.

Oats and barley showed some domestic shipper interest and rye was firm on some exporter interest, inter-month spreading.

Volume of trade friday was 725,000 bushels of flax, 3,697,000 of rapeseed, 1,594,000 of rye.

Jobs Eliminated

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has ordered the elimination of some 8,000 city jobs, including the firing of 25 executives whose salaries total more than $500,000 a year. Lindsay disclosed the layoffs to his cabinet Sunday as he slashed about $300 million from his original $9.1 billion budget proposal to reflect the reduced city tax package authorized by the state legislature. The job cuts will be in addition to the 10,000 city employee jobs eliminated since last October.

Upper Clyde Shipyard Goes Into Liquidation

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government announced today it is letting Upper Clyde Shipbuilders go into liquidation.

John Davies, minister for trade and industry in Heath's cabinet, told the Commons the government would put no more money into the company as it now stands.

The firm had asked the government for immediate aid of £6 million ($14.4 million) to stave off liquidation and save the jobs of 7,500 shipyard employees and 25,000 workers in allied jobs.

Davies said he understood the firm would apply immediately for the appointment of a liquidator. Within minutes of his announcement the company confirmed in Glasgow it was doing just that.

Workers threatened to take over the shipyards to prevent their shutdown.

Upper Clyde builder of such world-famous ocean liners as the Queen Elizabeth 2, thus became the second major British firm and long-time household name to go on the skids this year. The first one, Rolls-Royce, had been refused the heavy government help it said it needed.

The firm now is in receivership.

Heath's government has repeatedly warned British industry it must stand on its own feet and not seek government financial support at every critical point, as it did with the previous Labor government.

With Rolls-Royce, Heath's government refused to follow the Labor example and pour more money into supporting an engine contract for Lockheed Aircraft Corp., on which costs had skyrocketed.

Only when the company had gone into virtual bankruptcy and reduced its liability did the government step in with help.

Davies stressed there would be no more government help for upper Clyde shipbuilders, "as it now stands."

Before Davies' announcement, workers at the yard threatened to seize control of the company if the government refused to pump in more aid.

Livestock Sales Down

EDMONTON (CP) — Farm cash receipts during the first four months of the year were about the same as last year but manufacturing activity in Alberta this year increased compared with the same time last year, the Alberta Bureau of Statistics said today.

The bureau, in its report for May, said large increases in receipts for oats, barley and rapeseed more than offset decreased receipts for wheat, flaxseed and sugar beets during the first four months of 1971.

However, total receipts for livestock decreased 12 per cent to $1.8 million during the first quarter of 1971 compared with $2.1 million for the first quarter of 1970.

Manufacturing activity slowed during the January-February period this year but took a big jump in March "resulting in a slight increase over 1970 in first-quarter value of shipments."

The value of lumber sold over the first quarter was more than double that of 1970.

Pollution Permit Sought

The Richfield Oil Company of America has applied to U.S. federal agencies for permission to dump 3,740,000 gallons of effluent daily into Georgia Strait from its refinery at Cherry Point, Washington.

The company's request has already been approved by the State of Washington. Federal approval, determined by Army Corps of Engineers, is also necessary before final permission can be granted.

The Seattle Department of the Army Corps of Engineers and the Northwestern Region of Water Quality Office of the Conservation Protection Agency will hold a joint hearing on the application June 22 at 7 p.m. in the Church of Assumption in Bellingham, Washington. Organizations and individuals opposed to the company's request, are invited to submit briefs outlining their objections.

James Behlke, executive assistant director of the Department of Ecology of Washington State, said waste that Richfield wants to dump would not pose a serious pollution hazard. There have been three refineries in the area since 1954. Annual surveys conducted by the state have shown that the marine biota has not significantly altered.

Behlke said that only problem has been oil spills, but that these have nothing to do with the effluent that is being dumped.

Oil Additive Use Defended

CHICAGO (AP) — Anthony (Andy) Granatelli, president of STP Corp., said that a consumer magazine's statement that STP oil additive is little more than an oil thickener was "untrue, unfair and completely distorted."

Consumer Reports, published by Consumers Union, Mount Vernon, N.Y., reported that use of STP could void auto manufacturers' guarantees.

Granatelli said in a statement: "Consumers Union appears to be acting recklessly under the cloak of a recent supreme Court decision which says that consumer groups may attack business without fear of legal responsibility under certain conditions.

He said STP is designed to keep engine oil thick in hot weather when oil thins.

"As for the Consumers Union inference that STP may violate car warranties, that is another deliberate distortion of the truth.

Nations Must Curb Wages, Says Report

BASEL, Switzerland (AP) — The Bank for International Settlements warned the Western world's government's today that they must fight inflation by curbing "leaping wages" despite the unpopularity of such measures.

In its annual report, the clearing house for the West's central banks said recent events have shown "more strikingly than ever before that wage policy is an instrument which should be more fully exploited."

"It is a challenge to political leadership which cannot be brushed aside," said the report signed by the bank's new French general manager, Rene Larre.

Labor legislation may have to be strengthened, the influence of government may need to be used more effectively, and public opinion must be brought to see the realities of the problem.

How to Stop Pollution Without Shouting

By DONNA CLEMENTS

LAKE COWICHAN — John Clark is a pollution-fighter who doesn't run around crying wolf.

In a quiet, low-key way he gets pollution cleaned up here.

Rather than running to the news media screaming "they are polluting, they are polluting!" Clark, president of the local SPEC group, has found excellent co-operation in most areas by first approaching the offender before giving the crime publicity.

•

"They know that if they don't co-operate then there will be plenty of anti-publicity," he said.

"Our group uses the positive approach. Instead of going and attacking companies and other offenders for being so rotten we go and suggest how good it would look if they would do something about it."

Clark, 28, father of two boys, is principal at Honeymoon Bay Elementary.

He has been president of the 90-member group since it was formed with the assistance of Cowichan-Malahat SPEC president Kurt Horn, 18 months ago.

"We wanted a SPEC group in the Cowichan Lake area because we have many pollutions problems — mainly water pollution," he explained.

•

"There are a lot of problems with bark, logging debris, floatnig snags and deadheads caused by the two sawmills as well as several log dumps and loadouts situated on the lake."

Although most of the anti-pollution group's activities have been concentrated on local problems it sends off telegrams and letters just as rapidly as other SPEC groups when it comes to national controversies.

Clark found BCFP's Cowichan sawmill division at Youbou co-operative when he approached it about problems such as debris escaping booms or rubbish falling into the lake from its burning area.

It purchased a $17,000 cherry picker to dispose of the debris and to keep it out of the lake," Clark said. It also moved its burning area back from the lake.

Since SPEC was formed BCFP has built a large retaining wall to hold its hog fuel back from the lake.

BCFP is also considering new septic tank installations about the mill to replace its outdated ones.

Clark said Western Forest Industries at Honeymoon Bay has been most co-operative in all areas except one — "the fly ash and oily smoke that continually streams out of its smoke stack."

•

"WFI said it is not prepared to spend the large amount of money it would cost to correct the problem."

However, under its own initiative Clark said the mill installed a hydraulic settling pond, "with encouragement from us" it set up a wild flower reserve on several acres of land where there are numerous rare species of wild flowers; and it installed tanks for tugs to dump their bilges into.

Other projects SPEC has worked on are: pushing for the inclusion of the Nitinat Triangle into the Pacific Rim National Park; publicizing and holding public meetings urging a sewer system in Lake Cowichan (the $977,000 referendum was just recently defeated but Clark feels the provincial government should be prepared to pay bigger shares on such schemes to small communities).

•

SPEC also had a cleanup of the Cowichan River bottom, using a dozen skin divers and bringing up two truck loads of broken glass and metal.

This SPEC president feels optimistic that there will be a world to live in in 50 years but expressed his apprehension about what type of world it may be.

"I don't believe that we will all be dead within nine years as predicted by some world scientists," he said. "I think that man is really awakening to the seriousness of the problem of pollution but it is frightening to think of the type of world we are going to have to live in 50 years from now with the expected population growth we are going to have."

•

Clark said it is certain that our lifestyle is going to to undergo many more drastic changes than it has over the past 50 years.

"I am afraid that man is going to lose some if his human qualities and he will become more and more estranged and unnatural and tense compared to what he is today. Artificiality will creep in more and more like it is already being done with our food, air and water."

Clark said there isn't going to be much progress in combating pollution in British Columbia until "the provincial government smartens up.

•

"They are still thinking in the days of when progress was the magic word. Other nations have realized that unchecked progress is disasterous and have put the brakes on. There are few countries that will tolerate the desecration that we will."

Celebrators Hit Hard By Court

LAKE COWICHAN — Five Cowichan Valley residents have been fined $300 and two others were sentenced to 21 days in jail for impaired driving after they were picked up during Cowichan Lake's centennial celebrations a week ago.

In court here Friday, Gordon Feltham, 24, Lloyd Henry, 36, William Kono, 35, all of Lake Cowichan, and John Brenton, 41, and Wayne Nekleva, 20, both of Duncan, were fined $300.

Ronald James Nesbitt, 39, of Lake Cowichan, was sentenced to 21 days in jail for his second offence.

James Joseph, 31, of Nitinat, had been sentenced to 21 days in jail for his second offence of impaired driving.

Commandos Going to Sea

The Canadian Airborne Regiment's two commando units from Edmonton will go to sea along the Southwest Coast of Vancouver Island later this month.

Airborne Commando 2, commanded by Maj. M. D. Barr, will be involved in a training exercise June 19-30 and Airborne Commando 1, commanded by Maj. J. G. Dion, will participate June 29-July 11. In all, about 450 paratroopers will take part in the training.

The exercise will involve sea operations aboard the destroyer-escorts Qu'Appelle and St. Croix, based in Esquimalt, and the submarine Rainbow and land operations near Tofino.

The exercise is intended to provide training for the airborne soldiers in airlift deploy, embarkation and disembarkation procedures in naval destroyers, beach landings by rubber assault boats and search and destroy missions ashore.

Student Wins

DUNCAN — Neil Goodings of Chemainus Secondary won first prize in the final judging of the woodworking competition for Cowichan Valley Students Sunday.

Neil was awarded with a skill saw kit by the Cowichan Valley Hoo Hoo Club, sponsors of the competition, at the forest museum here.

Semi-finalists were: Malkit S. Sall, Cowichan Senior Secondary, Joe Doherty, Lake Cowichan Secondary and David Smith, Ladysmith Secondary.

New Hearing Aid
SUPPRESSES BACKGROUND NOISES

A pioneer manufacturer of hearing aids has developed a unique microphone design which permits "selective hearing" — enabling the hearing aid wearer to hear what he wants to hear more clearly, without interference from background noises.

A spokesman for Maico Hearing Instruments of Minneapolis said that a new hearing aid, the "DirectionEar Mark 100," will be the first to use the new microphone. He described the operation of the microphone as a "dephasing action." It incorporates a matchhead-sized block of more than 300 microscopic glass tubes, which have the effect of slowing sound impulses received from the rear, throwing them "out of phase" with the same impulses from the front. The result is a considerable cancellation of these impulses. At the same time, front-entering sound (from the direction the wearer is facing), creates the strongest impulses for amplification. These sounds are clearer and more understandable because of the lessened amplification of background noises.

Extensive test marketing of aids using the new microphone has revealed remarkable improvement for wearers, particularly in the area of speech reception. The difficulties of a new wearer in adapting to an aid are also said to be considerably lessened.

Most noticeable improvement for present hearing aid wearers is the suppression of most background noises, better speech understanding, and ability to "focus" on a speaker or other sound source.

A special 10-minute comparison demonstration has been developed for the new aid, to enable dealers to show present hearing aid wearers the improvement made possible by the new microphone design. The aid may be seen locally at

The First Canadian Bank

You may feel shy about asking your Bank of Montreal manager for a loan. You needn't be. If a loan will help you out, your branch manager is sure to understand perfectly.

At the Bank of Montreal, we're flexible about granting loans. Each application is judged on its merits. And, when you get your loan, it amounts to more than just dollars and cents. You get your money's worth in financial advice, follow-up services, and straight information about how to handle your banking affairs.

Rich people are always getting advice from their bank manager. We see no reason why you shouldn't have that advice, too. You may not become wealthy — although you might — but you certainly would know how to get the most for your money. And that means you'd more than likely do better than you're doing now. We want you to get your money's worth.

Three loan applicants: Who got their money's worth?

He owed too much money:
Robert M. is a carpet salesman. Last year, when his wife became ill, Robert found his medical coverage was insufficient. He felt he needed to borrow $2,500. His Bank of Montreal manager loaned him $3,500 to pay all his bills. Consolidating these debts reduced his rate of interest. Robert feels he got his money's worth.

He wanted to "hit the road":
Joe G., a T.V. repairman, loves the country. A mobile camper was his dream. His Bank of Montreal manager lent him $4,000 to buy a camper and showed him how to dovetail the loan with a savings plan. Joe now takes his family on weekend campouts, has a good time, and his savings are growing steadily. He got his money's worth.

She got more elbow room:

Quebec Asking Too Much—PM

ARRIVING FOR START of constitutional conference at the legislature this morning are Prime Minister Trudeau, Premier Bennett and hundreds of other provincial and federal officials as crowd of spectators and assorted protesters watch. (Bill Halkett photo.)

A Day of Signs And Roses for PM

By CLEMENT CHAPPLE

A loud military band ensured a good turnout of parade-watchers this morning for Canada's first ministers as they motored in open cars through downtown Victoria before entering the fourth session of the constitutional conference.

Riding alone in the back seat of an aqua Cadillac, Prime Minister Trudeau waved good-naturedly at people — mostly shop-keepers and tourists — who gathered on street corners.

One elderly lady on Fort brandished her umbrella like a rifle in the prime minister's direction and Trudeau acknowledged by shrinking into the collar of his suit.

But later on Yates the insult was softened when a young lady in a blue jump suit ran out to the prime minister's car and handed him a red rose.

Trudeau already wore a customary red carnation in the lapel of his blue suit.

Other than a few quiet comments along downtown streets there was little adverse reaction to the presence of the prime minister and the premiers.

However, in front of the Legislative buildings a small group waved women's liberation posters and chanted slogans.

One of them tried to break through a RCMP cordon, waiving an envelope containing a copy of a brief, but failed to deliver it to Trudeau.

They then settled for chanting "Implement the Status of Women report."

Beside them a group of pro-confederation demonstrators of about 20 stood silently behind the police cordon.

In all, there were about 200 people gathered in front of the Buildings.

SHAKE HANDS

As the premiers left their cars they gathered briefly to shake hands and pose for photographers before heading directly into the legislative chamber to begin the session at almost exactly the scheduled 10:30 a.m.

The motorcade started at The Empress, threatened by a light shower, but wended its way on a small circuit of the downtown area under increasingly sunny skies.

Besides the lady who delivered the rose here were several men and women who ran on to the street to shake Trudeau's hand.

At one point the driver of a green Volkswagen gestured at the prime minister, complaining about the traffic holdup caused by the parade.

The p.m. returned with his famous shrug.

By BRUCE YEMEN

Prime Minister Trudeau today warned the constitutional conference that provincial control of income security programs would hurt the poor in the poorer provinces, including Quebec.

He also warned that failure to agree on a formula to patriate the Canadian constitution could mean it would be "long before we find another occasion" for such an agreement.

The dual warning made clear federal opposition to Quebec demands for full control of social policy — including income security programs — in return for agreement on an amending formula for the constitution.

Trudeau called for a full effort by the conference to achieve an amending formula to remove "once and for all the last remnant of a condition that is not worthy of Canada as a free and independent country."

Bringing the constitution back to Canada and out from control of the British Parliament is "the way to ensure that we can progress in the years ahead," Trudeau said in his opening statement.

The prime minister said the federal government "is not taking a negative attitude" toward changes in programs such as social policy.

But he said that provincial control of income security payments such as that proposed by Quebec would "erode" federal income security programs.

This would be caused partly by the reluctance of federal taxpayers to pay taxes to Ottawa to support social policy programs controlled by other provinces than their own, he said.

"The old and the poor in the wealthier provinces might do as well in such circumstances as if the federal government were making the payments, but in other provinces, including Quebec, the tax base would not support as good income security benefits payments as Parliament could provide," Trudeau said.

Rush Constitution, Get to Jobs—WAC

Premier Bennett today called for swift approval of a constitution amending formula to enable the constitutional conference to get down to the "most urgent need confronting the nation today."

The provision of jobs, he said, is a more important priority than the constitution but B.C. agrees with the need for a formula to amend and patriate the constitution.

Bennett, in welcoming the delegates to the conference, wasted little time in renewing his attacks on Ottawa for what he called unfair treatment of the province.

B.C. is "unalterably opposed" to equalization payments by Ottawa to provincial governments, he said, adding that direct payments to individuals would be more effective.

CANADIAN ENVOY FAR EAST EXPERT

SEABORN
. . . warned Hanoi

J. Blair Seaborn, (left) the Canadian diplomat reported to have carried out a secret mission on behalf of the United States to Hanoi in 1964, was a member of the International Control Commission, a neutral truce team in Southeast Asia.

Seaborn later, as the head of the Eastern division of Canada's external affairs department, was involved in negotiations with Peking which led to diplomatic recognition of mainland China.

His 1964 secret mission to Hanoi apparently was to issue a warning that U.S. patience was "growing thin" with North Vietnam following the Gulf of Tonkin incident.

★

Neutral Canada Carried Threat For Pentagon

WASHINGTON (WP) — The Johnson administration planned major American military action against North Vietnam nearly five months before the 1964 Tonkin Gulf incident, according to secret government documents made public Sunday by the New York Times.

These plans were made, the documents show, at a time when the United States already was directing clandestine sabotage operations in the north.

U.S. Sends Seaborn

Two months before the attack on two American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin on Aug. 2 and 4, 1964, the administration sent a Canadian diplomat, J. Blair Seaborn, on a secret mission to Hanoi where he is quoted as telling Premier Pham Văn Dong that "in the event of escalation (of the war) the greatest devastation would result for the D.R.V. (North Vietnam) itself."

It was the Tonkin incident — called totally unprovoked by the administration — which led Congress on Aug. 7 to pass a resolution declaring that the United States was "prepared, as the president directs, to take all necessary steps, including the use of armed force," to assist South Vietnam. It was on this resolution that President Johnson subsequently leaned heavily to widen the war.

The documents are part of a vast collection of records and comments assembled under the direction of then Secretary of Defence Robert S. McNamara. The bulk of the documents disclosed thus far by the Times were of military origin but included some White House and State Department papers that reached the Pentagon. Other documents were only alluded to or quoted from in the newspaper's story.

Memorandum Detailed Aims

A national security action memorandum of March 17, 1964, presumably the result of a presidential decision, set out both the administration's political aims and the basis for its military planning. A cable sent three days later by the president to Henry Cabot Lodge, then the American ambassador in Saigon, illuminates his intentions.

The memorandum said that "we seek an independent non-communist South Vietnam" but "do not require that it serve as a western base or as a member of a western alliance. South Vietnam must be free, however, to accept outside assistance as required to maintain its security."

Repeating language from a McNamara memorandum of March 16 to the president (language in part drawn in turn from a memorandum to McNamara on Jan. 22 from the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Maxwell Taylor) the NSC document reflects the prevailing belief in what former President Eisenhower had called the

Cost of Living Continues Up

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The consumer price index, reflecting the cost of living in Canada, rose by half a point in May, bringing the overall index to 2.4 per cent above the figure for a year ago.

The index, based on 1961 prices equalling 100, rose to 132.7 from 132. in April. It was 129.6 in May of 1970.

This means that it cost $13.27 last month to buy what $13.22 would have bought in April, or what $12.96 would have bought in May last year.

COST $10 IN 1961

The same package of goods and services of equivalent quality cost $10 in 1961. That is the basis of the price index, which is geared to the purchasing habits of average urban families.

The bureau said all the principal components of the price index rose, with the biggest increases in food, transportation, health and personal care, and tobacco and alcohol. The latter rose to reflect higher beer prices.

Of special significance was an acceleration in the rate of price increases. In percentage terms, last month's over-all index was 2.4 per cent ahead of a year earlier. In the last several months, this year-over-year rate of increase has been less than two per cent.

Most economists regard an annual rate of price increase of two per cent or less as generally consistent with price stability. The bureau noted, however, that the May index indicated prices had already risen 2.2 per cent this year. Early in 1970, prices were climbing 4.5 to five per cent a year.

The index is based on a monthly survey of retail prices of more than 300 goods and services representative of the purchases of urban, low to medium-income families.

Because it now cost $13.27 to buy $10 worth of consumer goods and services at 1961 prices, the consumer dollar has withered away in purchasing value by 25 cents in 10 years. On the basis of the old consumer price index formerly based on 1949 prices equalling 100, it would have cost $17.14 last month to buy $10 worth of 1949 goods and services.

DBS has no exactly parallel index of family incomes, but the latest available data on average weekly wages and salaries paid in a broad cross-section of industry showed $131.59 a week was paid in February, compared with $130.82 in January and $124.14 in February a year ago.

That showed an increase of six per cent in average weekly wages and salaries in the year, while in that same period—the 12 months to February this year — the consumer price index rose 1.7 per cent. In the three months since then, consumer prices have risen a further 1.4 per cent.

COSMONAUTS CAST BALLOTS FROM SPACE

TIMES NEWS SERVICES

MOSCOW — Three Russian cosmonauts Sunday became the first to cast a ballot from space — voting the straight Communist Party line in the U.S.S.R.'s parliamentary elections.

Cosmonauts Georgi Dobrovolsky, Vladislav Volkov and Viktor Patsayev voted "for the candidates of the inviolable bloc of Communists and non-party members. We vote for the wise foreign and domestic policy of our Communist party, for the implementation of the grandiose plans of the new five-year economic plan."

A Man With Pull Turns The Nose of Our Man's Girl

By IAN HAMILTON

Having you girlfriend's nose pinched — friendly like — by Justice Minister John Turner leaves a jealous man wondering about the justice of it all.

Especially if that man is a reporter under the same roof with almost all of Canada's major poliical figures and all they'll do is pull his leg.

Frivolous behavior, but it did capture the relaxed outward spirit of most national leaders Sunday night at the Empress as they settled in for three days of pressure at the constitutional conference.

"I'm always relaxed when I'm doing something," said Justice Minister Turner, sporting a sly grin in the hotel lobby minutes after the innocent nose job.

The incident occurred just as he stepped out of his hotel room. Stopped by the couple sleuthing out dignitaries on the hotel's upper levels, he flashed a wide grin and exchanged pleasantries.

Then the charmer who once danced with Princess Margaret pulled the nose and, no pun intended, walked on to more serious affairs.

If he felt concerned about the importance of this meeting to Canada's future, this man who did most of the federal backgrounding work for Prime Minister Trudeau's conference position wasn't reflecting it.

★

Neither were most of the other leaders as they wandered around the hotel in holiday spirits.

B.C. Premier Bennett paused long enough in an elevator trip to a buffet lunch with his visiting peers to say the weather is cool and "it's going to be a very cool conference."

Prime Minister Trudeau checked into the Empress at 3:30 p.m. Sunday without his wife and took up residence in the vice-regal suite where the private luncheon was held four hours later.

His wife will join him from a private retreat some time today, according to hotel officials.

All of the other leaders arrived at the hotel by Sunday afternoon, except Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba who was delayed because of plane connections. He joined the other prime ministers shortly before 10 p.m.

The buffet dinner was private, and although photographers were allowed in for quick group shots, reporters were given no idea what conversations occurred.

If some agreement was reached on the all-important subject of constitutional amendment, the public will have to await formal announcement.

With all attending prime ministers in residence with their staffs, hotel officials say they are not taking any special security measures.

★

But they are quick to point out that "almost every second man" in the lobbies and corridors is an RCMP officer.

There were reports that ministers went into conference immediately upon arrival Sunday but Justice Minister Turner denied the reports.

"We've just been poking around the city seeing the sights thus far," he said.

All nose pinching aside, the real work begins today.

Trudeau Materializes In Brentwood Church

You may have seen a familiar figure around Victoria over the weekend but the informal garb fooled you.

It could have been Prime Minister Trudeau.

Few people knew where he stayed Friday and Saturday but the moment he came out of hiding it was hard to miss the sporty dresser.

Clad in kerchief, striped shirt, white slacks and sneakers, he surprised 50 Brentwood residents when he walked into Our Lady of Assumption Church unannounced for the noon mass Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The night before he led a party of five, excluding his wife, from his retreat which may or may not have been a friend's home in the Brentwood area, and dined at Deep Dove Chalet.

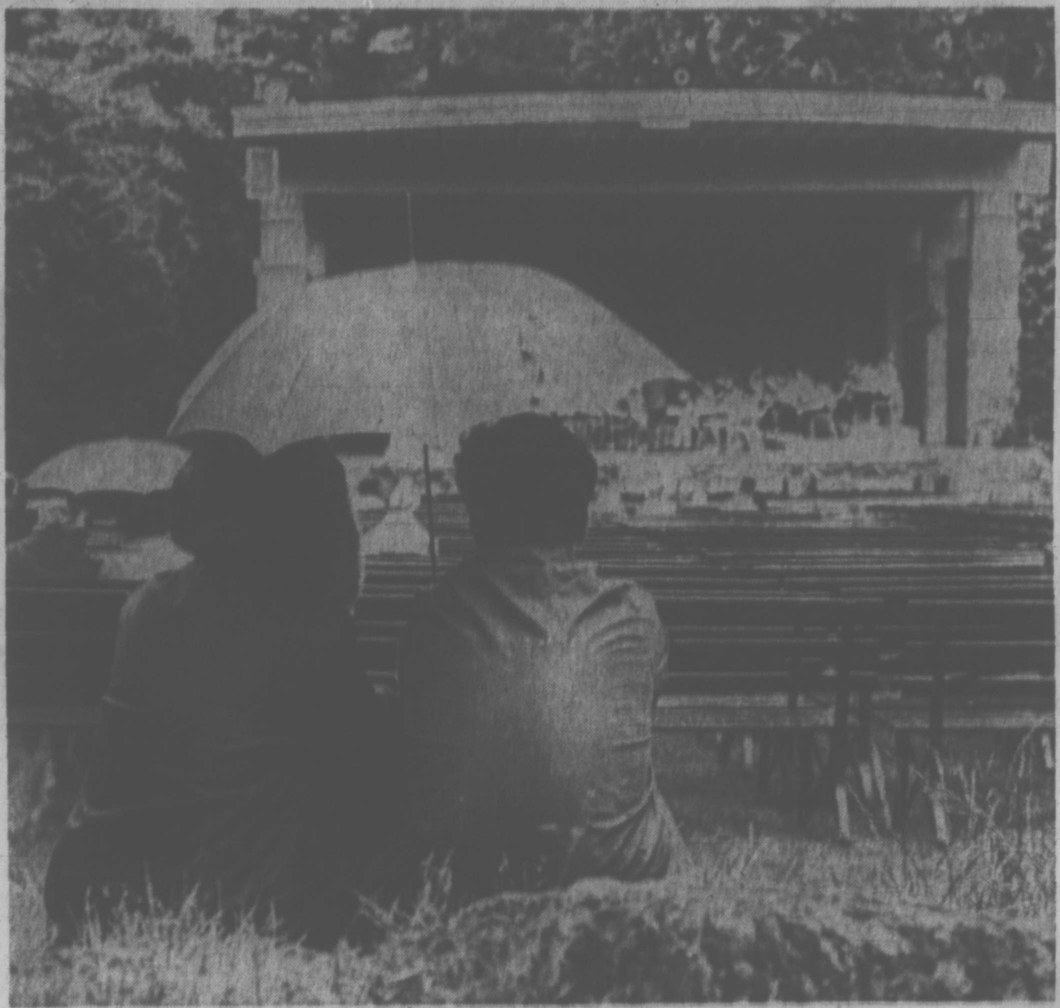
He strolled into the church and sat down beside a couple of church-goers who apparently didn't recognize him until he was introduced later.

★ ★ ★

After mass he signed autographs for children and chatted with those around him, including Sister Terry Lewis, who played guitar during the service.

Saturday's dinner party was, again, an informal affair. Chalet owner Bill Cole said the prime minister and a small group of aides and security men relaxed for a couple of hours over a buffet.

Shortly after the church service he checked into The Empress vice-regal suite where he will reside until termination of the conference.



A MISERABLE DAY Sunday was not enough to discourage this pair, and a few other spectators, from enjoying a concert put on by the Reynolds Senior Secondary band. In fact, these music fans must have been braver than most because they were outnumbered by the 100-member band. It was a day when perhaps the most valuable instrument was an umbrella. Uvic Panel Man Being Replaced

By BRIAN BUTTERS

A member of the advisory board looking into the cases of three dismissed University of Victoria professors is being replaced amid charges he has a partial attitude in the circumstances surrounding the cases.

The action comes after Dr. Vladimir Okulich resigned his membership in the Canadian Association of University Teachers.

Okulich, dean of science at the University of British Columbia, resigned from CAUT in a letter sent to CAUT president Dr. Gordin Kaplan May 17.

He said in his letter:

"The reason for this decision is my complete disagreement with the actions of CAUT in the recent censures of several universities. I strongly believe that universities have the right to dismiss or not renew appointments of individuals who for one reason or another are no longer desirable members of the institution.

LOOKS AT CAUT

One of the terms of reference of the advisory board appointed by the Uvic board of governors is that it investiate the CAUT's handling of the cases of the three professors.

Okulich said in the letter, "CAUT actions are harmful to the universities, the academic standards and the students and seem to reflect a left-wing radical mentality. In many ways CAUT is beginning to act like a trade union instead of a professional association.

"Since I am completely out of sympathy with such trends I do not wish any longer to be connected with the association."

REPLACEMENT FOUND

Solicitor for the advisory board, lawyer David Williams, said today a tentative replacement has been found for Okulich and that Chief Justice J. O. Wilson, who had recommended the original three members — Okulich, former Alberta Supreme Court Chief Justice Colin McLaurin, and Vancouver lawyer A. B. Carrothers — had recommended the replacement.

The board of governors, which appointed the advisory board according to section 53 of the Universities Act, is meeting this afternoon to act on the recommendation.

If approved, the replacement will sit on the board for its first hearings Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Uvic.

Uvic Faculty Association president Dr. Charles Doyle made this statement in connection with Okulich's letter to CAUT:

"Since imposing of censures, only three members have resigned from CAUT. Two of these are from the University of Victoria, the other is Dean Okulich. Since the members of the advisory board were, in the event, chosen by the University of Victoria administration, and since Okulich was the last member of the advisory board to be appointed . . . there must be very serious doubt that the appointment was made in good faith."

'MISGIVINGS'

"At any rate, with regard to the way in which the panel (advisory board) was set up, this development proves that our misgivings are entirely justified."

Doyle said today, "Any conservative is open to calling anyone less conservative than himself a 'left-wing radical.' By the same token, a progressive is open to call anyone less progressive than himself a right-wing reactionary.'"

The cases of the three professors — Dr. Tikam Jain, Dr. William Goede and Toby Graff — have been in dispute for a year. Students and faculty have voted nonconfidence in president Bruce J. Partridge over the issue and the CAUT imposed censure on Partridge early in May.

The idea of an advisory board was recommended by a group of the full professors at Uvic after Partridge had asked them to meet to try to find a solution to the dispute.

The faculty association and the three professors have refused to appear before the advisory board because they say it was appointed without them being consulted. Student president Ian J. McKinnon has also endorsed the boycott of the board's hearings.

Market Clerks Okay Pay Offer

Supermarket clerks in the Victoria and Vancouver areas have agreed to a new contract which will raise pay by 19.75 per cent over two years, it was announced Sunday.

The vote was 93 per cent in favor among the 3,500 members of the Retail Food and Drug Clerks Union employed at major supermarket companies, including Canada Safeway, Super-Valu and Shop Easy.

Another 2,500 union members at independent supermarkets around the province are expected to get the same settlement later, said union secretary-treasurer Rudy Krickan of Vancouver.

The new contract will raise the pay of a one-year clerk from $4.05 to $4.85 in two 40-cent increases, the first backdated to last April and the second next April.

Contracts between the supermarkets and the Amalgamated Meatcutters, representing 800 butchers, and the Bakery and Confectionary Workers, representing 600 workers, have not yet been ratified.

Meanwhile, the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union is still negotiating with Macdonald Consolidated, which supplies Safeway. Strike and lockout notices have been served but legal action is not possible until mediator Clive McKee's term expires Saturday.

Pierre's Grins Don't Appease Women's Lib

By HELEN MELNYK

It's pretty intimidating to stand in front of a crowd, talking about women's rights through a bull-horn, while a man is hanging on to your arm threatening to punch you out.

That was my initiation this morning into participation in grass roots Canadian democracy.

The Victoria Women's Caucus decided that women should have some say in the constitutional conference. So about 20 of us, joined by the Voice of Women and The Vancouver Women's Alliance, paced the lawns of the Legislative Buildings, waving placards, handing out leaflets and making speeches to the crowd.

Meanwhile, the entourage of Prime Minister Trudeau and the provincial premiers drove up to the strains of the Scottish pipers and marched inside.

The doors of the legislative were closed and the RCMP would not let anyone enter.

We managed to break through the cordon of RCMP to hand a copy of our brief to Premier Bennett. A second attempt to dodge the RCMP officers to reach Trudeau was unsuccessful — they catch on fast.

Trudeau flashed a charming smile while we chanted "Implement the Royal Commission on the Status of Women." However, it wasn't his smile that we wanted; but to give him the brief.

Finally after repeated requests Trudeau sent an aide over.

"Go home" someone yelled.

I wondered why the hell a peaceful citizen like me was demonstrating on my day off when I could be sleeping in.

●

The brief, handed out requested the following recommendations of the Royal Commission on the Status of Women be implemented: abortion on demand, paid maternity leave, establishment of 24-hour day care centres, equal pay for equal work, the setting up of a Protection of Women's Rights Commission to be set up to enforce anti-discriminatory legislation for women.

In the brief the pledge Trudeau made in a speech in March in Toronto is cited . . . "I pledge that the Liberal government will work towards the removal of discrimination and the provision of opportunity to women in all fields of Canadian life."

"We are taking you up on your words, Mr. Prime Minister," states the diet. "We ter," states the brief. "We also request that federal, provincial and municipal governments unite to actualize this pledge."

The brief was drawn up in the hopes the premiers and prime minister would be made aware that existing laws have to be changed and new ones made so that women get the opportunity and encouragement to actively participate in politics.

Pat Blakeman of the Caucus said: "As long as there is only one woman in Parliament to represent 51 per cent of the female population, Canada is no true democracy."

It was rather discouraging to stand outside protesting, watching the men go in to make the decisions.

Ask The Times

Q: What were the launch dates and names of the crews of the Russian space ships Soyuz 6, Soyuz 7, and Soyuz 8.

A: Soyuz 6, 7 and 8 were launched on Oct. 11, 1969, Oct. 12, 1969, and Oct. 13, 1969 respectively in a program of joint experiments and docking manoeuvres. Soyuz 6 carried Georgy Shonin and Valery Kubashov. On Soyuz 7 were Anatoly Filipchenko, Vladislav Volkov, and Victor Gorbatko. On Soyuz 8 were Alexei Yeliseyev, and Vladimir Shatalov.

Police Using Public As Lever—Commission

Victoria police union is attempting to use public opinion as a lever in negotiations with the police commission, commission lawyer Ed Pearlman said today.

Pearlman at first declined to comment on contents of a 20-point statement released by the union Saturday.

"I don't believe in conducting negotiations through the news media," he said. "I think the public is entitled to a certain amount of information, but when it comes to propaganda I think we should draw the line."

Asked if he thought the police union, by issuing the statement, was negotiating through the news media, he replied:

"No question about it."

PARITY GOAL

The five-page statement said parity with police in the Vancouver area has been the goal of the Victoria police union since its formation in 1946.

In 1966 they were only $8 a month apart, but since then the gap has widened, and as of April this year a first-class constable in Vancouver received $67 a month more than one in Victoria.

If the union accepted a 7½ per cent pay increase by July 1 a constable first-class in Victoria would be getting $104 a month less than his colleague in Vancouver where bigger wage increases were won last month, the statement said.

Police in Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Vancouver get paid time-and-a-half for overtime, the statement says, but in Victoria they have to take time off for overtime.

A first-class RCMP constable gets $883 a month across Canada, but the comparable rate on the Victoria police department is $728.

Officers in Greater Victoria face just as many physical dangers as officers in major Canadian metropolitan centres, the statement says, citing incidents in recent years in which three Victoria officers have been shot and wounded, and the killing of one Saanich officer.

The statement also mentions the "soaring increase" in crime as a "cross-Canada cancer," and cites the increase in value of stolen property, traffic accidents and juvenile arrests.

It also says policemen have to live at a higher standard than other citizens because as policemen they have a responsibility to serve as models to the community.

Maritime Museum To Trim Budget

The trustees of the B.C. Maritime Museum will meet Tuesday to pare the museum's budget in order to meet the $3,250 loss in revenue from municipal grants.

Curator Bill Symons said recommendations from today's meeting of the executive committee would probably include a cutback in display materials and display area.

"But we're not going to die or close the place, don't ever worry."

The mueeum had asked for $7,000 from the Greater Victoria municipalities — $2,750 from Victoria, $1,000 from Oak Bay, $2,500 from Saanich and $750 from Esquimalt.

Grants have been received from Oak Bay and the city but Esquimalt rejected the museum's request.

Symons said the museum has not had an official reply from Saanich but he had learned "unofficially" that the municipality had decided it had no money available for the museum.

"It's really quite a shame that the Greater Victoria municipalities can't raise $7,000 to support a maritime museum that's the best on this coast and one of the finest in North America."

$1,000 FIRE STARTED BY CHILD

A child playing with matches started a fire this morning at 2518 Quadra that did about $1,000 damage to an upstairs room, a fire department spokesman said.

A spokesman said firemen were called about 8:15 a.m. to fight the blaze that started in a cupboard. He said walls, the ceiling and toys in the room were damaged.

The house is owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mowbray.

Horse's Behooving Tale

The local Conquer Cancer Campaign has received a certified cheque for $74 signed with the name—Jubileevit.

Jubileevit is a horse. She earned the money herself.

And thereby hangs a tale.

About two years ago when she was just a frisky filly at the Terobe Farm of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McGillivray, 3955 Holland Rd. in Saanich, a friend of the family spotted her and liked her lines.

He gave the McGillivrays $5 to bet on Jubileevit's nose in her first race. But he died of cancer before the horse went to the post.

Jubileevit ran her first race last month with the $5 on her to win. She did.

The Conquer Cancer Campaign seemed the appropriate place to send the money but the McGillivrays wanted the cheque signed with the horse's name. The bank was a bit sticky about it but finally went along. After all, the cheque was certified.

Frank Nicholson, secretary-treasurer of Greater Victoria's Conquer Cancer Campaign, is delighted.

It gives him a chance to note the campaign is still under way and short of its $60,000 objective.

Donations total $51,739.17, about $900 short of where they stood at this time last year. Contributions can be sent to P.O. Box 202 in Victoria and should be made payable to the Conquer Cancer Campaign.

Police Barracks Hit

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A bomb explosion damaged a police living quarters today, climaxing night-long trouble in which crowds of youths stoned security forces and threw gasoline bombs.

BEST-MADE VIOLIN in the annual competition of the Violinmakers' Association of B.C. went to Ragnar Helin, left, of Burnaby, who was also awarded the Centennial Grand Trophy for best instrument in the contest here Saturday. Archie Shold, right, of 2740 Dewdney, took second place in the violin category. Violas and cellos were also entered in the contest which was held at the Provincial Museum. Instruments were judged for quality and power of tone, and for playability and workmanship. (Ian McKain photo.)

They'll Meet Gaglardi

Four women representing the Housecleaning Rehabilitation Association this afternoon were to meet Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi to discuss possible assistance for their project.

The group, which now numbers 35, was formed at the beginning of the year under the auspices of the Victoria Low Income Group to provide part-time housework for welfare mothers.

Following a break from the Low Income Group in April they applied for a $15,500 grant under the Canada Assistance Act to be shared equally by the provincial and federal governments.

Gaglardi, replying to the women's request, invited their representatives to meet him.

The grant, if it is approved, would cover office and transportation expenses and pay the salary of a social worker-consultant.

Debris Spotted

HONOLULU (UPI) — A military rescue plane spotted debris today in an area of the Pacific Ocean where a U.S. Air Force C135 vanished Sunday with 24 persons aboard while on a seemingly mysterious mission.

Sidney Clarke Ells Funeral Wednesday

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. in Oak Bay United Chuch for one of Canada's foremost mining engineers, Sidney Clarke Ells, who died Friday at Royal Jubilee Hospital at 92.

A man of many talents, Ells wrote 14 publications; one of the best-known being Northland Trails in which he described life in the north through his poetry, prose and illustrations.

It was his interest in the Athabaska tar sands that led to the development of the huge trace that spreads across north Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba into the Northwest Territories.

A descendant of a Massachusetts family that settled in Nova Scotia's Cornwallis Valley in the 1780s, Ells was born Sept. 29, 1878 at Amherst, N.S.

Like his father, he was a graduate of McGill University, receiving his BA in 1900 and his BSc in 1908.

His interest in geology was stimulated by his father, who was chief geologist for the federal department of mines for many years.

Ells himself earned his mining certificate in Nova Scotia, was a mine surveyor and engineer for railroads in Ontario before joining the department of mines in 1900.

He worked as a mining engineer in Ontario, British Columbia and Quebec, supervising the building of many mine roads and trails in B.C.

Still standing in Edmonton is a street he constructed of material from the Athabasca tar sands.

He served in many countries, on loan from the federal department.

During the First World War he served overseas with the Royal Engineers and during the Second World War was responsible for the inspection of 70 Canadian airports, made necessary by the British Commonwealth Training Program for air crews.

Ells constructed the Watson Lake airport in the Yukon Territories.

He is survived by three cousins, Miss Janet Christie, Dr. Hugh E. Christie and Charles B. Christie, all of Amherst. His wife, Irene, died here on April 29 of this year.

After Wednesday's service, which will be conducted by Rev. Alex Calder, Ells' ashes will be flown to Ottawa, to be buried at the family plot in Beechwood Cemetery.

CONTROL HITS POORER PROVINCES

Que. Asks Too Much—PM

ARRIVING FOR START of constitutional conference at the legislature this morning are Prime Minister Trudeau, Premier Bennett and hundreds of other provincial and federal officials as crowd of spectators and assorted protesters watch. (Bill Halkett photo.)

Amend BNA Act Now—Trudeau

By BRUCE YEMEN

Prime Minister Trudeau today warned the constitutional conference that provincial control of income security programs would hurt the poor in the poorer provinces, including Quebec.

He also warned that failure to agree on a formula to patriate the Canadian constitution could mean it would be "long before we find another occasion" for such an agreement.

The dual warning made clear federal opposition to Quebec demands for full control of social policy — including income security programs — in return for agreement on an amending formula for the constitution.

Trudeau called for a full effort by the conference to achieve an amending formula to remove "once and for all the last remnant of a condition that is not worthy of Canada as a free and independent country."

Bringing the constitution back to Canada and out from control of the British Parliament is "the way to ensure that we can progress in the years ahead," Trudeau said in his opening statement.

The prime minister said the federal government "is not taking a negative attitude" toward changes in programs such as social policy.

But he said that provincial control of income security payments such as that proposed by Quebec would "erode" federal income security programs.

This would be caused partly by the reluctance of federal taxpayers to pay taxes to Ottawa to support social policy programs controlled by other provinces than their own, he said.

"The old and the poor in the wealthier provinces might do as well in such circumstances as if the federal government were making the payments, but in other provinces, including Quebec, the tax base would not support as good income security benefits payments as Parliament could provide," Trudeau said.

Rush Constitution, Get to Jobs—WAC

Premier Bennett today called for swift approval of a constitution amending formula to enable the constitutional conference to get down to the "most urgent need confronting the nation today."

The provision of jobs, he said, is a more important priority than the constitution but B.C. agrees with the need for a formula to amend and patriate the constitution.

Bennett, in welcoming the delegates to the conference, wasted little time in renewing his attacks on Ottawa for what he called unfair treatment of the province.

B.C. is "unalterably opposed" to equalization payments by Ottawa to provincial governments, he said, adding that direct payments to individuals would be more effective.

CANADIAN ENVOY FAR EAST EXPERT

SEABORN
. . . warned Hanoi

J. Blair Seaborn, (left) the Canadian diplomat reported to have carried out a secret mission on behalf of the United States to Hanoi in 1964, was a member of the International Control Commission, a neutral truce team in Southeast Asia.

Seaborn later, as the head of the Eastern division of Canada's external affairs department, was involved in negotiations with Peking which led to diplomatic recognition of mainland China.

His 1964 secret mission to Hanoi apparently was to issue a warning that U.S. patience was "growing thin" with North Vietnam following the Gulf of Tonkin incident.

★

Neutral Canada Carried Threat For Pentagon

WASHINGTON (WP) — The Johnson administration planned major American military action against North Vietnam nearly five months before the 1964 Tonkin Gulf incident, according to secret government documents made public Sunday by the New York Times.

These plans were made, the documents show, at a time when the United States already was directing clandestine sabotage operations in the north.

U.S. Sends Seaborn

Two months before the attack on two American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin on Aug. 2 and 4, 1964, the administration sent a Canadian diplomat, J. Blair Seaborn, on a secret mission to Hanoi where he is quoted as telling Premier Pham Van Dong that "in the event of escalation (of the war) the greatest devastation would result for the D.R.V. (North Vietnam) itself."

It was the Tonkin incident — called totally unprovoked by the administration — which led Congress on Aug. 7 to pass a resolution declaring that the United States was "prepared, as the president directs, to take all necessary steps, including the use of armed force," to assist South Vietnam. It was on this resolution that President Johnson subsequently leaned heavily to widen the war.

The documents are part of a vast collection of records and comments assembled under the direction of then Secretary of Defence Robert S. McNamara. The bulk of the documents disclosed thus far by the Times were of military origin but included some White House and State Department papers that reached the Pentagon. Other documents were only alluded to or quoted from in the newspaper's story.

Memorandum Detailed Aims

A national security action memorandum of March 17, 1964, presumably the result of a presidential decision, set out both the administration's political aims and the basis for its military planning. A cable sent three days later by the president to Henry Cabot Lodge, then the American ambassador in Saigon, illuminates his intentions.

The memorandum said that "we seek an independent non-communist South Vietnam" but "do not require that it serve as a western base or as a member of a western alliance. South Vietnam must be free, however, to accept outside assistance as required to maintain its security."

Repeating language from a McNamara memorandum of March 16 to the president (language in part drawn in turn from a memorandum to McNamara on Jan. 22 from the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Maxwell Taylor) the NSC document reflects the prevailing belief in what former President Eisenhower had called the

By CLEMENT CHAPPLE

A loud military band ensured a good turnout of parade-watchers this morning for Canada's first ministers as they motored in open cars through downtown Victoria before entering the fourth session of the constitutional conference.

Riding alone in the back seat of an aqua Cadillac, Prime Minister Trudeau waved good-naturedly at people — mostly shop-keepers and tourists — who gathered on street corners.

One elderly lady on Fort brandished her umbrella like a rifle in the prime minister's direction and Trudeau acknowledged by shrinking into the collar of his suit.

But later on Yates the insult was softened when a young lady in a blue jump suit ran out to the prime minister's car and handed him a red rose.

Trudeau already wore a customary red carnation in the lapel of his blue suit.

Other than a few quiet comments along downtown streets there was little adverse reaction to the presence of the prime minister and the premiers.

However, in front of the Legislative buildings a small group waved women's liberation posters and chanted slogans.

One of them tried to break through a RCMP cordon, waiving an envelope containing a copy of a brief, but failed to deliver it to Trudeau.

They then settled for chanting "Implement the Status of Women report."

Beside them a group of pro-confederation demonstrators of about 20 stood silently behind the police cordon.

In all, there were about 200 people gathered in front of the Buildings.

SHAKE HANDS

As the premiers left their cars they gathered briefly to shake hands and pose for photographers before heading directly into the legislative chamber to begin the session at almost exactly the scheduled 10:30 a.m.

The motorcade started at The Empress, threatened by a light shower, but wended its way on a small circuit of the downtown area under increasingly sunny skies.

Besides the lady who delivered the rose here were several men and women who ran on to the street to shake Trudeau's hand.

At one point the driver of a green Volkswagen gestured at the prime minister, complaining about the traffic holdup caused by the parade.

The p.m. returned with his famous shrug.

Cost of Living Continues Up

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The consumer price index, reflecting the cost of living in Canada, rose by half a point in May, bringing the overall index to 2.4 per cent above the figure for a year ago.

The index, based on 1961 prices equalling 100, rose to 132.7 from 132. in April. It was 129.6 in May of 1970.

This means that it cost $13.27 last month to buy what $13.22 would have bought in April, or what $12.96 would have bought in May last year.

COST $10 IN 1961

The same package of goods and services of equivalent quality cost $10 in 1961. That is the basis of the price index, which is geared to the purchasing habits of average urban families.

The bureau said all the principal components of the price index rose, with the biggest increases in food, transportation, health and personal care, and tobacco and alcohol. The latter rose to reflect higher beer prices.

Of special significance was an acceleration in the rate of price increases. In percentage terms, last month's over-all index was 2.4 per cent ahead of a year earlier. In the last several months, this year-over-year rate of increase has been less than two per cent.

Most economists regard an annual rate of price increase of two per cent or less as generally consistent with price stability.

COSMONAUTS CAST BALLOTS FROM SPACE

TIMES NEWS SERVICES

MOSCOW — Three Russian cosmonauts Sunday became the first to cast a ballot from space — voting the straight Communist Party line in the U.S.S.R.'s parliamentary elections.

Cosmonauts Georgi Dobrovolsky, Vladislav Volkov and Viktor Parsayev voted "for the candidates of the inviolable bloc of Communists and non-party members. We vote for the wise foreign and domestic policy of our Communist party, for the implementation of the grandiose plans of the new five-year economic plan."
